NEW THAW MOVE TO OBTAIN DELAY

Attorneys Decide to Withdraw Habeas Corpus Writ—May Renew Application.

JEROME WILL FIGHT THEM

Holds That the Writ, as the King's Order, Cannot Be Obstructed.

LONG CONTEST EXPECTED

Thaw May Ask for a Jury Trial—Kennedy Demands His Deportation to New York.

Special to The New York Times.

SHERBROOKE, Quebec, Aug. 26.—Harry Kendall Thaw probably will not appear in the Superior Court to-morrow. The indications are that he will remain in Sherbrooke jail in defiance of the best efforts of the immigration authorities to lay hands on him for some days to come. To-night notice was served on the Clerk of the Superior Court by Thaw's counsel to the effect that the habeas corpus proceedings had been discontinued, though the right of renewing them had been reserved, and a message was sent to Justice Globensky at Montreal informing him that, so far as the Thaw case was concerned, there was no need for him to sit in court to-morrow morning.

This done, the members of Thaw's counsel sat comfortably about the conference table. They said they would wait for the anti-Thaw forces to make the next move.

Complete Surprise to Jerome.

This step came as a complete surprise to William Travers Jerome, who is directing the fight of the New York State officials, and to the immigration authorities. It serves to make even more complicated the legal tangle in which the case is now involved. The immigration authorities were not prepared to say what action they would take. Half a dozen conferences were held, but nothing came of them. The opinion was expressed by one of the barristers that as Thaw was being held in the jail on a faulty warrant, he could be seized by the immigration authorities on the charge of being an undesirable alien, now that the habeas corpus proceedings had been withdrawn.

Thaw's counsel deny that such action can be taken and assert that, although the charge now made against Thaw of having escaped from an asylum in New York State is no crime in the eyes of the Canadian law, nevertheless it must be in some way disposed of before the immigration officials can act.

But his lawyers have provided themselves with a weapon to checkmate the immigration authorities if they make any move to arrest Thaw. Attached to the application for the discontinuance of the habeas corpus proceedings was a rider making it possible to renew the habeas corpus proceedings immediately if such a step should be considered advisable.

This would mean another delay until the new habeas corpus proceeding had been disposed of. Although there are many legal points on which the barristers are at sea, one principle of Canadian law is established—the immigration authorities cannot act while habeas corpus proceedings are pending.

Thaw Expects a Long Fight.

On top of the announcement of the unexpected move by Thaw's counsel came the news that Thaw was personally preparing for a long fight here. He said he had made a demand upon the clerk of the Orphan's Court of Allegheny County, Penn., to have the Fidelity Title and Trust Company of Pittsburgh turn over to him $15,000 to be used by him in his fight for freedom in Canada. He said that he had more than $150,000 tied up in Pennsylvania.

The new move by Thaw's counsel came like a bolt out of a clear sky. Mr. McKeown, C. D. White, and other barristers had spent the day in the conference room at the Court House, apparently laying their plans for Thaw's appearance in court to-morrow.

Then came the brief announcement that the application for the discontinuance of the writ signed by W. L. Shurtleff, K. C., and by Thaw had been served on the Clerk of the Superior Court.

Makes No Difference, Says Jerome.

According to William Travers Jerome, this move of Mr. Shurtleff makes not the least difference in the world. Jerome says that the writ of habeas corpus is an order of the King himself, and that no mere lawyer, even though a King's Counsel, can obstruct the running of that writ.

Whether or not Mr. Jerome is right in this contention makes very little difference, so far as the practical effect of it is concerned. He may be right or wrong, and he may be bluffing; but, whether he is or not, there is no chance of the case being summarily ended tomorrow if he chooses to take that attitude and make that sort of fight. In other words, there will be a long legal battle to-morrow, just as had been originally planned; only it will be over the question of Shurtleff's right to withdraw the writ of habeas corpus, an entirely new proposition.

To-morrow, then, the embattled lawyers will assemble in the courtroom to fight over this new feature injected into the case by Shurtleff—the question whether or not he can withdraw a King's order at will. Mr. Jerome says he cannot. Mr. Jerome says, however, that you never can tell what new kind of law may be sprung on you all of a

DE L. NICOLL, JR., WEDDED.

Married Miss Alma Roes at Freehold, N. J., on June 11.

It came out yesterday that DeLancey Nicoll, Jr., son of DeLancey Nicoll, was married to Miss Alma C. Roes, on June 11, by the Rev. H. Moore Blake, of the Protestant Episcopal Church at Freehold, N. J. Mr. Nicoll, Sr., learned of the marriage from his son and Dr. H. Seymour Houghton, at whose home in Monmouth Beach the young people were visiting. Mr. Nicoll intimated later when asked about the marriage that the young couple had already received the parental blessing.

"While I have known for some time of my son's attentions to Miss Roes," he said, "I had hoped he would postpone his marriage until he had completed his college course and was established in life. The young people, however, like so many others, just decided to take the matter into their own hands."

The bride is a very attractive and accomplished young woman. Her great secret was revealed first to Dr. Houghton. The latter when asked about the marriage, said:

"Alma and DeLancey, who are visiting my family at Monmouth Beach, being unable to keep their secret any longer took me into their confidence and told me that they had been married at Freehold on June 11. I advised them that they were making a mistake in keeping it secret, so DeLancey and I went to Mr. Nicoll's office and told him of it. I have known Miss Roes for a number of years. She is twenty-one years of age, and a young lady of unusual attractions, beloved and admired by all who know her. Her father, Mr. John Hyde, died two months before she was born, and her mother married Mr. Sydney Hecker, going to California to live. She was adopted and educated by her aunt, Mrs. Richard Roes, whose name she took.

ROCKEFELLER'S QUIET GOLF.

He Speaks Once in Game with Deaf Convention Delegates.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26.—John D. Rockefeller played a game of golf today with the strangest company he has entertained in a long time. Two delegates attending the national convention of the deaf here, answering a challenge issued by the oil king, motored to Forest Hill and engaged him in battle on his private links. They were Charles D. Russell of La Salle, Ill., and Horace W. Buell of Chicago.

Mr. Rockefeller's granddaughter, Miss Margaret McCormick of Chicago, also took part in the match.

Information as to the winner was unobtainable. The host, as usual, rode the links on his chainless bicycle. Once, when Mr. Russell made an extraordinarily fine drive, Mr. Rockefeller stopped, took his hat, waved it wildly, and cried: "Whooee, that was a beautiful drive!"

Mr. Rockefeller said he wished he could use the sign language.

"I have the greatest admiration for these young men," he added. "Their inability to talk has not prevented their becoming good, intelligent men."

Mr. Rockefeller invited all the deaf delegates to make use of his grounds when in Cleveland. When an honorary membership badge was pinned on him by a delegate, he exclaimed that he was prouder of it than of any of his other possessions.

WINED AT SEA BY EMPEROR.

Franz Josef Wirelessed the Order to the Captain of the Alice.

Hungarians, Austrians, Greeks, Bulgarians, and Servians to the number of 914 were the guests at sea yesterday of Emperor Franz Josef of Austria-Hungary. The 914 were all in the steerage of the Austro-American liner Alice, which arrived yesterday afternoon from Trieste, and the treat they enjoyed was ordered by wireless from Vienna by the venerable Emperor himself.

On Aug. 18 last Emperor Franz Josef was 83 years old, and on the morning of that day, when the Alice was off the Azores, Capt. Cherubini sent a wireless message of congratulation to the Emperor in the name of his officers and his passengers. When the Alice was nearing Sandy Hook yesterday Capt. Cherubini got the Emperor's answer.

The acknowledgment had been relayed by wireless through seventeen different ships, and the Emperor, after thanking Cherubini and the passengers for their well wishes, ordered the skipper to serve the best champagne the Alice carried to every person in the steerage.

Just as the Ambrose Lightship was abeam the wine was served and every man and woman stood up and drank the health of the Emperor, Franz Josef. Then the skipper served a birthday lunch in honor of his Emperor.

KILLS SON, CALLS POLICE.

"Glad I Finished Him," Rockland County Man Declares.

Special to The New York Times.

TOMPKINS COVE, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Frank Tomlin, 22 years old, an engineer in the employ of the Tompkins Cove Steam Pump Works, was shot and instantly killed to-night by his father, Newton Tomlin, 60 years old, a teamster. The tragedy occurred in the Tomlin home and was witnessed by the mother of the victim.

A month ago the father and son had a quarrel over a trifling matter, and had not spoken to each other since. The elder Tomlin is said to have been drinking heavily. About 7 o'clock to-night, as young Tomlin came downstairs preparatory to going out for the evening, his father, hidden behind a door in the kitchen with a shotgun, shot the youth in the breast, killing him instantly.

Hanging the gun on the wall, Tomlin went to the telephone, called up the police at Stony Point, told what he had done, and asked to be arrested. Then he went to his room, put on his best suit, lighted a cigar, and sat down to wait for his captor.

In half an hour the constable arrived from Stony Point, four miles away, and the murderer gave himself up. According to the constable, Tomlin admitted his guilt, and added, "I'm glad I finished him." He was arrested and taken to New City, where he was lodged in the Rockland County Jail.

15,000 DECORATORS STRIKE.

Largest Walkout of Painters in New York's History.

Many houses which were being renovated while the occupants are away for the Summer were left without decorators yesterday by the strike of the International Painters' and Paper Hangers' Union, which began all over the city. It is the largest strike of painters New York has ever had.

The strike was ordered by a committee which started at 4 A. M. through the city to distribute red circulars with the strike call. The circular designated halls engaged for the strikers, where they were to report before noon. According to Max Gafft, manager of the union, 15,000 workers went out. From 5,000 to 10,000 who were not reached in time are expected to quit to-day.

HEARST MEN BOLT FUSION NOMINEES

Denounce McAneny and Prendergast for Broken Pledges and Name Substitutes.

WILD TIME IN CONVENTION

Tammany Names Whitman for District Attorney — Darlington for Borough President.

EXPECT GAYNOR TO RUN

Formal Announcement as to His Plans Probably Will Be Made by the Mayor To-day.

The plan to knife the Fusion ticket by repudiating at the Independence League City Convention last night the nominations of Prendergast and McAneny for Controller and President of the Board of Aldermen was carried out. The convention was marked by dissension and bitterness. The fight to put McAneny and Prendergast upon the league ticket was led by John J. Hopper and Sylvester Malone.

After a long wrangle, which several times threatened to break up in a general fight, Joseph J. Holwell, a manufacturer of sounding boards at 90 Oakland Street, Brooklyn, was nominated for Controller, and Dennis McAvoy, a contractor, of 219 Canal Street, Manhattan, was named by the convention for President of the Board of Aldermen.

Other political developments of the day included the nomination of District Attorney Whitman for his present office by the Tammany County Convention. Dr. Thomas Darlington, formerly President of the Board of Health, was nominated for Borough President by Tammany. There were other surprises, among them the nomination of James E. Sullivan, the well-known athletic director, for County Clerk.

Mayor Gaynor is expected to return to the city this morning and announce that he will be a candidate for Mayor. His supporters have been urging on him the adoption of the Fusion county and borough tickets. The Mayor, it is reported, has been averse to the idea, but his followers hope to win him over.

The action of the Independence Leaguers was rather expected by the Fusion forces, who were greatly heartened yesterday when McAneny made it clear that he would stay on the ticket. The Fusion forces, moreover, took heart when the Republicans, at designation meetings held in the afternoon, indorsed the borough, County, and the judicial ticket. The great point for Fusion was that the Republicans had decided to stand by all along the line. That and the fact that McAneny had decided to ignore the Hearst assault gave the Fusion forces new courage.

Mr. McAneny, the Fusionists learned, decided to stay on the Fusion ticket, no matter what occurred. Mr. Mitchell, it is decided, will remain at the head of the Fusion ticket. The heads of the Fusion movement, Messrs. Hapgood and Price, afte rthey had looked over the situation, expressed themselves as pleased at the outlook. Most of the Fusionists said they did not see how Mr. Whitman could accept the nomination from Tammany Hall.

Fight in League Convention.

The first test of strength in last night's convention of the Independence League came when James A. Allen, an attorney and one of W. R. Hearst's political spokesmen, introduced a resolution condemning McAneny and Prendergast for their alleged disloyalty to their platform subway pledges of four years ago, and a second resolution ordering that a letter be sent to John Purroy Mitchel, already designated by the Independence League as its candidate for the Mayoralty, in reply to his letter of yesterday declining to accept the Hearst indorsement unless his two running mates upon the Fusion ticket were named also.

The two resolutions, which were carried by a rising vote, were as follows:

> Whereas, Borough President McAneny and Controller Prendergast have deliberately broken the platform pledge upon which they were elected, and have acted in shameful disregard of the public welfare.
>
> Resolved, That this committee hereby place on record the sentiment of the Independence League Party that Mr. McAneny and Mr. Prendergast are unworthy of its support.

The second resolution read:

> Resolved, That the chair appoint a committee of five to prepare a reply to the letter of Mr. Mitchel and report at the conclusion of the nominations made to-night.

The committee appointed to draft the letter to Mr. Mitchel was filled only after Registrar O'Loughlin of Kings County and John J. Hopper had both resolutely refused to serve upon it. Chairman William J. Taylor then appointed a committee as follows: James A. Allen, Chairman; Arthur J. Largy, John J. O'Connor, Joseph J. Holwell, and Joseph Wilkinson. The letter, which was later adopted, read as follows:

League's Reply to Mitchel.

New York, Aug. 26, 1913.

SIR: I am in receipt of your favor of the 25th inst., in which you state you could not honorably accept the nomination upon a ticket which denies the nominations to your two associates upon the Fusion city ticket, and which further states that:

"To reject Mr. McAneny and Mr. Prendergast upon their record in advocating the subway contracts would be to punish them for the one act in which your judgment and my judgment were opposed to theirs."

Your communication has been laid by me before the City Committee of the Independence League Party, which after due consideration of the same directed me by resolution to advise you as follows:

The Independence League is not opposed to Mr. McAneny and to Mr. Prendergast because its judgment as to the desirability of the subway contract differed from theirs. It opposes Mr. McAneny and Mr. Prendergast because they have been false to the platform pledges upon the faith of which they were elected. Four years ago the platforms contained specific and clear pledges with respect to the subway issue. Mr. McAneny and Mr. Prendergast deliberately stood upon these platforms. It was solely on the faith of their promises to fulfill these platform pledges that they were elected. Yet these promises made in order

NINE DIE IN AUTOS STRUCK BY TRAINS

Three Families in Similar Accidents in Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, and Illinois.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 26.—An entire family and a guest, five persons in all, were killed when an automobile was struck by a train on the Conemaugh Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad near the Freeport station, thirty miles north of here, this afternoon. The train was a special, in which were officials of the railroad.

The dead are E. J. Rowan of Brackenridge, Penn.; Mrs. Rowan, and their two children, Eliot Lloyd, 1 year old, and Madeline, 3 years old. Mrs. Helen Woodsmith, Mrs. Rowan's sister, who was in the party, was also killed.

Mr. Rowan was driving the machine across the railroad near the Freeport station, and did not hear the approach of the train. He could not see any distance down the track because the station obstructed his view on one side and freight yards on the other. His machine was not going at a very fast speed, and had there been enough warning it is thought he could have stopped in time to have prevented the tragedy.

The train was returning from Butler carrying officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who were on a tour of inspection. The train was running backward down the track and, according to report, was not equipped with a whistle on the front coach.

The train came down the track at a high rate of speed and struck the automobile with such force that it lifted part of the machine on the front car and carried it several hundred feet down the track. Mr. Rowan's skull was found along the line many yards from the place where the train struck his car.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. Aug. 26.—Sherman D. Porter, President of Kibbe Bros. Manufacturing Company of this city, and Mrs. Porter were killed to-day, the fifty-second anniversary of their wedding, when their automobile was struck by a southbound White Mountain express on the Boston & Maine Railroad this afternon at a grade crossing abopt a mile below the station in South Deerfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter had been spending the day in observance of their wedding anniversary, and were traveling in a limousine, returning from Greenfield. The chauffeur, Frederick W. Bennett, was thrown more than 100 feet, but escaped with minor injuries.

Running at sixty miles an hour, the train crashed into the automobile, and the wreckage was strewn along the track for many yards. The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Porter were found lying beside each other about 100 feet from the crossing.

Mr. Porter was eighty years old. He came to Springfield when about 20 to work for the Kibbe candy concern, beginning as a driver of one of its teams that traveled over the country in those days. He had been President of the company since 1890. Mrs. Porter was 73.

KANKAKEE, Ill., Aug. 26.—Two persons were instantly killed and one seriously injured to-night when the Big Four White City Flyer, bound for Chicago, struck a large touring car belonging to Jacob Rediger of Chenoa. Mrs. Rediger and her daughter were killed, and a young son seriously injured. Mr. Rediger and an older son, who was driving the car, jumped and escaped injury.

The accident occurred on the State line road 2½ miles east of Sheldon. The train was running at a rate of 70 miles an hour. The automobile party was en route to Ohio, and in driving upon the railroad tracks young Rediger is believed to have stalled his engine. He saw the train approaching and was endeavoring to get across in front of it when the accident occurred.

Passengers on the train were thrown into a panic when the gasoline tank of the automobile exploded. The machine was carried a considerable distance before the train could be brought to a stop.

Mrs. Rediger's body was terribly burned and the daughter's head crushed. The younger son was buried under the burning machine and was rescued by train passengers.

FIRES ON AUTO WITH RIFLE.

Man and Wife, Unharmed, Think Shot Intended for Others.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 26.—While passing the Cohanzie school house Monday night in an automobile, on their way from their home in Springfield to this city, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smith were shot at by a man who was lurking in the shadow of the school building. Whether Mr. and Mrs. Smith were the intended victims of the shot is not known, but they believed that the man with the gun was waiting for some one else and mistook the car.

The crack of the rifle and the whiz of the bullet was the first intimation that the occupants of the automobile had of the incident. The startled passengers then looked around and saw the man in the shadow.

Mr. Smith is the brother of Attorney Clayton B. Smith of this city.

TOBACCO MEN COMPLAIN.

American Company Unfair, Independents Tell Attorney General.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The Metropolitan Tobacco Company, an organization of independent New York jobbers selling for independent manufacturers, has complained to the Department of Justice that the American Tobacco Company, by unfair methods, practically has closed to the Metropolitan and other concerns the sale of certain brands of cigars, cigarettes, and chewing and smoking tobacco.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Aug. 26.—In response to a telegram from Washington received this afternoon Major Gen. Leonard Wood, Chief of Staff, who was here on a tour of inspection with Secretary of War Garrison, left for Washington at 8 P. M.

Gen. Wood said his wife was seriously ill, and that the telegram called for his immediate presence in the capital.

836 MILES COVERED IN HYDRO FLIGHT

Hawker Has Gone More Than Half Way Around the British Isles.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Harry G. Hawker, who yesterday began his second attempt to win The Daily Mail's prize of $25,000 for a flight in a hydro-aeroplane around the British coasts within seventy-two hours, to-day continued his journey. He started at a very fast rate from Beadnell at 8 A. M., and after halts at Montrose, Aberdeen, and Cromarty reached Oban at 5:55 P. M., crossing Scotland over the Caledonian Canal.

Hawker to-day covered 341 miles. Yesterday he traveled 495 miles. There are 704 miles to negotiate before 9:30 A. M. on Thursday. There is every indication that the weather conditions for the rest of the trip will be favorable.

The engine is now running splendidly, the troubles with it having been trifling and speedily remedied.

BEADNELL, Northumberland, Aug. 26.—Harry G. Hawker this morning continued his attempt to fly around the coasts of England and Scotland in a hydro-aeroplane for a prize of $25,000, for which he is the only contestant.

The start was made in fine weather.

ABERDEEN, Aug. 26.—Hawker arrived here at 11 A. M., completing 608 miles of his flight.

After a stay of fifty-five minutes he made another ascent and flew toward Cromarty, the next control station, traveling at great speed.

CROMARTY, Aug. 26.—Hawker reached here at 2:05 P. M., having flown another 134 miles of his journey in 130 minutes, thus doing more than a mile a minute on the fifth stage.

His next flight will be around the northern end of Scotinad to Oban, on the west coast.

OBAN, Aug. 26.—Hawker reached the end of the sixth stage of his flight at this port at 5:55 P. M., having taken 165 minutes to cover the distance of 94 miles from Cromarty.

Owing to fog, Hawker decided to remain here for the night, and will start for Dublin, his next stage, early in the morning. He encountered a strong head wind during most of his flight from Cromarty to Oban, to which was due his slow time.

Hawker started on Monday morning from Southampton on his long flight and succeeded on the first day in covering 495 miles in 558 minutes. The time limit for the entire distance is seventy-two hours.

The airman made descents on the water at the control stations at Ramsgate, Yarmouth, and Scarborough. While on the fourth stage of his journey he was compelled to descend at Seaham Harbor, owing to motor trouble. This he repaired, and then went on to Beadnell.

JAPAN'S NEW NOTE FRIENDLY

Apparently Agrees to Test Anti-Alien Law in the Courts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The Japanese question came to the surface again to-day when Viscount Chinda, the Japanese Ambassador, called at the State Department to deliver the fourth note in, the long-drawn out series of exchanges that began on April 5, when the first note of protest was presented.

The note to-day was short. Instead of following the usual eitquette by which teh Ambassador would read it to Secretary Bryan the two men, after a little chat, sat down in one corner of the Secretary's office, and Mr. Bryan himself read the document aloud to Viscount Chinda.

Without disclosing any part of the contents Mr. Bryan indicated that it was not at all unfavorable to the American point of view, and in fact was suggestive that the original controversy was pretty worn out after all the arguments that had been passed back and forth about it.

It is understood to be the common view of the two countries now that Japan shall wait until there shall arise a genuine case of loss by reason of the operation of the California alien land law, and then take all questions involved into the United States courts for adjudication.

This means that until some Japanese landholder in California shall die and provide a basis for a claim for indemnity against the United States, the whole question will lie in abeyance. A solution of a great international question not displeasing to the Washington Administration is offered in this way. In fact, the President and Secretary Bryan are said to regard the outcome of the Japanese controversy as a decided victory for the diplomatic methods adopted by Mr. Bryan when he entered the State Department. His particular method, which might not be successful always, is merely to wait and debate a question until all friction disappears, and both parties to the dispute are ready to discuss it calmly.

USE DYNAMITE ON CHURCH.

Gamblers Blamed for Destruction of Methodist Edifice in Pennsylvania.

Special to The New York Times.

BRADFORD, Penn., Aug. 26.—The Methodist Church at Ormsby, Penn., a small McKean County Village, was wrecked by dynamite last night about 11:45 o'clock, when the residents of the place were awakened by a terrific explosion. No one seemed willing to make an investigation, but this morning a teamster, driving into Ormsby, discovered the wrecked building and reported it to the authorities. County detectives and State troopers at once went to work on the case and found a portion of a fuse near the church. One corner of the edifice was completely torn away.

The act is believed to be the outcome of recent troubles in Ormsby, when the better element of the place undertook to stop the desecration of the church which was being used for gambling. The matter was referred to the Genesee Conference Superintendent, the Rev. S. A. Morse of Olean, and arrests resulted. Thugs persisted in tearing down the doors of the church, and on one occasion there was a fistic encounter between the two elements.

WIFE ACCUSED OF SLAYING HUSBAND

Man Found with Throat Cut—Woman in Next Room Seriously Wounded.

SHE 'PHONED FOR HELP

He Attacked Her While Asleep and Then Killed Himself, Her Version to Police.

Mrs. Minnie Chase of 142 West Eighty-third Street was called hurriedly to the telephone yesterday afternoon a little after 4 o'clock in a restaurant at Amsterdam Avenue and Sixty-sixth Street, where she is employed as a waitress. At the other end of the wire she heard the voice of a woman speaking incoherently at first, and she recognized it as that of Mrs. Mary Sharp, a friend of Mrs. Chase, whose husband, Joseph Sharp, was one of several lodgers in Mrs. Chase's flat.

"Come home quick," said Mrs. Sharp, excitedly, "something terrible has happened."

Without trying to learn further particulars, Mrs. Chase got her hat and hurried home. On reaching her flat she went into one of the front rooms, where she found the body of Joseph Sharp, his throat cut and hands folded across the chest, lying across the bed. The room was in great disorder, and the imprints of bloody hands were visible on the walls at the head and side of the bed.

Terrified by the sight, Mrs. Chase left the room and walked down the hall. She noticed that the telephone was covered with blood, and that a red trail led to the bathroom. Entering the room adjoining that in which she had found the body of Sharp, Mrs. Chase saw Mrs. Sharp lying on the floor with blood issuing from wounds about her head and body.

Late last night the police made a formal charge of murder against Mrs. Sharp, who is in a serious condition.

After discovering Mrs. Sharp Mrs. Chase ran out to the street. At Amsterdam Avenue and Eighty-third Street she found Patrolman Rosansky of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station, and he returned with her. He sent in an ambulance call to the Polyclinic Hospital, and then notified the police station.

Wife Sent to Hospital.

Simultaneously with Dr. Giles from the Polyclinic Hospital arrived Detectives Mulligan and Hudson. Dr. Giles made an examination first of the body of Sharp, and said that he had been dead for an hour. He then went into the room where Mrs. Sharp lay, and ordered her removal to the hospital without delay. When the detectives asked if she would not be able to make a statement before leaving the apartment, the surgeon insisted that a delay might prove fatal to her.

As soon as Mrs. Sharp was taken away the detectives questioned Mrs. Chase. They learned that she had met Mrs. Sharp about two years ago when both were working as waitresses in a restaurant at Amsterdam Avenue and Seventy-fifth Street. Mrs. Chase said that Mr. and Mrs. Sharp roomed with her until about a year ago, when his health gave way, and he was taken to the Neurological Hospital on Blackwell's Island. He was discharged only a few weeks ago, and had not been able to find employment. His room rent to Mrs. Chase was paid by relatives living in New Orleans.

At the hospital the detectives were able later to question Mrs. Sharp. She told them that she had been married five years, and that she and her husband went to Coney Island on Monday, not returning until a late hour. She said that she arose late yesterday morning, and about the same time her husband got up. He told her that he was going out for a few minutes, and she replied that she would have something to eat prepared for him on his return. Soon after he departed she went to his room and lay down on the bed. Soon she had fallen asleep.

It was nearly 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, according to Mrs. Sharp, when she was awakened by a severe pain in her head. Her husband, she said, was standing by her side with a razor in one hand and some kind of weapon in the other. She then jumped off the bed and seized her husband with both hands. A struggle ensued between them, and in the course of it Mrs. Sharp said that her husband succeeded in gashing her several times with the razor and striking her over the head with something blunt.

Wife Makes Her Escape.

She finally eluded the grasp of her husband, she told the police, and got on the opposite side of the bed from him. While he was striking at her she succeeded in wedging herself between the bed and the wall and pushed the bed out from the wall, making her way gradually around the head of it, and escaping through the door.

On reaching the hall, Mrs. Sharp said, she then called up Mrs. Chase. She then ventured back to her husband's room, and saw him standing before a mirror, with one hand to his forehead and the other before his mouth. Blood was streaming from a gash in his throat.

"My God, Joe, what have you done?" she said she asked.

"Well, I've done it," replied her husband.

Her husband fell in a heap upon the floor, Mrs. Sharp said, and she lifted his body on the bed and folded his hands across his chest.

On making a search of the apartment the detectives found an ice pick lying on the bed beneath the body of Sharp. They also found a razor, covered with blood, and a flatiron near by. The detectives said that Sharp had only one wound on his body, and that was the gash in his throat.

At the hospital it was found that Mrs. Sharp had received a cut across the left eye and another on the back of the neck. There were three wounds in her body. The surgeons say that Mrs. Sharp's condition is very serious.

While the detectives were at the hospital a man appeared there and asked if a woman named either Sharp or McNeil had been brought to the hospital. When told that Mrs. Sharp was there he said that his name was McNeil, and that he was her brother. He asked permission to see her, but it was refused. Later a man appeared at the apartment of Mrs. Chase, saying he was Joseph Murray, and asked to see Mrs. Sharp. The detectives learned from Mrs. Sharp that she had an acquaintance by that name connected with a motion picture theatre at North Beach. According to the detectives, Murray said that Mrs. Sharp had summoned him over the telephone from North Beach.

The detectives who made the formal murder charge against Mrs. Sharp late last night said that their action was based on the fact that there was no corroboration of her story and that the woman, when her story was questioned, declared that immediately after he had cut his throat he had said to her: "Well, I've done it."

This, according to the police and Dr. Giles, who examined the man's body, was impossible, as he was practically dead the minute his throat was cut.

GAYNOR HAS BEEN ILL.

In Bed a Day at Summer Home, but All Right Again.

ST. JAMES, L. I., Aug. 26.—Mayor Gaynor, who had to forego a fishing trip yesterday and take to his bed at Deepwells, his Summer home here, instead, is said to-night to have about recovered his usual good health. The Mayor's condition was not such that the services of a physician were required, and none was called, his wife and children, who are here with him, taking care of him yesterday and last night.

The Mayor was to have gone to the city to-day, but did not feel well enough to undertake the trip, but it is understood that he will return to his desk in the City Hall to-morrow morning.

DEATH RACE IN THE ARCTIC.

Wireless Seeks Cutter to Save Heart Disease Sufferer.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Wireless waves sputtering out over the Bering Sea to-day are calling a revenue cutter to start on a 2,000-mile race against death. Somewhere out of the squadron cruising the Arctic Circle a fleet ship will be found to get Fred M. Chamberlain, a Government naturalist at St. Paul Island, and rush him down to Seattle in time, it is hoped, to save his life.

Chamberlain, a bridegroom of a year, went to St. Paul to take the seal consus for the Department of Commerce. He was seized with heart disease.

CHECK A NEWPORT BAR.

Police Stop Sale of Liquor on Veranda of the Casino.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 26.—Chief of Police James R. Crowley, acting on instructions from Mayor William MacLeod and on the complaint of License Commissioner William H. Tobin, went to the temporary bar on the veranda of the Casino Theatre building this forenoon and directed the bartender to cease dispensing alcoholic drinks. The Chief stood by to see that the order was obeyed. Soft drinks were sold for the remainder of the tennis tournament.

The bar was run by Caterer William Coles of the Casino, who has had it many years as an adjunct to the Casino grill rooms.

A member of the Executive Committee admitted that if the bar was selling liquor without a license the city officials could stop it.

MRS. MACKAY HIRES BAND.

Assists in Playground Exhibition by Maine School Children.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 26.—The annual exhibition by 400 children from the school playground took place yesterday at Fort Allen Park on the Eastern Promenade. The children were taken to the park on special cars.

Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay engaged Chandler's First Regiment Band for the occasion and the Civic Club furnished ice cream. Miss Janet Stevens, Supervisor of Playgrounds, was in general charge, and was assisted by the teachers. There was a very large attendance and an excellent athletic programme was presented.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 26.—Mrs. William Watts Sherman has given to her daughter, Mrs. Irene Gillespie, on the third anniversary of her marriage to Lawrence L. Gillespie, the estate at Bellevue and Hazard Avenues, known as the Mrs. John Carter Brown homestead.

This estate comprises more than seven acres, and was for years the Summer home of Mrs. Gillespie's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Brown of Providence.

The cottage is one of the most attractive in Newport, having every modern convenience and being charmingly furnished. It has been assessed at $49,309.

CALLS BASEBALL MIKI FULA.

But Igorrote Boy Knows Enough to Classify the Umpire.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 26.—Franklin Dalat, 11 years old, son of an Igorrote head hunter of Northern Luzon in the Philippines, arrived here yesterday on the steamer China in the care of the Rev. E. A. Sibley, an Episcopal missionary, who has spent five years among the Luzon tribesmen, and is educating the boy.

The Filipino lad and his guardian were singled out by interviewers when the vessel docked. The youngster promptly remarked that he knew about the United States. He understood baseball, he said, though he called it "miki fula."

"So you know baseball?" a questioner remarked. "What do you call the umpire?"

"Tell him," Mr. Sibley prompted, when the youngster hesitated.

"Thief, sometimes, but robber mostly," the boy answered.

MILITANTS BURN A HOUSE.

Apparently Had Not Heard of Alleged Truce with Government.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The news of the truce between the militant suffragettes and the Government has evidently not reached the districts outside London, as a fine country house in Finchley, a northern suburb, was burned down early this morning by militants, who left a quantity of suffrage literature among the ruins.

The place was occupied only by a caretaker, the family having gone away for the Summer.

WRECK IN VA. INJURES 21.

Mixed Train Plunges Twenty Feet Down an Embankment.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Aug. 26.—Twenty-one people were injured in a wreck of a mixed train on the Buckingham branch of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway near Bremo this afternoon. Conductor J. S. Doswell of New Canton, Va., will probably die.

Spreading rails sent a passenger train and three freight cars loaded with lumber down a twenty-foot embankment. The more seriously injured were taken to a hospital in Richmond.

HUERTA IS FIRM AS LIND LEAVES MEXICAN CAPITAL

NO RUSH FROM MEXICO

Americans in the Capital Say They Will Wait Until Real Crisis Is Reached.

GAMBOA URGES CALMNESS

Tells Mexicans They Will Aid Their Country by Avoiding Outbreaks at This Time.

APPEAL FROM CARRANZA

Asks for Freedom to Get Arms and Promises Quick Overthrow of Huerta Government.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 26.—Federico Gamboa, Minister of Foreign Relations, announced to-day that John Lind, President Wilson's personal emissary to this capital, who left here this morning on his way to Vera Cruz, had delivered a second note before his departure, and that the Mexican Government's answer to that new communication from the American President's representaive was on its way to Vera Cruz to catch Mr. Lind in that seaport before he should embark for the United States.

Minister Gamboa refused positively to give any indication of the contents of the note which he said he had received from ex-Gov. Lind. He also declined to say what he considered possible as a result of the Presidential emissary's departure from Mexico City.

The Minister of Foreign Relations, in reply to a question, said it was not known here whether Mr. Lind would return to the Mexican capital after receipt of the Huerta Government's response to his second note. If President Wilson's representative should come back to this city, the Foreign Minister stated, he would be welcome now as he was on the occasion of his first arrival.

It was stated further by Señor Gamboa that notes which had passed between Mr. Lind and himself would not be made public until President Wilson had read his Mexican message to the American Congress.

Huerta's Defiance Renewed.

It was stated officially to-night that all reports that Provisional President Huerta would yield to the peace plan proposed by President Wilson through ex-Gov. Lind would be dispelled by publication of the notes.

Men acquainted with the contents of the notes that had passed between Mr. Lind and Minister Gamboa announced the belief that the communications would cause a good impression in Mexico and the United States, as showing the justice of the stand taken by President Huerta.

Meanwhile, the situation here is waiting on the action to be taken by President Wilson and the outcome of his report to Congress. Prominent Americans in this capital believe that the American Senate and House will not indorse President Wilson's stand in regard to the removal of Americans from Mexico by the Washington Administration, unless on the understanding that the United States Government intends eventually to declare war.

The departure of Mr. Lind did much to do away with the tension existing here. It is believed the departure of Dr. William Bayard Hale, another of President Wilson's personal informants in regard to conditions in Mexico, would make the relations between the United States Embassy and the Mexican Foreign Office almost cordial.

Asserts Mexicans Back Huerta.

A member of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Mexican Senate who is closely in touch with developments said to-night:

"Washington is coming to the understanding that President Huerta is upheld by Mexicans in refusing to permit the United States to take a hand in the internal affairs of this country. Mexicans are fully confident that they will be able to settle their own troubles without the assistance of the United States.

"The only questions which the United States Government is called on to decide are whether or not it will recognize the Administration of President Huerta, and whether he is doing all that is possible to protect the lives and interests of Americans in this country.

"I believe that most of the Americans here feel that the Mexican Government is doing all in its power to protect their interests by punishing offenders."

No Cause for Alarm, Says Gamboa.

The Mexican Foreign Office issued this formal statement to-night:

"In order to calm the natural anxiety of the public occasioned by the negotiations which have been carried on with Mr. Lind, the confidential agent of President Wilson, Señor Gamboa declares that up to the present there is no reason for alarm.

"Since the beginning Mexico has tried to maintain a conciliatory attitude, although at the same time a dignified one, and if the President of the United States considers it opportune to submit to Congress the status of the negotiations, then Mexico is relieved from the tacit agreement and from the customs observed in negotiations of this class not to give premature publicity, and will hasten then, and only then, to make public in their entirety all the documents which have been received or which may be received at that date.

"The situation is far from being desperate. It can only be called serious, and for this reason it is desirable that the public should be discreet and reserved, since this is the best manner in which they can aid the Government."

There is nothing to indicate that the international situation is considered critical here, although it is admitted to be serious.

Minister Gamboa recommends that public opinion in the Mexican capital remain calm.

Most Americans Stand Fast.

Few Americans are leaving this city as a result of Mr. Lind's departure, though there is evident a desire on the part of the Washington officials to get citizens of the United States out of the Mexican Republic. Those who are going mostly are persons connected with business houses in minor capacities, or who are more or less free.

Most of the Americans representative of the larger interests in the capital are determined to remain here until the danger that attacks will be aimed directly at them becomes critical. Many of them say that if the United States Government orders them to quit Mexico they will want guarantees with the command that they shall be indemnified against the financial loss that would be entailed on them as a result of abandoning the properties under their charge.

The majority of Americans in Mexico City is inclined so to regard such an order if it should be forthcoming from Washington.

All citizens of the United States impelled to leave this country owing to fear of the rebels' depredations or of any attacks other than those apprehended as possibly resulting from intervention departed from Mexico months ago.

Mexicans Promise Protection.

High officials of the Mexican Government announce that they see no reason why Americans should leave the country, and that they would be sorry to see them go. It is stated authoritatively that every care will be taken to give citizens of the United States all possible protection.

The recommendations of President Wilson in regard to arms on the border are regarded with satisfaction here. Government officials say that the idea is the next best thing to recognition of the administration of Provisional President Huerta.

It is pointed out by the officials under President Huerta that nine-tenths of the forces of the Mexican Government use European arms and ammunition, whereas the rebels fight with American ammunition exclusively.

The insurgents, it is asserted, already are obtaining arms and munitions from the United States by way of Canada. Arms, it is said, are shipped from America to the Dominion, and then are transshipped to Mexico. It is argued that if necessary the Mexican Government can follow the same course as the rebels in that respect.

Denies European Pressure.

"The story that I received instructions from Paris to support the American peace proposals in talks with President Huerta was unfounded," said Paul Le Faivre, French Minister to Mexico, to-night.

"I have not received a communication from my Government in several days," added the diplomatic representative of France, "and then the message was identical with those received by the legations of other countries in this capital."

A prominent politician charged that the United States Government was trying to obtain European pressure toward President Huerta. He added that he believed the attempt would be unsuccessful, and that it would probably frustrate its own purpose.

Lind at Vera Cruz.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VERA CRUZ, Aug. 26.—Ex-Gov. Lind arrived here at 7 o'clock this evening, accompanied by his wife. He was met at the station by Admiral Fletcher and his staff, but declined an invitation to go aboard the flagship for the night.

He remains at the Terminal Hotel, and will leave either on a warship or on the Ward liner sailing on Thursday.

He refuses absolutely to discuss the political situation.

One of the Lind party declared that Gen. Trevino would be named Provisional President on his arrival in Mexico City and that Gen. Huerta will take the field against the revolutionists.

FAINT HOPE IN WASHINGTON.

Huerta's Request for Delay Not Expected to Change Situation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The Mexican crisis still exists. Although information received over night from John Lind, President Wilson's special adviser, in connection with the effort to establish peace in the southern republic has caused the President to defer until to-morrow the delivery of his momentous address reviewing his efforts for peace, the situation remains practically unchanged. There is only the faintest hope among officials that the Mexican Government will so modify its attitude of opposition to the American proposals as to permit a reopening of the negotiations with a prospect of their conclusion in a manner acceptable to the United States.

Mr. Lind's departure from Mexico City for Vera Cruz this morning, official news of which was received by Secretary Bryan to-night from Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American Chargé d'Affaires, does not mean that he has been recalled definitely and that the peace negotiations have been broken off. It does mean, however, that this Government has no hope that the request from the Mexican Government that the President postpone the delivery of his Mexican address to Congress will result in a change for the better in the diplomatic situation.

Mr. Lind, it is understood, departed from Mexico City after notifying Federico Gamboa, Minister of Foreign Relations, that the delivery of the President's address would be deferred, as requested, and that if the Mexican Government desired to communicate with him further he would be glad to receive its message in Vera Cruz.

Mexico Must be Specific.

That action by Mr. Lind was intended as a hint that, unless Mexico had something definite to suggest toward an agreement with the United States which would supply the foundation for restoring normal conditions in the country, Mr. Lind would regard his peace mission as a failure, and would return to Washington.

Secretary Bryan said this evening that Mr. Lind had not been recalled. But it was indicated by other officials that unless Mexico came forward with an expression of willingness to accept the American peace terms in principle, at least, President Wilson would make known to the American Congress the failure of his conciliatory efforts and would propose a programme for future handling of the Mexican situation that might be construed in Mexico as the first step in the line of ultimate American intervention.

President Wilson's intention last night was to read his address to the Senate and House in joint session at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The advices from Mr. Lind caused that programme to be rearranged. Unless the unexpected happens, the address will be read at 1 o'clock to-morrow. The postponement of the President's contemplated appearance before Congress to-day was due primarily to the action of Mr. Lind in submitting to the Mexican Minister of Foreign Relations what were described officially as "certain supplementary suggestions." That action resulted in the request from the Foreign Minister that President Wilson defer the reading of his Mexican address until to-morrow. Mr. Lind joined in the request, and it was granted readily by the President.

"The certain supplementary suggestions" are understood to have been made by Mr. Lind of his own volition and are not regarded as of any importance, as they do not change the basic principles of the American proposals. It was said in one quarter that they had not even been communicated to the State Department by Mr. Lind, and a hint was given that they had to do with pointing out the advisability of a modification of the Mexican rejection of the American plan before Mr. Lind left Mexico.

The official explanation of the incident ran:

> Last night about midnight, after the conference between the President and the Foreign Relations Committees of the two Houses, a dispatch came from Mexico City, in which Mr. Lind united with Señor Gamboa (the Minister of Foreign Relations) in requesting the President to postpone his address to Congress until Wednesday, in order to afford the authorities at Mexico City opportunity for further consideration of the proposals of the United States in view of certain supplementary suggestions made by Mr. Lind. The President has, of course, consented and is expecting to address Congress at 1 o'clock to-morrow.

Means More "Manana."

Significant as that statement appears on its face, it has no very important bearing on the Mexican situation. It means merely, according to what officials said this evening, that the Mexican Government had followed a practice in which it had shown itself to be an adept for the last week—of endeavoring to delay the reading of what it suspected was a communication that might result in the adoption of a more drastic policy on the part of the United States in its dealings with Mexico. None of the authorities here appears to be of the opinion that Mexico has anything new to propose that will ease the situation, and the request for postponement is regarded solely as an irritating phase of a consistent policy of "manana."

In further explanation of this view, it was said that the overnight request for a postponement was the third of the sort that had been received by the Government in a week. When the first request was made the Mexican Government believed that the President was to make known his Mexican policy to Congress on last Friday. A ready assent was given by Mr. Wilson to the suggestion of the Mexican Government that he should not present his Mexican communication to the Senate and House until Monday—that is, yesterday.

That circumstance, it was made known to-day, was responsible for the optimistic feeling that prevailed among officials on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, and the optimism was not due to reports that foreign Governments had espoused the American peace cause and were bringing pressure to bear on Provisional President Huerta to accept President Wilson's proposals.

Shortly subsequent to the first request the Mexican Government communicated to Mr. Lind an expression of hope that President Wilson would be willing to postpone his appearance before the houses of Congress until to-day, and after last midnight came the request for a further postponement until to-morrow. Owing to the fact that the House of Representatives adjourned on Friday until to-day, it would not have been possible for the President to have carried out any arrangements to address Congress prior to this afternoon, but it was explained that this had nothing to do with the prompt assent to what had been suggested by the Mexican Government.

Washington Loses Patience.

As matters stand now, President Wilson and his advisers attach little, if any, significance to the latest effort of the Huerta administration to put off the day on which President Wilson will lay the cards on the table and call for a new deal in the game of diplomacy that has been played by the United States and Mexico ever since conditions in that country assumed a dangerous phase through the spread of revolution. They are impatient over the delays that have been caused by Mexico's suggestions, and if all that is being said in official circles to-night is true there will be no change in the President's plan to make known his new Mexican policy to Congress to-morrow.

"Patience has ceased to be a virtue," said one prominent official.

A summary of the proposals made to the Mexican Government for the United States through the medium of Mr. Lind was given out authoritatively to-day. According to that statement, those proposals were:

1. Agreement to a cessation of hostilities throughout Mexico and a definite armistice.
2. Provision for a free and early election for President.
3. President Huerta not to be a candidate for re-election.
4. All factions to agree to abide by the result.

Much surprise was expressed here when this summary was made known, owing to the fact that it did not contain as one of the proposals a suggested stipulation that President Huerta should resign from his present office. Up to this time officials have indicated clearly that this stipulation was contained in the original proposals. No official explanation is offered of its omission other than the statement "There was a misunderstanding."

Mistake Was Mexico's, Perhaps.

A suggested explanation is that in its response to the American note containing the President's peace plan the Mexican Government delivered what amounted to an ultimatum that unless the demand for President Huerta's resignation were withdrawn and the Huerta Government were recognized by the United States diplomatic relations between the countries would be severed and Mr. Lind would be required to leave Mexican territory.

The Mexican response was delivered to the American Embassy in Mexico City last Monday. That night Mr. Lind went to the National Palace and had an interview with President Huerta. Officials here have asserted that the interview was at Gen. Huerta's invitation. Gossip to-day had it that as a result of their talk a compromise was reached under which the American demand for the resignation of President Huerta was abandoned in consideration of the withdrawal of the reported Mexican ultimatum. It is fair to say, however, even in the face of repeated assertions by officials that Gen. Huerta's resignation from the Presidency was called for in the original American proposals, that there is no high official authority for the explanation given herewith.

Think Mexicans Were Insincere.

There is a strong suspicion in Administration circles that the cordial treatment given to Mr. Lind in his intercourse with Mexican officials and the apparent disposition of those officials to give careful consideration to what the President's special representative had proposed was due mainly to a desire to keep the negotiations in progress in the hope that a disclosure would be made from Washington as to what the President intended to do in handling the Mexican situation should his peace plan be rejected definitely.

Officers of the Administration said enough to-day to show that they regarded the three requests from Mexico that the President defer communicating his views to the American Congress as being mere efforts to gain time. There was discussion along that line in last night's conference in the Cabinet room of the White House among President Wilson, Secretary Bryan, and twenty-one members of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations and the House Committee on Foreign Affairs.

President Wilson showed no disposition to place his visitors under the seal of confidence with reference to the contents of his address to Congress or the details of the discussion. It was suggested, however, by one of those present that it would be well not to make public last night the President's programme for the Mexican situation, that programme comprising, as was told in THE TIMES this morning, the removal of all Americans from Mexican territory and placing an embargo on the shipment of arms and ammunition from this country into Mexico for the use of the Federal forces.

Urged Wilson to be Wary.

The argument behind the secrecy suggested was that the President should not "lay all his cards on the table," but should keep Mexico guessing as to what he intended to do until there had been a definite rejection of the original peace proposals.

That idea appealed to the conferees, and as a result an agreement was reached not to disclose the President's future policy nor what had occurred in the conference. All those present were not of the opinion that this was a wise course, and as a result the President's new policy became known. It has, of course, been telegraphed to Mexico City by the Mexican Government's agents from here. Some officials are of the opinion, however, that the effect of this news on President Huerta and his Ministers will be to confuse them instead of enlightening them as to what the Wilson Administration intends to do in carrying out its set purpose of bringing about an improvement in the status of Mexican affairs. One idea here is that the Mexican Federal authorities believe the sentiment of this country is for intervention, and that it is likely to follow the failure of the Lind mission and a continuance of the attacks on the persons and property interests of Americans in the perturbed districts.

Taking it for granted that the proposals for an amicable settlement of Mexico's troubles have been rejected definitely by the Huerta Government, the State Department is making preparations for complying with that part of the alternative policy of President Wilson which contemplates the removal of American citizens from Mexico. Although only $100,000 is available for that purpose, and it is figured in the State Department that such amount will suffice merely for the transportation of 2,000 Americans to the United States, the department plans are proceeding on the idea of supplying transportation to American territory for about 10,000 Americans at a cost of something like $500,000.

Will Pay Americans' Fare.

Notice will be given to Americans in Mexico that the United States Government will pay their expenses if they desire to return to the United States. Schedules of property abandoned by them will be given to the United States Consuls throughout the republic, and those will form the basis for future claims against Mexico for any of such property that may be injured or destroyed.

Before the present revolution was begun, there were between 40,000 and 50,000 Americans in the whole of Mexico, according to the best information the State Department was able to obtain. Now there are barely 10,000 Americans in the country, accepting as correct the department's estimates based on reports from diplomatic and Consular officers. Of an estimated American population of 10,000 in the City of Mexico, only about 2,000 remain, and many of those are preparing to leave. A large number of Americans departed from the Mexican capital to-day in the train that carried Mr. and Mrs. Lind to Vera Cruz.

The State Department's figures are far from complete. Several of the estimates of American population in various parts of Mexico are mere guesses. In the entire State of Chihuahua there were only about 300 Americans at the date of the department's last report, and about 100 of those left for the Texas border in the week. In the northern part of Tamaulipas there are between 100 and 150 Americans, while in the southern part there is practically none, except in the port of Tampico, where 800 Americans are supposed to be residing.

Of from 700 to 1,000 Americans who dwell in the State of San Luis Potosi, only about 100 remain. In the northern part of Coahuila State are 150 Americans, except in the town of Torreon, where the American Smelting and Refining Company has in the neighborhood of 500 American employes. The remainder of the 10,000 Americans supposed still to be in Mexico largely are in the southern provinces, where mining is carried on extensively.

Can Move Citizens Quickly.

Officials here who have looked into the question estimate that all Americans in Mexico, except those residing in isolated regions, can be brought to the United States in three days. It is believed, also, that almost all of those who are in remote places can reach American territory in eight days.

The Navy Department is prepared to do its share of enforcing the rule to be put into effect against the shipment of arms into Mexico from the United States for the use of Government forces. Secretary Daniels declined to make any statement of his plans in that connection, however, and looked startled when he was asked if the navy programme contemplated a search of ships entering Mexican ports on the suspicion that they might be carrying munitions of war to the Huerta Government. He would not discuss the suggestion.

There is a belief here that if the alternative Wilson programme is put into effect, as now seems certain, this Government will endeavor to effect an arrangement by which other nations will prohibit the shipment of arms and ammunition in ships of foreign register to Mexico. Foreign Governments, it is argued, are almost as much interested as the United States in having normal conditions restored in Mexican territory, on account of the danger to the lives and property of their subjects or citizens in the present state of affairs.

With the reading of Mr. Wilson's address to Congress to-morrow, the White House will make public the text of the note to the Mexican Government containing the American proposals for peace and the response of the Mexican Minister of Foreign Relations rejecting those proposals. It was said to-night the "certain supplementary suggestions made by Mr. Lind," none of which has been disclosed, might be included in the communications made public to-morrow.

Secretary Bryan, who had spent the night in the State Department awaiting advices from Mexico City, went over to the White House early to-day with the full text of the small-hours message from Mr. Lind containing the request of Minister Gamboa that the President should defer reading his address to Congress until to-morrow. The President thereupon sent word to the floor leaders of the Senate and House of his change of plan.

When the Senate and House met, a concurrent resolution was adopted for the assembling of the two houses in joint session in the hall of the House of Representatives at 12:45 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, to listen to the President's address.

MESSAGE FROM CARRANZA.

Will Depose Huerta if Granted Arms, General's Word to Wilson.

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 26.—Given unrestricted opportunity to buy munitions of war in the United States, the Constitutionalists will sweep Provisional President Huerta from power, assume responsibility for injury done to foreigners, hold a free and fair election, and re-establish Mexico in cordial relations with the United States, according to a statement from Gen. Jesus Carranza, which Dr. Henry Allen Tupper and Capt. J. T. Armstrong of the International Peace Forum are carrying to President Wilson.

Dr. Tupper and Capt. Armstrong passed through Houston to-night, and while here made public the statement of Gen. Carranza, who is a brother of the Constitutionalist commander in chief. Gen. Jesus Carranza's statement follows:

"As it is only by force of arms that the Constitutionalists can honorably compel the usurper, Victoriano Huerta, to relinquish the power unlawfully obtained by him by treason and crime, repellant to the entire civilized world, the Constitutionalists herewith summarize the conditions by which they can, in a short time, realize their aspirations:

First—That the American Government permit both parties in conflict the right to introduce arms and ammunitions of warfare, and the Constitutionalists will be able to overthrow the usurper's government in the near future.

Second.—We will not deny any responsibility, and, within the terms of justice, any obligation which we have or may contract. Further, and within the limit of international rights, we will not omit any effort or force to protect the lives and property of all foreigners, and we will indemnify them for any losses which they may suffer due to the direct effects of the war. In this connection, a decree already has been issued.

Third—As we are sure that the United States, with its high sense of justice, its democratic conception of what is due a nation's honor and integrity, with a view of making this Government one of stability, would not refrain from granting us the same rights and privileges granted our enemies, we do not hesitate to affirm that such an attitude of justice not only will maintain fully our cordial relations as sister republics, but it will reinforce them in a sensible degree, and always within the limits of patriotism, justice, respect, and reciprocity, all considerations in our mutual interests.

Fourth—In order that the republic may re-establish a constitutional government it is necessary that the people as soon as practicable be granted free ballots and legal elections, and this cannot be done under the present régime. But as soon as the usurper is vanquished the people will recover their rights, and the Government will guarantee to the people the right to name their executive officers by a free and independent ballot, and there will be put into existence at that time and forever in the future a government for the people, by the people, and of the people, as is provided in our political constitution.

"In evidence of the appreciation of the service which Dr. Tupper has come to this country to offer as special peace commissioner of the International Peace Forum, the Constitutionalists have requested him to present this document to the President of the United States and to the Secretary of State in the full confidence that he will continue his good work."

The statement is dated at Piedras Negras, headquarters of the Constitutionalists, Aug. 19.

PRAISES WILSON'S MOTIVES.

But London Graphic Doubts if His Policy Is Practical.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 27.—The Daily Grahic alone comments upon the latest development of the Mexican situation. After expressing its sincere hope that a means has been found to avert a quarrel which may lead to disastrous consequences, The Graphic says:

"President Wilson is actuated by motives which are new in American statecraft. Considerations of expediency or of the material interests involved do not weigh with him. He declines to recognize Huerta because to do so would be to condone a moral wrong. This resolution commends our respect, as no doubt it commands the support of the progressive elements in America, which carried Wilson into power; but whether it is practical politics is another question."

In view of President Huerta's position and his recognition by other powers, The Graphic says he would be more than human if he consented to efface himself in order to satisfy the moral scruples of Wilson and Bryan.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—"The difficulty of the mission of John Lind to Mexico was from the beginning that the American Government had nothing to offer to Provisional President Victoriano Huerta if he acceded to its request," comments The Westminster Gazette in an article on the Mexican situation to-day. The Government organ adds:

"It is easy to smile at the position in which President Woodrow Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan find themselves, but it is no worse than the position in which the European powers have been landed by the refusal of Turkey to respect the treaty of London."

GERMAN ASSAILS OUR POLICY.

Baron Hartmann von Richthofen Condemns a Do-Nothing Attitude.

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—What he calls America's "do-nothing policy" is criticised to-day by Baron Hartmann von Richthofen, formerly Secretary of the German Embassy in Washington, recently Chargé d'Affaires of the German Legation in Mexico City, and now a member of the Reichstag, on an article in the Zeitung am Mittag. He demands that speedy steps be taken to establish a permanent Government in Mexico, which, he says, is possible by means of a strict closing of the frontier. Revolutions, he asserts, would be impossible without the importation of arms by filibusters, and Provisional President Huerta would find the necessary funds in Europe to maintain his army if the United States would act even in this negative way.

If America is unwilling on moral and other grounds to give this support to Provisional President Huerta, continues Baron von Richthofen, the Government should announce it openly, but should offer to his successor guarantees for the absolute closing of the frontier to both men and arms. Gen. Huerta, the writer concludes, probably is patriotic enough to retire under those conditions.

FARCE, SAYS GOV. COLQUITT.

Texan Assails Wilson's Mexican Policy—Favors Intervention.

Special to The New York Times.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Aug. 26.—"With scores of American women outraged and a thousand citizens murdered; with pillage, blackmail, and ransom existing on every hand, in defiance of the rights of American citizenship, the situation in Mexico is beyond endurance. The handling of the Mexican situation by President Wilson has been a farce."

Gov. O. B. Colquitt of Texas made that assertion just before the annual conference of Governors opened here to-day. He may be called on to make an address on the situation in Mexico, although he asserts that he is reluctant to do so, because his "blood boils" every time he "permits himself to think of the policy of the United States in this respect."

Mr. Colquitt said further: "Let me analyze the position of our Government. Wilson had to take the high-minded position of non-interference in Mexico, on the theory that she must settle her own troubles. He has refused to recognize an assassin as the head of a constituted Government. Perfectly right.

"But he has given Huerta repeated privilege to import rifles and ammunition into Mexico and has denied that right to the rebels. If Huerta tells Wilson to play his next card, what does it mean? It means that the United States will have to invade Mexico or stultify itself. Wilson will have to fight or make a joke of the State Department and a rag of the nation's honor."

Tammany at its Judicial, Borough, and County Designating Committee meetings at Tammany Hall selected the above ticket last night. As soon as District Attorney Whitman, who was waiting at his home, had heard of his nomination he issued a statement in which he expressed gratification at the compliment paid him, but said he could not determine at present whether or not he would accept. It was said, however, that he would accept.

Practically all of the Republican leaders, every Justice of the Appellate Division, and most of the Supreme Court Justices, it was said last night, have urged him to take the Tammany nomination. On top of this, when Mr. Whitman returned to the city from Bretton Woods last night, he found a number of letters from members of the Fusion Committee of 107 who also advised him to accept. It is known that Norman Hapgood, Chairman of the committee, has approved the course, although Joseph M. Price, Chairman of the Executive Committee, is opposed to it.

This is Mr. Whitman's statement:

> I have just returned to the city, and am not prepared to make any formal statement at present.
>
> I am much gratified at the compliment paid to me by all the political parties of this county in the unanimous nomination for re-election to the office of District Attorney, which I have held for four years past.
>
> I certainly regard this action of my fellow-citizens as a great tribute to the work of the office and to my loyal and able assistants, as well as to myself.

It was said last night that Mr. Whitman had about made up his mind some time ago to take the nomination from Tammany if it came to him without solicitation or without any conditions attached, but that he had determined not to make any public announcement of his intention to do so until he heard from all his friends and received the advice of his running mates on the Fusion ticket. If he finally decides to take the nomination, Mr. Whitman will not take any part in the city campaign so far as making speeches is concerned.

It took less than two hours to put the entire ticket through, Mr. Murphy had so thoroughly oiled the machinery. There were two big surprises when Dr. Darlington, the former Health Commissioner, was named for Borough President of Manhattan, and James E. Sullivan, President of the American Amateur Athletic Union, and well known in the world of sports, was nominated for County Clerk.

Mr. Whitman's name was put in nomination by Judge Edward Swan of the Court of General Sessions. In a ringing speech he likened the District Attorney's office to that of a Justice, and said that Mr. Whitman had served so faithfully and well that he should be continued in office for another term. The mention of Mr. Whitman's name was not applauded more than that of any of the other candidates, and it did not come as a surprise. Mr. Murphy, who sat in the rear of the hall, grinned and led the applause.

The committee started its work at 8:45 P. M., with Leslie P. Tompkins presiding. State Senator John G. Saxe designated Eugene A. Philbin and it was seconded by Michael Horan. Then William P. Larkin designated Bartow S. Weeks. Senator Anthony Griffin, in seconding the designation, said that the only time the people were foolish enough to rest the government of the city in the hands of reformers, they got the worst administration in its history. The Supreme Court nominations over, Senator Robert F. Wagner took the chair to preside at the County Designating Committee.

Representative John F. Carew of Queens designated Judge Warren W. Foster for Judge of General Sessions, a position he now holds, and James D. McClellan seconded the designation. Senator Henry Pollock then designated Lorenz Zeller, who is a Justice of the Court of Special Sessions, for General Sessions, and William F. Grell seconded it. For Judge of the City Court Elwood Rabenold designated the present incumbent, Robert Lee Luce.

John J. Dietz, Tammany leader of the Twenty-fourth Assembly District, was then designated for Sheriff by Judge Jacob Marks. Dietz had a number of his friends in the gallery armed with tin horns and cowbells, and when his name was mentioned they broke loose, but Chairman Wagner, who was running the meeting as if by a time table, drowned the noise with his gavel, and James J. Walker got to the platform and designated James E. Sullivan for County Clerk. This office was slated to go to John V. Coggey, but Murphy cast about until he got a name that suited him.

Edward J. Dowling, brother of Justice Victor J. Dowling, seconded the nomination, and the committee moved on to the office of Register. John F. Galvin nominated Maurice Deiches, who is a well-known lawyer and a resident of the Nineteenth Assembly District.

The Borough Committee then took charge, with Alphonse G. Koeble as Chairman, and N. Taylor Phillips nominated Dr. Thomas Darlington as President of the borough. Mr. Darlington's name was cheered longer than that of any of the other candidates. The nomination of the four Coroners closed the meeting. In the case of every candidate the designation was unanimous, the clerk casting one ballot.

Seth Low sent this telegram yesterday to Mr. Whitman:

> Bedford Hills, N. Y., Aug. 24, 1913.
> Hon. Charles S. Whitman, Mount Washington Hotel, Bretton Woods, New Hampshire:
>
> If the Tammany nomination for District Attorney is offered to you I hope you will spurn it as the unclean thing it is. You would not accept the Tammany nomination for Mayor. Do not accept it for District Attorney. You would not accept a nomination from the System, but the System is only the application to the police service of Tammany morals and Tammany methods. Keep the anti-Tammany issue clear and unmistakable. SETH LOW.

Mr. Whitman did not send a reply.

to secure election were promptly repudiated after election.

> The Independence League therefore has no confidence that if elected this year they would perform the promises that they now make, for their record indicates that any promises they make are solely for the purpose of securing election and are not regarded as binding after election. The Independence League Party considers it time to drive home the lesson that platform promises and solemn pledges made to secure election cannot be cast aside and disregarded with impunity after election, and therefore considers it its duty to defeat Mr. McAneny and Mr. Prendergast.
>
> The Independence League further disagrees with your suggestion that it would be dishonorable in you to accept its nomination unless Mr. McAneny and Mr. Prendergast were likewise nominated.
>
> Four years ago we nominated you, as well as Mr. McAneny and Mr. Prendergast, although we did not nominate Mr. Bannard, the Fusion candidate for Mayor. None of you then suggested that it was dishonorable to accept such nomination unless Mr. Bannard were likewise nominated. On the contrary, you welcomed the nomination, and had no hesitation in appearing on the same platform with Mr. Hearst, who was opposing Mr. Bannard. At that time you saw nothing dishonorable in taking advantage of the nomination, and there is no difference in principle between the situation four years ago and the situation now.
>
> Moreover, if the failure of the Independence League Party to indorse Mr. McAneny and Mr. Prendergast means, as you indicate, the success of the Democratic candidates for President of the Board of Aldermen and Controller, we suggest that by the same token your refusal to accept the nomination of the Independence League Party means the success of the Tammany candidate for Mayor.
>
> The Independence League Party owes no allegiance to the Fusion city slate. It was not consulted with respect to the Fusion city ticket; it has no representatives upon the Fusion Committee of 107, and it has yet to learn that any appointed committee can properly assume to exercise for a political party the functions for which its duly organized committees were elected at the last primaries.
>
> The Independence League desires to further the old-time principle of non-partisanship in municipal elections by nominating and electing those best qualified irrespective of political affiliation; acting upon this principle it is glad to support you as its candidate for Mayor, but declines to support Mr. McAneny and Mr. Prendergast. JAMES A. ALLEN, Chairman.
>
> To John Purroy Mitchel.

Opening of the Convention.

The proceedings of the convention opened in orderly fashion, but soon after the reading of the rollcall trouble began. James A. Allen, as secretary, read to the convention a telegram from Hearst denouncing both McAneny and Prendergast as traitors, and insisting that they could not be nominated consistently upon an Independence League ticket. This was followed by the reading of Candidate John Purroy Mitchel's letter in behalf of his colleagues on the Fusion ticket. Mitchel's letter was greeted with mingled boos and cheers.

James A. Allen denounced both Prendergast and McAneny for having "betrayed the principle of municipal construction and operation of subways, upon which they had been nominated in 1909. He said that both men had been consistent advocates of city-built subways, without the aid of private capital, until the beginning of the "star" chamber conferences held at the home of J. P. Morgan, Theodore P. Shonts, and Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission.

"This convention will determine by its action to-night whether or not the existence of the Independence League as a separate political party is justified or not. We are going to settle the score to-night so far as Prendergast and McAneny are concerned. It may be too late, as Mr. Mitchel has pointed out, to retrieve the wrong which has been done to the people of this city by the infamous subway contracts, but it is not too late for us to prove to the people and to the Committee of One Hundred and Seven that we refuse to condone the treachery of these two men."

Hopper Leads Opposition.

As Mr. Allen concluded, John J. Hopper jumped to his feet and demanded recognition. Amid mingled applause and hisses he said:

"I am a firm believer in municipal ownership, and I believe that the city could and should have constructed its own subways, but there is no use for us to argue upon this point now. It is not the issue in this campaign. The issue is Tammany Hall and Tammany Hall alone.

"Four years ago the Fusion Committee of that day twice offered me the nomination for President of the Board of Aldermen. I refused the nomination because of the platform upon which it was offered. It is unjust to accuse Mr. Prendergast or Mr McAneny of betraying their platform pledges.

"The platform of the Fusion forces in 1909 said that they favored the construction of subways by the city unless the city needed private capital. The Controller and the President of the Board of Alderman have not lived up to the platform of this party upon which they also accepted a nomination, but they have certainly not strayed far from the platform upon which they were originally nominated.

"It is absurd for us to attack the right of the Committee of 107 to make nominations because we were not represented upon it. Mr. Shearn was invited to become a member of the committee and so was Mr. Palliser. The fact that they refused does not give us the right to deny recognition to the action of the committee.

"We tacitly recognized the authority of the committee when members of this organization appeared before it and presented our views and urged a certain lines of action. I labored day and night to obtain for Mr. Allen here the nomination for the Supreme Court which he desired. I think I was instrumental in preventing the nomination of Mr. McAneny for Mayor. I told the committee that if he was nominated we would put a third ticket in the field. What right have we now to refuse to ratify the action of the Fusion Committee?

"I disagree with Mr. McAneny upon many subjects, but with the exception of his subways policy in the Board of Estimate he has given to this borough a clean and conscientious administration.

"He is 1,000 times better than the preceding Tammany incumbent. He believes in many things which this league has advocated: a short ballot, and other reforms. Don't rush into the arms of Tammany Hall by refusing to support him and Mr. Prendergast."

REPUBLICANS FALL IN LINE.

Drop Idea of Bolt and Indorse Fusion Candidates.

While the Fusion situation, so far as keeping John Purroy Mitchel at the head of the ticket is concerned, cleared perceptibly yesterday, the Fusionists are still alarmed over the prominence of Mayor Gaynor as a possible rival, heading a ticket that will indorse all the other Fusion candidates, as well as over the attitude of William R. Hearst, who has refused to support George McAneny and William A. Prendergast.

Mr. Mitchel's attitude in refusing the Independence League nomination for Mayor unless that organization also nominates Mr. McAneny and Mr. Prendergast and the decision of Mr. McAneny to remain on the Fusion ticket, no matter what occurs, did much to give the Fusion leaders new courage. District Attorney Charles S. Whitman also arrived in town, and assured the Fusionists that there was no cause for alarm, as the Republican organization intended to support the entire Fusion ticket.

The Republican organization went on record as favoring the Fusion slate, its Judicial, Borough, and County Committees nominating all the Fusion candidates for those offices. According to Norman Hapgood and Joseph M. Price, the head of the Fusion Committee, there is to be no change in the Fusion ticket. Everything, they said, was in very good condition, and they prophesied that the entire ticket would be elected. Mr. McAneny is going to answer Hearst in his own way and at his own time. He said yesterday that he did not intend to let the Independence League leader's accusation of cowardice and of being a political traitor go unchallenged.

The Fusion leaders held several conferences during the day with Mr. McAneny, Mr. Mitchel, and other candidates, and impressed upon them the necessity of keeping their skirts clear of the Gaynor ticket. Mr. Prendergast is in Europe, and the Fusionists have received no word from him. It was pointed out by the Fusionists that Mr. McAneny and Mr. Whitman could not very well afford to accept a nomination on a Gaynor ticket because the police and the subway issues would be prominent in the campaign. For the District Attorney to run on the same ticket with the Mayor, some of the Fusionists argued, would make it appear that he was in favor of the Gaynor police policy, while with Mr. McAneny running with him, the subway argument would lose much of its force as it would appear that the Borough President was in accord with the early Gaynor subway policies, while it is well known that they were opposed to each other.

Mr. McAneny, however, refused to commit himself regarding what he would do if he were nominated by the Gaynorites.

"I will decide what to do when I have received the nomination," he said. "As for the Hearst attack I have nothing to say at this time, except at no time did I contemplate resigning from the Fusion ticket."

It was the opinion of the Fusionists that the Hearst situation would settle itself. They expected it to die within a few days and be forgotten.

Republicans Stand by Fusion.

Before the various Republican designating committees got together at the Murray Hill Lyceum, on Thirty-fourth Street, there was a meeting of the Executive Committee, at which the district leaders agreed to indorse the Fusion slate and stand by County Chairman Samuel S. Koenig. It was said that Mr. Koenig had received word from District Attorney Whitman, who did not arrive in the city until 6 o'clock in the afternoon, advising the Republicans not to bolt. It was a bitter dose for the Republicans to swallow, and they did not disguise their true feelings. It was one of the most remarkable gatherings of a political party ever held in the city, for the men who presented the names did so plainly against their will.

The borough ticket was disposed of first. Former Senator Martin Saxe nominated Marcus M. Marks for Borough President.

"I know there is considerable feeling among us about the ticket recommended by the Fusion Committee," said Mr. Saxe, "but we have promised to accept it, and we will do so. When the time comes for real non-partisanship we will have real fusion, and not before."

Abraham Gruber, in seconding the nomination, said he had known Mr. Marks for fifteen years, and had found him one of the finest citizens of the city. The members of the committee very promptly indorsed the nomination of Mr. Marks by the Fusionists.

The four Coroners were next designated. Alderman Marks presented the name of Israel L. Feinberg, Leader Ellison of the Seventeenth District named Herman Hellenstein, Thomas Rock named Timothy Healy, the Progressive, and Lloyd Stryker did the same for P. D. Riordan. Joseph Nejedly, leader of the Eighteenth District, threatened to start trouble by naming Dr. John J. Hoebel for Coroner, but Chairman Koenig did not let him get very far.

Candidates for the Supreme Court were named next. Chairman Abraham Gruber of the Judiciary Committee took the platform and made a speech in which he praised both of the Fusion nominees, Eugene A. Philbin and Benjamin N. Cardozo. After telling what a good record Mr. Philbin made in the District Attorney's office Mr. Gruber said:

"The selection of Mr. Cardozo, from the standpoint of law and fine legal service to the people, could not be equaled. I hope every Republican will do his utmost to elect him. I have been asked frequently of late why the Republicans refused to nominate Mr. Whitman for Mayor. I told them we wanted to, but that a committee of Fusionists, at the whim of a gentleman named Price, named their own ticket and that we promised to support it. If the Republicans had their way, every one would have named Charles S. Whitman as his candidate."

Charles S. Coleman of the Fifteenth District named Mr. Philbin saying that as they had to select a Democrat he was glad that it was a good Democrat. Mr. Philbin and Mr. Cardozo were promptly designated.

The county slate was taken up next and John R. Davies of the 21st named William H. Wadhams for the Court of General Sessions, Morris Koenig of the Sixth District then named Carl C. Nott, for General Sessions. Both were designated. J. W. Spencer, Jr., named William L. Ransom, the Progressive, for Judge of the City Court; George J. Madalie of the Thirtieth named William F. Schneider for County Clerk; Max S. Grifenhagen was named for Sheriff by Gustav Hartman of the Sixth District. John J. Hopper, the Independence League leader, was named for Register by J. H. Davenport of the Twenty-third District. All the designations were made.

Frederick C. Tanner, leader of Mr. Whitman's district, the Twenty-third, presented his name for the designation as District Attorney.

"Whitman can afford to wait and the public will be there at the proper time," said Mr. Tanner when the delegates quieted down after cheering the District Attorney's name.

"No thief can afford to have him for District Attorney," said Mr. Tanner, "and no honest man can afford not to have him. No political party or faction can afford to do without his services. His renunciation was an act of patriotism that will not be forgotten."

The delegates designated Mr. Whitman by acclamation, all standing up and cheering.

As the delegates left the hall many openly said that they would not vote for Mr. Mitchel.

Assails Allen's Motives.

Edward T. O'Loughlin of Kings County caused excitement when he repeated a conversation which he said had taken place over the telephone between himself and Allen. He accused Allen of being disgruntled because he had not received a judicial nomination from the Fusion Committee, and said Allen had invited him, as the leader of Kings County, to join in a fight upon Mitchel and the entire ticket in the City Convention.

"I am going to give you the inside facts," said O'Loughlin. "On Aug. 13, 1913, I had a telephone conversation with James A. Allen at Schuyler 5274, in which I was asked by Allen what I was going to do with the 'Hapgood bunch' at the City Convention."

O'Loughlin then read question and answer as the conversation had taken place over the telephone. He quoted Allen as having alluded to Mitchel as "the worst trimmer in the Hapgood bunch."

"I thought that I was nominated for Judge," O'Loughlin quoted Allen as saying. "And Mitchel told me that I would be, but when I woke up they had handed it to Ransom. Ransom was substituted after I had concluded my last conference with the committee."

O'Loughlin continued reading from a typewritten report of the conversation which he said he had dictated to a stenographer immediately after leaving the telephone. According to his report, Allen invited him to "get his crowd together and turn down the Fusion ticket at the Independence League Convention."

According to O'Loughlin, he protested against such action. He quoted Allen as having replied: "Don't place any confidence in Mitchel. He's the worst trimmer in the bunch. He is the slickest, oiliest customer I ever saw in my life."

O'Loughlin explained to the convention that he made these revelations because he had been called a "liar" in a city committee meeting on Saturday night when he accused Allen of having tried to knife Mitchel.

Allen replied to O'Loughlin's attack by saying that the telephone conversation had been exaggerated.

Says It is Hearst or Mitchel.

The debate was halted by the Chairman, who called for nominations for Controller. Sylvester L. Malone nominated William A. Prendergast and begged the convention not to betray Fusion in the interests of Tammany Hall.

In presenting the name of Joseph J. Holwell, James A. Allen said: "We have come to the parting of the ways. You must choose between the leadership of John Purroy Mitchel and that of William R. Hearst. If you think that Mr. Mitchel has a right to tell you whom you shall nominate then go ahead."

Frank Torrey presented the name of James A. Bedell of Brooklyn. The rollcall showed: Holwell, 52; Prendergast, 25, and Bedell, 21.

John J. Hopper named George McAneny for President of the Board of Aldermen, and James A. Donegan named Dennis McAvoy. McAneny was defeated on the rollcall by a vote of 77 to 18.

Throughout the voting there were constant accusations that outsiders were responding to the names of absent delegates. These charges caused considerable bitterness.

HEARST LEAGUE SELECTIONS.

Scheider, Grifenhagen, and Ransom Put on County Ticket.

The adjourned convention of the Independence League County and Judiciary Designating Committee, which was adjourned late last Monday night, was continued last night in Arlington Hall. John J. Hopper occupied the chair.

These designations had been made on Monday night before an adjournment was taken:

For Borough President—MARCUS M. MARKS.

For Coroners—Dr. HEIMAN HELLENSTEIN, Dr. ISAAC L. FEINBERG, Dr. JOHN P. REARDON and TIMOTHY HEALY.

For Supreme Court Justices—EUGENE A. PHILBIN and BARTOW S. WEEKS.

For District Attorney—CHARLES S. WHITMAN.

For Judges of the Court of General Sessions—WILLIAM H. WADHAMS, CHARLES C. NOTT, Jr.

The first designation taken up last night was that of County Clerk. The only name mentioned was that of William F. Schneider, the present incumbent, and he was chosen unanimously.

The name of Chairman Hopper for Register was presented by Edward M. Edelman. There being no other names mentioned the designation was made unanimous.

Max S. Grifenhagen, the Fusion candidate for Sheriff, was unanimously designated for that office.

Before the meeting adjourned last Monday night the names of William R. Ransom and Justice Robert L. Luce, the present incumbent, were presented, for Justice of the City Court. Last night the same names were presented for that office. Justice Luce is a Gov. Sulzer appointee.

After a vote had been taken it was announced that 57 votes had been cast for Ransom and 23 for Justice Luce.

Mr. Ransom is a lawyer, and is at present an assistant secretary of the Public Service Commission.

COL. ROOSEVELT TO SPEAK.

Will Address Progressives at Rochester Committee Meeting.

Col. Roosevelt arrived from the West at the Pennsylvania Station yesterday morning. He met several Progressive leaders at The Outlook office, and it was said that he might have something to say about the local situation on Thursday. He promised State Chairman Thodore Douglas Robinson to attend the meeting of the Progressive State Committee at Rochester on Sept. 27, when candidates for the Court of Appeals will be selected.

He will make a speech there, but it will be his only political speech during the campaign, as he will leave for the Argentine Republic on Oct. 4, not to return for several months.

GET SIX CAMINETTI JURORS.

Include Three Rejected in Diggs Case—Expect to Fill Box To-day.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—When court adjourned to-day six men had been chosen to sit on the jury of twelve to try F. Drew Caminetti on the indictment charging him with violation of the Federal White Slave act. Counsel believe the jury will be completed to-morrow.

Three of the jurors selected are men who were rejected at the trial of Maury I. Diggs, friend and companion of Caminetti, who was convicted last Wednesday in the same court on a similar charge. Four of them are men of wealth, one being Francis J. Carolan, society leader of Burlingame and Newport, polo player and millionaire. It is believed the case will be submitted by Friday of next week.

Caminetti is being tried on four counts of an indictment, which charges that he transported Marsha Warrington and Lola Norris, Sacramento girls, to Reno on March 10, for immoral purposes.

Trial of the Government's case against eight officers, Directors and employes of the Western Fuel Company was set over to-day by Judge Maurice T. Dooling in the United States District Court until Monday, Oct. 13. The reason given was that special counsel for the Government, Theodore Roche and Matt I. Sullivan, were busy with the Caminetti white slavery trial. The Western Fuel case was linked with the Caminetti-Diggs prosecution by the then District Attorney McNab in charging that Attorney General McReynolds had attempted to delay trial of these causes as a favor to the defendants.

GAYNOR EXPECTED TO SAY HE'LL RUN

Announcement Looked For from Him To-day About Others on His Ticket.

DISAGREES WITH SPONSORS

Doesn't Want Fusion Candidates with Him, as His Committee Does—Activity at City Hall.

It is expected that Mayor Gaynor will formally announce this morning at the City Hall that he is willing to accept an independent nomination for Mayor and will inform his political supporters of his views as to other candidates on the ticket. There appears to be little doubt that the Gaynorites will tender to Controller Prendergast and Borough President George McAneny the nominations upon a third ticket for Controller and President of the Board of Aldermen, respectively. It is known that Mayor Gaynor personally favors becoming a candidate upon a purely independent municipal ticket and that he resents any attempt to foist upon him tickets for county or borough offices.

In assuming this attitude the Mayor is opposing the wishes of one of the two principal independent organizations which are urging his candidacy. This is the so-called Municipal Democracy, otherwise known as the Committee of 1,000, headed by William Lustgarten. This organization, according to Chairman Lustgarten, is in favor of indorsing the entire Fusion ticket, including District Attorney Whitman for District Attorney of New York County, substituting only the name of William J. Gaynor for that of John Purroy Mitchel as head of the ticket.

The Gaynor Nominating Committee, of which Fire Commissioner Joseph Johnson is the directing spirit, is inclined to consult the wishes of Mayor Gaynor. This committee includes Herman Ridder of The Staats-Zeitung, R. Ross Appleton, and John M. Harrington, Secretary. This committee is also strongly in favor of indorsing the Fusion candidates for Controller and President of the Board of Aldermen, but is willing to acquiesce to Mayor Gaynor's wishes as to a county or borough ticket.

It was not concealed yesterday by any of the Gaynor advisers that his Honor was still bitter against District Attorney Whitman, whom he had denounced as a political opportunist.

In spite of the fact that Mayor Gaynor remained quietly at St. James yesterday political activity centred about the City Hall. Throughout the day various delegations visited his office to talk with the Mayor's secretary, Robert Adamson.

Secretary Harrington of the Gaynor Fusion Nominating Committee took occasion to deny the report that any dicker was being made with the Republicans to place Gaynor at the head of that party ticket at the priamries on Sept. 16.

In spite of Mr. Harrington's protestations, however, organization Republicans whispered that overtures had been made by the Gaynorites to Republican County Chairman Samuel S. Koenig, Herbert Parsons, and other powers in the city Republican organization, but that the Republican leaders had refused to share honors with Hearst as the opponents of the Fusion movement.

Herman A. Ridder, at his home at Edgemere, L. I., took occasion last night to deny the report that he would accept a nomination for Controller on the Gaynor ticket.

"I have heard such talk, but there is nothing in it," he said. "I am not a candidate for any office. My business and newspaper interests would not permit me to run. I will suport Mayor Gaynor in every way in my power upon whatever ticket he runs, but as to his probable running mates I have nothing to say. Any such announcement must come from Mayor Gaynor himself. It is true, however, that his nominating committee favor the indorsement of Messrs. Prendergast and McAneny."

When Borough President McAneny was asked what effect, if any, Mr. Mitchel's rejection of the Independence League nomination would have upon his acceptance of a nomination upon the Gaynor ticket, he smiled.

"I have not been tendered such a nomination as yet, and neither has Mr. Prendergast. It would be impolitic for us to accept or reject a nomination which we have not received. We will not cross that bridge until we come to it."

The trend of organization Republicans to Gaynor was demonstrated last night, when it became known that a movement was on foot to nominate Frederick Marshall, the Republican leader of the Tenth Assembly District, for Sheriff of New York County upon the Gaynor ticket. Jacob Kostman, a lieutenant of Marshall, announced last night that he was going to open Gaynor headquarters on the east side, and that he expected many Republicans to enlist in the movement.

Among the callers at City Hall yesterday who were disappointed in not interviewing Mayor Gaynor was John A. Hennessy, Gov. Sulzer's personal adviser. Mr. Hennessy asserted that his visit was a personal one and had nothing to do with politics. When asked whether or not there was any truth in the report that Gov. Sulzer would take the stump for Gaynor and help him to pound Tammany, Mr. Hennessy replied that he did not believe that the Governor had ever declared his intention to participate in the present municipal campaign.

The Kings County Gaynor forces held a meeting yesterday at their headquarters near Borough Hall and arranged for nominating petitions.

Major John W. Tumbridge, Superintendent of Highways for the Borough of Brooklyn and Queens, and one of the organizers of the Gaynor Committee in Brooklyn, expressed the opinion yesterday that there would be a complete Gaynor ticket in the field. The general impression prevailed among the Gaynorites that Frank Mann, designated by the Democrats for Borough President, would also be on the ticket headed by the Mayor.

The Bronx Jeffersonian Union, the anti-Tammany Democrats of the Thirty-fifth Assembly District, united under Eugene J. McGuire, gathered more than 1,000 strong last night in the meeting rooms of the union at 163d Street and Third Avenue and unanimously indorsed Mayor Gaynor as their candidate for Mayor.

McCALL DISPUTES MITCHEL.

Not True That He Sought to Modify Subway Contracts, He Says.

The first controversy between the Fusion and the Tammany candidates for Mayor started yesterday when Edward E. McCall, Chairman of the Public Service Commission and the Tammany Mayoralty candidate, vigorously denied the statement of John Purroy Mitchel, the Fusion candidate, that he (McCall) had already tried to modify the dual subway contract so as to benefit the traction companies. Mr. Mitchel made the charge in his letter to Chairman Taylor of the Independence League City Committee. Mr. McCall said:

"There is not a word of truth in it or the slightest justification for such a statement. Before Mr. Mitchel issues a document of that kind he ought to find out what the facts are. The best source of refutation for the statement is Mr. McAneny of the Board of Estimate, who is Mr. Mitchel's colleague on the ticket. I am willing to accept what he says on the subject, for I know that he will tell the truth.

"There never has been any disposition to modify the contracts in the manner Mr. Mitchel sets forth, but there is one thing that I am determined on having in this subway programme, and that is action. If any legal authority is vested in this commission to meet any exigency that should tend to get action without involving the city in unnecessary expenditure or increasing the cost of construction unnecessarily, I am in favor of modifying the contracts in the interest of progress."

When Borough President McAneny was asked if he knew of any attempt being made by the Public Service Commission to modify any existing subway contract, he said:

"Only that relating to the completion of the Steinway Tunnel, in which the Public Service Commission has agreed that the Interborough shall receive 10 per cent. as profits over the cost of labor and materials. There has been some difference of opinion as to the basis of compensation, and the matter is now in the hands of my committee for conference with the Public Service Commission. The Interborough claims that this work was not covered in the original contracts, and it seems to be a question of fact as to what and how far an allowance should be made."

"Did not Mr. Mitchel have some other modification in mind in the letter he wrote?" he was asked.

"I do not know, unless he refers to the so-called contract, or rather the form of contract, proposed to be given to the John S. Stevens Company, covering the cost of equipment of the elevated lines, involving some $25,000,000, I believe. This did not propose exactly a modification of the main contract, but it did propose a radical departure from what I had considered as to the agreement for contract work of this sort.

"The Board of Estimate would not have been required to approve or disapprove the Stevens contract. I did, however, call it objectionable and directed the attention of the Public Service Commission to its objectionable feature and succeeded in having it referred to me.

"No action was taken by the Public Service Commission, and Judge McCall assured me to-day, as he has done before, that none will be taken in the contract's present form. I had understood that at a meeting of the Public Service Commission some informal discussion had taken place looking toward its approval. There has been no haste about it, and the contract has not been officially acted upon. I understand now that no action will be taken by the commission until its form is radically changed and the proper basis of computation provided."

Mr. Mitchel would not amplify his original statement or reply to Mr. McCall's denial of its truth.

TIERNEY HEADS TICKET.

Democrats of the Bronx Designate Him as Borough President.

The Democrats of the Bronx last night designated John M. Tierney, a Municipal Court Justice, as Borough President.

For Coroner the Democrats designated Jerome F. Healy, the incumbent, and Harry Minogue, a plumber.

Several other designations were made last night in the Bronx. The Democrats of the Thirty-ninth and Forty-first Aldermanic Districts designated Thomas J. Dunn and William F. Quigley as their candidates.

The Democrats of the Thirty-fifth District designated William J. Cahill, a lawyer, as candidate for the Assembly.

The Progressives of the Twenty-first Senatorial District designated Lazarus E. Simpson, a lawyer of 1,104 Simpson Street, as their candidate for the vacancy created by the conviction of Stephen J. Stilwell.

HORSE POISONING CASE UP.

Herman Rich, Indicted Liveryman, to Appear in Court To-day.

Herman Rich, a member of Cohen, Rich & Cohen, liverymen, at 14 Hamilton Street, will appear before Judge Rosalsky in the Court of General Sessions to-day to answer an indictemnt handed down by the Grand Jury on Monday and charging "unlawful destruction of property." According to Samuel Hellinger and T. J. O'Neill of 309 Broadway, who are Rich's counsel, their client is out of the city, but they said he would return to-day and would surrender himself immediately.

The indictment of Rich is an important development in the investigation of east side horse poisoning cases which is being conducted by Assistant District Attorney Weller. It followed the testimony of Politziner Brothers, grocers, of 332 East 103d Street, who charge that Rich was responsible for the death of six of their horses. The persecution of the grocers, it was charged, was for the purpose of causing them to sell their horses for a price much lower than their actual value, and further of compelling the Politziners to rent horses of liverymen connected with the poisoners' gang.

The investigation so far has resulted in the indictment of three prominent east side business men, of whom Rich is the third. All are charged with complicity in the poisoning of horses. Important revelations of the poisoners' practices have been made to the Grand Jury by Joseph Toblinsky, known as "Yesky Nigger," who is now under a ten-year sentence for burglary.

KILLS HERSELF IN STATION.

Woman Takes Poison and Leaves Card Upbraiding Husband.

Shortly after 6 o'clock last evening a well-dressed woman of middle age walked into the Lackawanna Railroad station in Hoboken, and, going to one of the benches, swallowed the contents of a vial presumably containing poison, although it bore a glycerine label. The woman died before the station attendants reached her side.

She carried a small handbag containing a pawn ticket calling for a ring pawned yesterday afternoon, and a picture postcard upon which was written the following:

> My dear Alfred: When this card reaches you I will be dead and buried. I hope that you and E. will be happy, as you wanted it that way. I am sick and can't make a living. I did it because you treated me like a dog. Your wife, ELISA.

The card was addressed to Alfred Ahrens, Kaiser Street, Bremerhaven, Germany. The body was taken to Volk's Morgue in Hoboken.

HON. J. H. SIMS A PUZZLE.

Long Search for Distinguished Guest Discloses a Seven-Year-Old Boy.

When at the end of a long list of visitors from Charleston, West Va., the energetic press representative at the Imperial discovered the name of "Hon. James Henry Sims," she was sure that here was a distinguished statesman. So she endeavored to make an appointment for persons who desired to talk with Mr. Sims.

The Hon. James Henry Sims was hard to find. None of the clerks could remember him, and the puzzle was how a West Virginia statesman could make himself unknown at a Broadway hotel.

Not until nightfall, after a day mostly spent in looking for him, was the identity of the traveler established. He turned out to be a little 7-year-old boy. A fond parent or a doting relative had been playing a joke on the house.

FAIL TO SWIM CHANNEL.

Rough Sea Forces American and British Swimmers to Give Up.

DOVER, England, Aug. 26.—Two unsuccessful attempts to swim the English Channel were made to-day. Henry F. Sullivan of Lowell, Mass., started from South Foreland, and after remaining in the water ten hours was compelled to abandon the attempt owing to the rough sea.

Jabez Wolffe, the English amateur long-distance swimmer, began his sea journey at Cape Grisnez, France, and swam twenty-four miles, including the drift with the tide. He left the water at mid-channel. It was Wolffe's ninth attempt.

Labor Sunday at St. Patrick's.

On Sunday evening, eve of Labor Day, a special service will be given at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Fifth Avenue and Fiftieth Street, at which Cardinal Farley will preside, and the Rt. Rev. D. J. McMahon will deliver a sermon on the rights and duties of the workingman. Representatives of many labor organizations will be present.

SULZER'S ENEMIES SEEK MORE EVIDENCE

Frawley Committee Will Resume Its Hearings in This City Next Week.

MAY UPSET "CONFESSION"

Expect to Show Mrs. Sulzer Did Not Use Campaign Checks—Indictment Talk Amuses Murphy.

The Frawley Investigating Committee is preparing to open fire on William Sulzer again. Meetings will be held in this city next week at which more evidence relating to the administration of the Sulzer campaign fund will be brought out. This evidence will be purely cumulative in nature. According to Eugene Lamb Richards, counsel for the Frawley Committee, other lawyers of prominence whom he has consulted are in thorough accord with his opinion that the $2,500 check obtained by Mr. Sulzer from Jacob H. Schiff and his subsequent failure to account for it in his sworn statement to the Secretary of State will be sufficient to sustain the charge made in the Articles of Impeachment.

It was said yesterday that the "confession" of Mrs. Sulzer would be torn to shreds and evidence produced to show that she had no connection whatever with the use for stock market purposes of checks contributed to Sulzer's campaign fund, and yet from an authoritative source it was learned that this "confession" would be the salient feature of the defense of William Sulzer before the High Court of Impeachment should the case ever go to trial, which many persons who have watched the situation closely and are familiar with the evidence in the possession of the impeachment managers greatly doubt.

Majority Leader Aaron J. Levy of the Assembly, in his capacity as Chairman off the Board of Impeachment Managers, announced yesterday that two new members had been added to the staff of lawyers who are to appear for the prosecution. These already include former Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals Alton B. Parker, former State Senator Edgar Truman Brackett, and Eugene Lamb Richards. Those retained yesterday were Isidor J. Kresel of this city and Hiram I. Todd of Albany. Mr. Kresel was an Assistant District Attorney under William Travers Jerome, and at present is connected with his law firm. Mr. Todd is one of the prominent lawyers at the capital.

Ex-Judge Lynn J. Arnold of Albany yesterday reiterated his declaration that Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy would be indicted almost immeditely. The Tammany boss smiled broadly and shrugged his shoulders when some newspaper men who saw him at Tammany Hall asked him about it. He wouldn't make any comment.

Mr. Arnold, in a formal statement issued at the Union League Club, said the attitude of his Albany newspaper was greatly misunderstood in this city. It was conducting its present fight to prevent a trial of William Sulzer on technical grounds in the interest of pure government, he asserted. Charles F. Murphy, Aaron J. Levy, Senator James J. Frawley, and "many others," Mr. Arnold characterized as "grafters who must be ousted." He said the evidence against them was piling up in the office of his newspaper, and that it was being delivered in installments to the proper officials, including District Attorney Whitman of this city.

He indorsed as correct the statement made by D Cady Herrick of William Sulzer's counsel, in which he disclaimed any responsibility for the reports spread by Judge Arnold, James C. Garrison, and other men looked upon as the personal representatives of Mr. Sulzer, who threaten wholesale indictments against bosses, State officials, and lawmakers, and said that Mr. Sulzer's counsel were not interested in indicting Mr. Murphy or any other person.

Mr. Arnold spoke bitterly of the inactivity of Mr. Sulzer's legal representatives, and said he washed his hands of them. Neither he nor his newspaper, he said, was responsible for "the hysterics of one James C. Garrison." Mr. Garrison is looked upon at the Capitol as Mr. Sulzer's press agent, just as Mr. Arnold's newspaper is looked upon as Mr. Sulzer's organ.

"This fight is a fight for the people," said Judge Arnold. "The people will triumph and Mr. Murphy, his superiors and inferiors, will receive their just deserts."

A majority of the legislative leaders started for Albany last night, where they will confer, prior to the session of the lawmaking body this evening. Tremendous efforts have been made to have a quorum on hand, partly to receive a special message from Acting Governor Glynn and pass on legislation recommended by him, and partly to the end that the Legislature may be in a position to take drastic measures to punish Louis A. Sarecky, former confidential clerk to William Sulzer, and Frederick L. Colwell, Mr. Sulzer's agent in the speculative market, for contempt. Both failed to answer questions before the Frawley Investigating Committee with reference to the administration of the Sulzer campaign fund and the use of some of the money received for the purchase of securities.

It is likely, also, that action will be taken to compel James C. Garrison to make good on or withdraw his charge that four Assemblymen were paid money to vote for the resolution impeaching Mr. Sulzer.

LET MURPHY BEWARE OF ROSE

Tapped Wires—Sh-sh!—Revealed Boss's Orders to the Assembly.

An ordinary postal card, written and addressed with a lead pencil, conveyed this information to THE TIMES yesterday:

> Big piece of news for you in Sulzer-Murphy fight. If used I shall expect $25. Not exclusive. Have your man meet me outside of 219 West Thirty-sixth Street Tuesday, Aug. 26, at 3 P. M.

A reporter for THE TIMES went to 219 West Thirty-sixth Street, a four-story rooming house, at 3 P. M., as requested. A number of reporters from other newspapers arrived about the same time. On the steps of the house sat a dark-haired man about fifty years old. He got up with a great deal of effort and welcomed the reporters. His back was bent, and he looked as if life had gone hard with him.

"You know me, boys, don't you?" he asked. "Your newspapers have been hounding me for many years. Probably if I told you my real street name you'd remember me all right."

Then he told his "street" name and his eyes sparkled as he saw that many of the reporters instantly identified him.

"Don't use my name," he began, "and I'll give you a tip on the biggest story that ever broke loose in this town. I'm sick. I'm broke. I need the money."

The man was a criminal of worldwide notoriety, but whose name later became linked with those of counterfeiters, blackmailers, and with get-rich-quick schemes.

See Rose, Says Tipster.

"Go and see W. L. Rose of 337 West Twentieth Street," said the ex-convict. "He'll give you a story, maybe. He was a Federal Secret Service man once. Of late years he has been an investigator. He investigated the gambling in this city some years ago and got a lot of cops pinched. He's a brainy detective. He's Sulzer's right-hand man in the fight against Murphy. He tapped a telephone wire the night that the Sulzer impeachment resolution was being passed upon in Albany. He's got the goods. That's it, boys. Now you know what to do."

At 337 West Twentieth Street, one flight up, W. L. Rose was found in a small apartment. He appeared very much surprised that reporters had found him. How could the news possibly have leaked out? He wanted to know. Perhaps it was from one of his co-workers in Washington, he suggested. He was reluctant to talk, but the reluctance wore off little by little, and finally Mr. Rose agreed to tell a little of his "big story." He would have to reserve the real story, of course, for District Attorney Whitman and a Grand Jury, he said. He agreed with the newspaper tipster that the story would be the "biggest ever."

To begin with, Mr. Rose admitted that he was Sulzer's confidential investigator. He and Sulzer knew things, he said, which no other mortal knew. And if Tammany Hall knew what he and Sulzer knew: "Why, you know some men wouldn't stop at murder," he observed.

"Did you tap Charles F. Murphy's telephone wire?" Mr. Rose was asked.

Wait for Indictments, Says Rose.

"Don't get me mixed up in this," he said. "I am not saying that I had anything to do with it. But I do say that before this Sulzer-Murphy fight blows over there will be much scurrying to cover. Sulzer will come out head and shoulders above his rivals. The people will soon come to his rescue. Wait till the indictments come."

"What indictments?" the reporters asked.

There was no way out of it. Mr. Rose had to give the reporters enough material for a story. He asked his visitors to find seats, and then he began in earnest.

On the night that the Sulzer impeachment vote was taken, he said, Tammany Leader Murphy [as published in all the newspapers] was on the long-distance telephone all night in conversation with his henchmen in Albany. Murphy spoke directly to the Speaker's room at the Capitol. Two men cut in on the wire that leads to Murphy's East Seventeenth Street house, Mr. Rose said. They heard every word that Murphy said. They took it down on note paper. Later they made affidavits covering all that they overheard. They identified both the speaker at this end of the wire and the speaker at the Albany end.

But that wasn't all, according to Mr. Rose. There was evidence in his possession, he asserted, which corroborated the telephone conversations from beginning to end. This corroboration, he said, was supplied by an Assemblyman who had been approached to vote for Gov. Sulzer's impeachment in return for the payment of a sum of money. This man had voted for impeachment, but had later refused to accept the bribe money. He regretted having voted for impeachment, it was explained, and had turned his information over to Sulzer. Mr. Rose referred to this man as "the only honest Assemblyman."

"Who is that Assemblyman?" he was asked.

"Much as I like money," said Mr. Rose, "I would not divulge his name for a thousand dollars. No one knows his name except Gov. Sulzer and myself. I'm sorry any of this got out. I don't want to say any more about it. I was told to hold myself in readiness to appear before the Grand Jury, and there I am willing to tell everything. You know good things sometimes go wrong through premature publicity. All I can tell you is that the evidence in my possession points to the indictment of three, perhaps of four, men.

All News to Judge Arnold.

"Go and see Judge Arnold about it. It was because of this information that the investigation before the Assembly Judiciary Committee was halted yesterday. Judge Arnold didn't want to make these things public. He wanted to wait for the return of District Attorney Whitman, so that he might lay the matter before him and before a Grand Jury. Go and see Judge Arnold."

Ex-Judge Lynn J. Arnold, editor of an Albany paper which has sided strongly against the impeachment of Mr. Sulzer, was found at the Union League Club.

"Who is W. L. Rose?" he asked of the reporters when told of the Rose charges. "I never heard of him. Did he say he was Gov. Sulzer's investigator? That is news to me. I don't know anything about these charges."

He was remaining in the city, Mr. Arnold said, for the express purpose of seeing District Attorney Whitman, but his charge of conspiracy involving Charles F. Murphy and other Tammany men, he said, was predicated on an entirely different thing than the tapping of Murphy's private telephone wires. He knew nothing about that, he repeated.

John A. Hennessy, Mr. Sulzer's trusted advisor and appointee, was found at the Press Club. He also said that he had never heard of W. L. Rose, or of the Rose tale of wire tapping. He also referred inquirers to Judge Arnold.

District Attorney Whitman, when he arrived at the Grand Central Station last evening, said that he was not in a position to say anything about the Sulzer-Murphy fight. Several of Mr. Whitman's friends laughed at the idea of tapping Mr. Murphy's telephone wires. They said the story sounded like an Arabian Nights' tale.

PICKPOCKETS GOT $1,000.

Teacher Bowled Over in Street—Sleuths' Good Work Recovers Cash.

When Prof. James Cunningham, teacher of Latin in St. Francis Xavier College, was in a cigar store at 152d Street and Jackson Avenue in the Bronx on Monday afternoon he was indiscreet enough to give the idlers at the counter a glimpse of ten $100 bills which he had just drawn from the bank. Two of them followed him from the store and contrived, in an artful manner, to bump into him with such apparent clumsiness that he was bowled over. He was very angry, but it was not until later when two onlookers suggested an inventory of his pockets that he found his roll of money was gone.

Last evening, when the professor made his formal complaint to the detectives at the Morrisania Station, two of them, Meyer and Bruckman, strolled over to the neighborhood of the holdup and sounded the local bartenders for evidences of unwonted prosperity in the younger set of the neighborhood. This fastened suspicion on John Mullins of 276 East 105th Street and Leo Moore of the same address, and the professor promptly identified them as the two who had upset him in the street. So they were locked up.

According to the police, the two admitted their guilt, Mullins directing them to search under the cushions of an auto seat in a West End Avenue garage and Moore reluctantly leading them to a boulder in Franz Siegel Park. In each cache $500 was found.

PUTS MRS. VELIE UNDER BAIL

U. S. Commissioner Holds Her for Grand Jury on Smuggling Charge.

Mrs. William L. Velie, wife of the President of the Velie Motor Company of Moline, Ill., and her companion, Miss Mary Lilly, appeared before United States Commissioner Edward R. Stanton in Hoboken yesterday afternoon on a charge of attempting to smuggle into this country jewelry and wearing apparel valued at $3,000. Mrs. Velie was held in $1,000 and Miss Lilly in $500 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury, which convenes in Trenton on Sept. 9. They were released on bonds furnished by a surety company.

Mrs. Velie was accompanied to court by her husband and her daughter, Miss Marjorie Velie. Representing Mrs. Velie and Miss Lilly were Joseph P. Cotton of the firm of Spooner & Cotton, 14 Wall Street, and Henry G. Gennert of 149 Broadway. The only witness examined was Joseph P. O'Connor, Acting Deputy Surveyor, who testified that he had examined Mrs. Velie's baggage, following her arrival a week ago yesterday on the Kaiser Wilhelm II., and had found more than $3,000 worth of jewelry, wearing apparel, and other imported articles, among which was $400 worth of linens that had never been used. No duty had been paid on any of these articles and none had been declared, he testified.

After hearing Deputy Surveyor O'Connor's testimony Commissioner Stanton said that the Government's case was closed as far as he was concerned. Following a consultation between counsel, he ordered the release on bail of Mrs. Velie and her companion.

SUES CARLEY FOR DIVORCE.

Case Is Put on Calendar of Undefended Actions.

That Mrs. Irene H. Carley had begun suit for divorce from Frank C. Carley, a member of the New York Stock Exchange, became known yesterday when the case was placed upon the calendar of undefended divorce actions.

The co-respondent in the case is not named. Mrs. Carley asks for the custody of her 7-year-old daughter, but makes no demand for alimony. The Carleys were married in 1905 and have lived at 118 East Fifty-fourth Street.

RALLY LEGISLATORS FOR GLYNN MESSAGE

Full Attendance Urged for To-night, When Acting Governor Will Be Formally Recognized.

COL. SCOTT AT CAPITOL

Deposed Prison Head Denies Visit to Glynn Was "Official"—Sulzer Names Sanity Commission.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 26.—Personal requests were sent by telegraph to-day to the members of the Legislature urging a full attendance when the lawmakers reconvene to-morrow evening. Acting Gov. Glynn expects to send to the Legislature at that time a message or a series of messages calling for legislative action on appropriation bills to meet obligations unprovided for as a result of the exercise of the veto power by Gov. Sulzer at the time of the regular session.

Mr. Glynn said to-night that he would send in no nominations, although Curtis N. Douglas, a member of the Public Service Commission, Second District, was one of his callers to-day. Mr. Douglas, a brother-in-law of ex-Gov. Dix, is holding over. He was appointed last November to fill a vacancy. Gov. Sulzer refused to send a nomination to the Senate this year. Mr. Douglas's term expired Jan. 20, but under the law he holds over until his successor qualifies. Gov. Sulzer was unable to obtain the confirmation of a man of his own choice.

For the first time since he was removed from the office of State Superintendent of Prisons by Gov. Sulzer, Col. Joseph F. Scott called at the Capitol to-day. He was accompanied by John G. McDowell, Col. Scott's former chief clerk. They called at the Attorney General's office, and later visited Acting Gov. Glynn. The removal of Col. Scott was one of the principal causes of the differences between Gov. Sulzer and the Tammany leaders.

His Visit Not "Official."

Col. Scott said his visit was not "official," and declined to make any statement concerning issues in which he was involved. Mr. McDowell said they were examining papers in the case of ex-Warden John S. Kennedy of Sing Sing, who is under indictment. The former superintendent may be called as a witness in the Kennedy trial.

Acting Gov. Glynn said the visit of Col. Scott was entirely of a personal character. At the office of the Attorney General it was stated that neither Col. Scott nor Mr. McDowell had any official business with that department.

For several days rumors had been heard around the Capitol that the dismissal of Col. Scott would play a prominent part in certain legal proceedings projected. In New York yesterday Judge Lynn J. Arnold, who is trying to procure the indictment of some of Mr. Sulzer's leading opponents, declared that an important former State official would figure prominently in this matter. Speaking of the evidence he had collated, Judge Arnold characterized it as covering "one of the most fiendish plots I ever heard of," and added that a former State official was the victim.

Mr. Sulzer announced to-day that he had appointed Dr. Harold L. Palmer, Superintendent of the Utica State Hospital, and Dr. Arthur W. Hurd, Superintendent of the Buffalo State Hospital, to act with Dr. Charles W. Pilgrim, Superintendent of the Hudson River Hospital at Poughkeepsie, as a commission to examine Antonio Africano, a murderer now in Auburn Prison, as to his mental condition. Africano, who is under sentence of death, has been pronounced insane by a commission, and a respite was granted on June 16, 1913, until Sept. 22. The State Hospital Commission is friendly to Mr. Sulzer, and the Superintendents probably will recognize the assignment. Charles Rattigan, Warden of Auburn, is also friendly to Mr. Sulzer.

Glynn Answers Arnold.

Acting Governor Glynn, in his Albany newspaper, to-day answered Lynn J. Arnold, who is asking for the indictment of Charles F. Murphy, Senator Frawley, Assemblyman Levy, Mr. Glynn, and others on a charge of conspiracy against Mr. Sulzer. Stephen C. Clark is the owner of the Knickerbocker Press of Albany, of which Mr. Arnold is the manager. The Glynn newspaper says:

> Mr. Arnold is ambitious to make Stephen C. Clark Governor. For that reason Arnold and the Clarks, with no real sympathy in their hearts for Gov. Sulzer, are attempting to widen the breach in both the Democratic and Republican Parties, to the end that Stephen C. Clark, with the aid of Theodore Roosevelt, may come to "save the people" and land in the Executive Chamber.

As a guarantee that the State Governmnt will be run smoothly and without chaos the Acting Governor submits his record in public life and expresses a willingness to match his personal character with that of Lynn J. Arnold.

At the Executive Chamber to-night copies of resolutions commending Gov. Sulzer's stand for a direct primary and condemning the "unseemly haste and evident lack of judicial temper" of the Legislature in the impeachment matter were given to the public. These resolutions were from the Progressive City Committee of Mt. Vernon, the Sixth Election District of Huntington, L. I., the Civic Committee of the Young Folks' Association, Brooklyn; the Ontario County Democratic Committee, and other organizations. In one communication Mr. Sulzer was informed of the organization in Albany of the People's Rights League to aid him in his fight.

BRODERICK WINS; IS SUED.

Brother Asks Damages in Deal Involving Bishop of Havana.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 26.—No sooner had Bishop Bonaventure Broderick of Saugerties, N. Y., been declared by Judge Marcus H. Holcomb a victor to-day to the amount of $18,901, a quarter of the amount asked, in the sensational suit he has been waging against his brother, David Broderick of Farmington, Conn. then the Bishop was himself made defendant in a suit in which David claims $75,000 damages from the Bishop, who is accused of defrauding David of $40,000, which, it is alleged, was collected about June 15, 1901, in the adjustment of certain matters between the United States and the Right Rev. Bishop Sbaretti of Havana, after Bishop Broderick had become associated with Hugh J. Reilly and Walstein Root.

The Bishop's verdict against David was in connection with a contract for constructing a sewer and water system in Cienfuegos, Cuba, with which the name of William Sulzer has been associated. Ex-Congressman John A. Sullivan of Boston was a co-plaintiff and Reilly a co-defendant. The suit was on trial here many weeks. David insisted to-night that the verdict really was a victory for himself, because the charge of fraud was not sustained against him.

In the writ served to-day on the Bishop is a copy of the contract which it is alleged was never fulfilled, and which follows:

> New York City, June, 1900.
>
> Whereas we, the undersigned, desire to secure your (David F. Broderick's) co-operation in the adjustment of certain questions now pending between the Government of the United States of North America and the Right Rev. Bishop Sbaretti, Bishop of Havana, in consideration of co-operation on your part we herby agree to give you one-seventh part of all value received by us in any form from either of the above mentioned parties for adjustment of any difference now pending, your signature hereto attached to be sufficient evidence of your co-operation to entitle you to the above mentioned one-seventh part.

This document purports to be signed by H. J. Reilly, Walstein Root, per H. J. Reilly, and D. F. Broderick.

Action for $750,000 damages, brought by Señor Frias, a former Cuban Senator, against the Brodericks, Congressman Sullivan, Hugh J. Reilly, and numerous others interested in the Cienfuegos contract, is pending in the Superior Court.

TO FORBID INTEREST ON U. S. DEPOSITS

Strong Caucus Tendency to Amend Reserve Bank Feature of the Currency Bill.

CARRIED, BUT NO QUORUM

Will Be Acted Upon Later—Senate to Give Hearing to Bankers as Matter of Caution.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—No interest is to be charged any regional reserve bank upon any deposit of Government funds made with such bank in the proposed new Federal banking system, if the leaders of the House in charge of the Administration Currency bill have their way.

The Glass-Owen bill, as introduced in the House early last month and as reported from the Banking and Currency Committee to the Democratic caucus early in August, did contain a provision for the charging of interest. That provision now is to be eliminated under an agreement between Chairman Glass and his colleagues on the Banking and Currency Committee, who have been supporting the bill, and the Democratic leaders of the caucus, who are standing behind President Wilson's position on the bill.

Representative Bulkley of Ohio, one of the Democratic members of the Banking and Currency Committee, offered in the party caucus to-day an amendment bearing the indorsement of the committee, and changing the bill so as to provide that no Federal reserve bank shall pay interest upon any deposit, government or otherwise. The caucus vote in favor of the Bulkley amendment was 92 to 38, but it was taken late in the afternoon, and a number of members had gone to dinner. One of the radicals opposed to the bill raised the point of no quorum. It was necessary for 146 members to be present to provide a quorum, and on the vote there were 16 less than the required number. Consequently, the Bulkley amendment, though urged by Chairman Glass and other members of the committee, and overwhelmingly favored by the Democrats in the caucus, was not adopted.

Consideration Put Off.

An agreement was then reached to postpone consideration of this matter until after the rest of the bill had been closed up in caucus. Then the Bulkley amendment again will be offered, and there is every reason to believe that it will be adopted by a big majority.

The paragraph in Section 16, which the Bulkley amendment proposes to change, now reads:

> The Secretary of the Treasury shall, subject to the approval of the Federal Reserve Board, from time to time apportion the funds of the Government among the said Federal reserve banks, distrubting them as far as practicable equitably between different sections, and may, at their joint discretion, charge interest thereon and fix from month to month a rate never less than one half of 1 per centum per annum, which shall be regularly paid by the banks holding such deposits; provided that no Federal reserve bank shall pay interest upon any deposits except those of the United States.

The Bulkley amendment proposed to change this paragraph to read:

> The Secretary of the Treasury shall, subject to the approval of the Federal Reserve Board, from time to time apportion the funds of the Government among the said Federal reserve banks, distributing them, as far as practicable, equitably between different sections; provided that no Federal reserve bank shall pay interest upon any deposit.

Hearing for Bankers.

Though the Administration made it plain yesterday that the suggestions of the bankers' conference in Chicago carried little weight in Washington, the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency will hear some of the bankers next Tuesday. In announcing the hearing, Chairman Owen explained that all the points brought forward by the bankers had been considered long ago, and that the hearing was to be granted merely out of "abundance of caution."

The effect of the hearing on the committee, however, is problematical. In the committee considerable opposition, not only to particular features of the Owen-Glass bill, but to any legislation on currency at this session has been manifested. The progress of the bill in the House has somewhat weakened this opposition, but some members of the committee, even on the majority side, will be glad to hear objections voiced by experienced bankers.

It is expected that Tuesday's list of witnesses will include George M. Reynolds and J. B. Forgan of Chicago; Festus J. Wade of St. Louis; A. B. Hepburn of New York, and Sol Wexler of New Orleans.

FRANK SENTENCED TO DIE.

Execution Set for Oct. 10, but New Trial Is Asked For.

ATLANTA, Aug. 26.—Leo M. Frank, of Brooklyn, superintendent of the local factory of the National Pencil Co., who was convicted yesterday of murdering Mary Phagan, was to-day sentenced to death. The execution was set for October 10.

Before sentence was pronounced Frank's attorneys moved for a new trial on the ground that several popular demonstrations said to have been heard by the jurymen had prejudiced the case. October 4 was set for the argument on this motion.

Frank kept cool while he listened to the reading of his sentence. Not until Judge Roan reached the concluding words did the factory superintendent display nervousness.

Newt Lee, the negro night watchman at the National Pencil Factory, was released from jail to-day. Lee was arrested immediately after he had reported the finding of the Phagan girl's body in the factory basement. Together with Frank he was bound over to the grand jury after a coroner's inquest but no indictment was ever returned against him.

James Conley, negro sweeper at the factory, who told the Frank jury he helped dispose of Mary Phagan's body, remains under arrest.

A fellow-graduate of Cornell is calling upon the alumni of that institution to join him in clearing the character of one of their number, Leo Frank, who was convicted on Monday in Atlanta, Ga., of the brutal murder of a fifteen-year-old girl. Letters of appeal were sent out last night to Oscar S. Straus and other influential members of the Cornell alumni body, rehearsing Frank's excellent record in the undergraduate life of the university as tending to show that he could not have committed the crime of which he was convicted.

"I am firmly convinced," the writer says in the letter to Mr. Straus, "that the testimony of the two negroes against him, prompted by the desire to keep suspicion from themselves, was only accepted because of anti-Semitic prejudice."

Leo Frank, the letters explain, was a debater and basket ball player. His class was 1906.

Will Investigate at Ellis Island.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Richard H. Taylor of Washington, James L. Hughes of Philadelphia, and P. L. Prentis of Chicago, all attached to the immigration service, were appointed to-day by Secretary Wilson of the Department of Labor to investigate conditions at the immigrant station at Ellis Island.

sudden; and he is not what you might call sanguine.

One thing is sure, however, and that is that instead of having finished the thing by a bold stroke Mr. Shurtleff has simply opened up a new line of legal wrangling.

Mr. McKeown met the questions of the correspondents by saying that Mr. Shurtleff's application left the situation just the same as it was when Thaw was arrested.

"The proceedings are so mixed up that I can't say what the next move will be," he replied. "The situation is one that has never been faced in Canada, and I don't believe there are any laws to cover all the complications. Maybe the barristers on the other side can tell you what they are going to do. We are going to sit tight and wait for them to make the next move.

"Thaw apparently will be arrested on a faulty warrant which charges him with escaping from an insane asylum in New York State. That is no crime here, and he is charged with nothing that is a crime in the eyes of Canadian laws; but nevertheless he is held in jail on a warrant, and I don't believe he can be touched by the immigration officials until that charge is disposed of. If they attempt to arrest him on the charge that he entered the country by stealth or is insane we can check them immediately by continuing the habeas corpus proceedings, but I don't think they are going to try to do that, and I don't think any warrant they might produce would be honored by any jailer until the present charge, foolish though it may be, is disposed of. Thaw can get out of jail, of course, but we have here a case for which I know no precedent—that of a man in jail who does not want to get out. It is for the other side to get him out; how they are going to do it I am not going to try to explain."

Mr. Jerome and the American lawyers here did not attempt to solve the problem. They threw up their hands when they were told of the mass of technicalities which had been raised, and advised the correspondents to see the Canadian lawyers if they hoped to get any light on the muddled state of affairs.

Mr. Jerome said that he naturally thought the discontinuance of the habeas corpus proceedings meant that Thaw admitted his guilt on the charge against him. "Apparently Thaw does not think so," he said. "I'm afraid I can't explain it for you."

Thaw May Ask for a Jury Trial.

In the Thaw camp it was said that Thaw might appear before a Magistrate and ask for a jury trial. Then his case on the charge now against him would go over until October, when it would come up in the Kings Court, criminal side. In that event Mr. Jerome and the other anti-Thaw attorneys would fight to have the charge against Thaw quashed by the Magistrate on the ground that it was faulty.

It was perdicted late to-night that there would be no definite step for a day or two. Counsel for the immigrations officials said that they were satisfied that the discontinuance of the habeas corpus writ opened the way for them to arrest Thaw under the immigration laws. The reply of the Thaw counsel was: "We don't believe it; but if you try it we will renew the habeas corpus proceedings. This is a public issue which concerns the probity of the Canadian courts. Harry Thaw is no longer the issue."

To this Mr. McKeown added another touch.

"They have tangled everything up," he said. "This wild effort to seize Thaw has caused much comment. Now it is their move again. Maybe if you give them enough rope they will hang themselves."

Charge Persecution of Thaw.

The lawyers retained by Thaw have taken the position that Mr. Jerome, District Attorney Conger of Dutchess County, Deputy Attorney General Franklin Kennedy, and the other New York State officials have no business to be fighting so desperately to get Thaw back to Matteawan. To the Canadian people it looks like persecution, they say—an unwarranted attempt to use the immigration laws for extradition purposes.

Mr. Jerome broke silence to-day when he heard of Thaw's widespread publicity campaign to win sympathy. He was at work on his automobile in a garage when seen by THE TIMES correspondent.

"Well, I'd like to tell the Canadian people something," he said. "This man Thaw seems to be trying to spread the impression that he is being persecuted. Who wants Thaw? Not New York State. New York is trying to get Thaw back, not because it wants him, but because of the effect that his escape would have on the great mass of people when Socialistic tendencies are so widespread. If Thaw were to remain free, every one would say that it was Thaw's millions which bought his freedom. Already they say that Thaw's millions got him out of Matteawan, and all over the States you hear remarks like these: 'Well, a rich man can do anything, but what chance has a poor man got?' Why, the very fact that Thaw was at liberty would have a demoralizing effect on the people. Thaw free would be a real menace. That is why New York State wants him back."

Mr. Jerome brought along with him many of the exhibits used at the first trial of Thaw on the charge of killing Stanford White. These include letters and drawings and various papers.

"I have with me documents which must convince any one who sees them of one of two things," he continued; "either that Thaw is insane and so is undesirable, or that he is sane and therefore even less to be desired. What does New York want with such a degenerate? Canada might keep him and welcome were it not that it is New York's duty to get him back. The doors of Matteawan would have been thrown open long ago to Thaw had New York State had the ethical right to do this There would have been no pursuit of him, but this could not be. Thaw must be brought back. New York State does not want him, but she must have him."

Thaw Enjoys the Fight.

While the lawyers have been busy, undisturbed by the doctors, Harry Thaw has been sitting up there in that lonely jail at the top of the hill, looking out of his window in the second floor and wondering how soon things will brighten up. While he has been doing this the lawyers have been laying their plans down in the little city at the foot of the hill. At the Magog Hotel, William Travers Jerome and a lot of other highbrow attorneys are framing up some scheme by which they can spirit Thaw away to Matteawan. Thaw knows it, and the glint of battle is in his eyes.

Thaw, the former Tenderloin habitué, is now having the time of his life looking out from the narrow windows of his comfortable little jail and figuring out what he is going to do next. Anybody who wastes sympathy on Thaw is frightfully mistaken. He has in charge of him a noble old Sheriff who ought to have fought in the war of 1812, if he did not, and a Warden whom you mustn't call Warden, but Governor, and who ought to have been in the battle of Chateaugay. Now and then the lawyers come straggling up to the jail to get Thaw's orders. He is having the time of his life.

It is a strange thing to think of this old-time New York rounder mewed up here in this city which has never before been on the map. Anybody who knew Thaw would find it extremely hard to imagine a place more remote from his character and ideas than this. It has a population of 18,000 now, but ten years ago it probably did not have more than 5,000; and why it should have suddenly increased in population nobody can tell. Even to-day it is the jumping-off place. There is a great deal of natural beauty about it, and Thaw, as he looks out of his window on the second floor of his jail, must think it a more attractive place than Matteawan. He is confined in the hospital ward, which entitles him to one spacious room that was originally intended for many patients. There is plenty of sunlight, and there are four beds, so that whenever Thaw gets tired of sleeping in one he can get into another one. There are also any quantity of windows, so that if he feels at all tired of one he can get up and look out of another; and down below him he can see the valley spread out, so as to give him plenty of variety in his viewpoint. It is worth while, too, because the town of Sherbrooke is on a hill, and anybody who cares anything at all about scenery can get considerable action by looking out of the window of a nice, well-appointed jail.

WON'T SPECIFY THAW'S ROUTE

Canada Evades the Request for Deportation to New York State.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Aug. 26.—The Thaw case produced another development to-day when Deputy Attorney General Kennedy of New York State interviewed the Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice and Acting Minister of the Interior.

The proposal that the lawyer for the State made was that Thaw be deported at the New York State boundary. He represented that the law intended that a deported alien should be sent back to the place from which he came. Thaw came from Matteawan. The State's contention was that his choosing of an indirect route from Matteawan to Coaticook, where he was arrested, was no reason why the Canadian immigration officials should not send him back to the asylum by the most direct route. Precedents, it was said, existed in support of this contention. The only reply of the Minister of Justice was a repetition of the answer given to counsel for Thaw, who asked that he be not taken to the New York boundary. The answer was that the deportation law would be carried out.

It is known here that the point of deportation has not been decided upon and will not be determined until the preliminary steps have been taken and the Thaw lawyers have outlined the course which they intend to pursue. It is, of course, out of the power of the Canadian officials to direct Thaw's movements after he passes the international boundary. They cannot send him to Matteawan, though it is quite within their power to take him to the nearest point of the State boundary.

It is significant that when Mr. Kennedy returned to Sherbrooke he was accompanied by E. Black Robertson, Assistant Superintendent of Immigration. Mr. Robertson went to Sherbrooke to direct his officers in the event of immediate deportation being made possible by to-morrow's proceedings.

The officials of the Department of Justice do not know of any way in which Thaw's counsel can prevent his deportation by appealing to the courts.

THAW CITES JEROME'S SPEECH

Telegraphs to Pittsburgh Papers Excerpts Arguing for His Sanity.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 26.—The following dispatch has been sent by Harry Thaw for publication in the newspapers of this city:

"Sherbrooke, Quebec, Aug. 26.

"Counsel for Harry K. Thaw issued a statement commenting on the fact that certain clauses in the statement of Col. Harry J. Frazer, K. C., of counsel, quoting Mr. Jerome, the then prosecuting attorney in New York, as saying: 'No one has contended that for the two years nearly that he has been in the Tombs he has been insane. * * * * There is no evidence of delusion in the slightest degree on his part. * * * Is it anything crazy to take a pistol to defend yourself against a man who threatens to kill you before morning?' had been omitted by the press.

"The reason was press of news matter over crowded wires, and the result was disagreeable to counsel for the defense, first of all, because of their desire to uphold the sense of fair play, which is always present in the Dominion. Therefore, the counsel, J. N. Greenshields, K. C.; W. K. McKeown, W. L. Shurteff, K. C.; Col. H. J. Frazer, K. C.; C. D. White, K. C., and Lewis St. Laurent, formally present these omitted extracts, both in the interests of fair play and because they perceive in these omitted statements of Mr. Jerome a possible motive for certain obstructions they encounter in securing the rights of a friend and citizen who, before the law, stands as innocent as any of the gentlemen present. They state:

"This language, most unusual, coming from the public prosecutor, is of interest at this moment, as we are informed by our client that the late Col. Franklin Bartlett in a formal brief declared him to have assisted the jury in his acquittal. It is given verbatim from the official record of the Supreme Court of New York State."

The dispatch then quotes from Mr. Jerome's speech to the Thaw jury on Jan. 30, 1908, passages tending to show that Thaw was sane and should suffer the penalty of his crime, such as:

> No one contended that for the two years nearly that he has been in the Tombs he has been insane.
>
> There is no evidence of delusion in the slightest degree on his part.
>
> Do you think, gentlemen of the jury, when you look at Mrs. William Thaw on that stand, that she was the type of woman that would allow an insane son to marry? I think not.
>
> Is it anything crazy to take a pistol to defend yourself against a man who threatens to kill you before morning? Did Roger O'Mara, when he was Chief of Detectives in Pittsburgh, advise a crazy man to carry the pistol?

AFTER DR. EVANS'S BRIEF.

Dr. Flint Hopes to Get It for Cross-Examination in Thaw Case.

Judge Holt of the United States District Court signed an order yesterday granting the application of Dr. Austin Flint for a writ directing United States Commissioner Gilchrist to turn over to him a medical brief by Dr. Britton C. Evans. Dr. Flint alleged:

"I am informed and believe that a trial of Harry K. Thaw, which will show his mental condition, will soon be held in either Vermont, New Hampshire, or some other State other than the State of New York, and that the principal expert who will testify on behalf of said Harry K. Thaw as to his mental condition will be one Britton C. Evans, M. D. I am informed and believe that there is now in the custody of this court a medical brief prepared by the said Britton C. Evans, M. D. I am now engaged in collecting material for use in the cross-examination of said Britton C. Evans, and the said brief is essential to such cross-examination."

WOULD EXTRADITE THAW.

Vermont's Attorney General Says His State Would Act Promptly.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 26.—A special report to The Springfield Republican from Brattleboro, Vt., quotes Attorney General Rufus E. Brown of Burlington as saying:

"Harry K. Thaw will be arrested and held for extradition by the New York State authorities if he steps foot within the borders of Vermont. The Sheriffs of Orleans and Essex Counties are armed with the necessary papers, and a close watch is being maintained at Newport, Norton Mills, and Island Pond."

When asked upon what charge the arrest would be made, the Attorney General replied that he understood that Thaw was charged with bribery. He also said: "I have not the slightest doubt but that the head of the Matteawan Asylum has a perfect right to come into this State and take Thaw wherever he might find him. If Thaw tried habeas corpus proceedings he would be turned down without a doubt."

GERMAN ALLIANCE BARRED BY JAPAN

Britain Wanted to Combine with Two Powers Against France and Russia.

REVELATIONS IN A DIARY

Publication of the Late Count Hayashi's Memoirs, Begun in Tokio, Stopped by the Government.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The revelation that the diplomatic negotiations which finally resulted in the Anglo-Japanese Alliance first contemplated an Anglo-German-Japanese Triple Alliance and that Germany was largely instrumental in starting them, but was shut out by Japan, is made in the diary of the late Count Tadasu Hayashi, ex-Japanese Ambassador to Great Britain and twice Foreign Minister, part of which was recently published.

The Jiji Shimpo of Tokio printed portions of the diary, but the Japanese Government prohibited further publication, and the Censor suppressed telegrams sent by foreign correspondents in Japan giving details of the statements.

The diary shows that the British Government, under the Premiership of the late Marquis of Salisbury, was in favor of the inclusion of Germany in the alliance, but that Japan opposed it. Count Hayashi, in order to bring about the Anglo-Japanese alliance, hinted that Japan was ready to ally herself with Russia if Great Britain were unwilling to become her ally.

According to the diary, Baron Hermann von Eckhardstein, at the time Chargé d'Affaires of the German Embassy in London, made several visits to Count Hayashi in the Spring of 1901. In proposing the formation of a triple alliance between Great Britain, Germany, and Japan, he said he knew that the British Government and such personages as Joseph Chamberlain, Arthur J. Balfour, Lord Lansdowne, the Duke of Devonshire, and the Marquis of Salisbury were in favor of it. He said that the German nation was strongly anti-British, but not the German Government. He added that King Edward, Emperor William, and Imperial Chancellor von Bülow had recently had long conversations on the subject at Osborne, Isle of Wight, and were anxious for such a triple alliance.

Count Hayashi approached Lord Lansdowne, then Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, suggesting an Anglo-Japanese agreement on a policy in China. Lord Lansdowne in reply said he thought a third power should be included. A programme was roughly drafted at that time, and this afterward became the Treaty of Alliance.

Japan suggested that a third party should be omitted from the alliance because Anglo-Japanese interests were identical. Great Britain, however, for some time clung to the idea of a triple alliance, according to Count Hayashi, as she was anxious for an alliance with Germany in order to isolate the Franco-Russian alliance in any action it might take in the Far East or elsewhere. In the end Japan's wishes prevailed.

The continuation of the diary, which might have shown why Count Hayashi opposed the inclusion of Germany, has not been published.

Servia Wants Prof. Miliukoff to Quit Atrocities Commission.

BELGRADE, Aug 26.—The Servian Government has declined to co-operate with the Carnegie commission which is investigating the alleged Balkan atrocities on account of the presence among the members of Prof. Paul N. Miliukoff, leader of the Constitutional Democrats in the Russian Duma. The countries represented on the commission include the United States, Great Britain, France, Russia, Germany, and Austria.

Premier Pasitch of Servia to-day expressed the fear that Prof. Miliukoff was possibly prejudiced against the Servians, and suggested that he resign. The other commissioners, however, insisted on his retention.

There was a hostile demonstration to-day by Servian students against Prof. Miliukoff. The commissioners afterward left here for Salonika.

TOO MUCH INOCULATION.

Prof. and Mrs. Shepherd Ill in Germany at Outset of Long Journey.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—Disastrous results from the administration of anti-typhoid vaccine have taken place in the case of Prof. William R. Shepherd, Professor of History at Columbia University, and his wife, who recently arrived in Germany at the outset of a trip around the world.

Mrs. Shepherd, who, together with her husband, was inoculated before her departure from New York, is seriously ill here from anti-smallpox vaccination, which proved extraordinarily virulent, probably on account of reaction from previous anti-typhoid inoculation.

Prof. Shepherd was also taken ill after his arrival in Germany, and is now undergoing a cure at the Weisser Hirsch Sanatorium at Dresden.

Mrs. Shepherd's condition, while quite aggravated, is not believed to be dangerous.

The Shepherds had planned to leave here for the Far East via the Trans-Siberian Railway early in September, but their start will now doubtless be delayed. The professor received two years' leave of absence from Columbia for his trip, during which he intends to finish a history of Latin America.

WATER FAMINE IN PALACES

Threatened by London Strike—Ten Thousand More Men Quit Work.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Hundreds of veteran army pensioners in Chelsea Hospital, the old soldiers' home of London, went hungry for several hours this morning, owing to the strike of electricians of the Public Works Department, declared last night in consequence of the employment of non-unionist painters at the Admiralty. Not until Earl Beauchamp, First Commissioner of Public Works, formally appealed to the strike leaders, did the electrical engineers consent to heat the ovens so as to supply bread to the veterans.

The culinary departments of all the Civil Service institutions were placed in the same plight, while the fountains in the public squares were put out of service, as the stokers refused to work.

There appears to be danger of a cessation of the water supply at Buckingham Palace, Marlborough House, St. James's Palace, and all the Government offices which are supplied from artesian wells, all the workmen engaged in their operation having laid down their tools.

Some 10,000 men quit work to-day, and the members of the eighteen trades unions connected with the building trade threaten to join the movement unless the demand for the dismissal of non-union workmen is complied with.

"If armed force is used against the strikers I claim the right of the strikers to use arms to protect their own interests," said Ben Tillett, the Socialist labor leader, to-day at a conference of the International Federation of Transport Workers, now meeting in London.

Tillett pointed out that 1,000,000 workers were members of the federation. He said they must be ready on receiving instructions from the International Executive Committee to strike against war, and in case the employers denied to them the right of peaceful picketing and murder should follow the workers should make reprisals.

DIVIDED REGARDING FAIR.

Some Saxon Manufacturers Will Probably Decide to Exhibit.

DRESDEN, Aug. 26.—The General Association of Saxon Manufacturers tonight discussed participation in the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco.

The association showed a division of opinion. The lace manufacturers were not inclined to take part, giving as a reason the inadequate protection of their designs in the United States, but the manufacturers of special classes of machinery will probably decide to exhibit.

Owing to the divergence of opinion, the association voted not to take official action, but to recommend that firms disposed to exhibit join in the private movement which is now on foot for German participation.

LAWYERS EAGER TO DEFEND CHARLTON

Prominent Italians Apply at the American Consulate for the Assignment.

CROWDS WAIT HIS ARRIVAL

Lottery Players Gamble on Numbers Suggested by His Case—Precautions Against Attack.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

NAPLES, Aug. 26.—A whole army of reporters and photographers is here awaiting the arrival of Porter Charlton.

The prisoner on his arrival will be immediately examined by a Government doctor to ascertain his mental condition. The most severe instructions have been given to the police and carabineers to guard him carefully.

Several of the most prominent lawyers of Italy have applied at the American Consulate here and at the embassy at Rome with a view to undertaking the defense of Charlton, but so far the American authorities have not received instructions either from the State Department or the Charlton family.

It is hinted that the authorities may play a trick and disappoint those who have gathered at Naples by landing Charlton at Genoa.

NAPLES, Aug. 26.—Porter Charlton, when he lands in Italy, probably on Thursday, to be tried for the murder of his wife at Lake Como three years ago, will be taken in charge by a body of policemen and carabineers immediately after he lands from the steamship Re d'Italia, according to orders issued today. The instructions state that Charlton must not be allowed to communicate with outsiders, and that the officer in command of his escort will be held personally responsible for the safety of the prisoner.

The people of Naples consider the expected arrival of Charlton a good opportunity to gamble in the local lottery, for they are always ready to welcome any occurrence which they regard as an indication of the way in which they should play. The lottery booths spread over the city to-day displayed large placards printed in red letters calling on the people to "play the numbers corresponding to the American millionaire who murdered his wife—18, 46, 90." This means that those desiring to take part in the lottery should select the tickets whose numbers end with the figures mentioned.

Players give a designation to each figure up to 100 in a lottery, and usually play on a word which strikes their fancy. In this instance the number 18 corresponds to the word "blood"; 46 to "ill-assorted couple," and 90 to "lake."

BLERIOT QUITS AERO CLUB.

Other Well-Known Members May Resign—Committee Is Firm.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Louis Blériot, the noted aviator, has resigned from the committee of the French Aero Club, as a result of the committee's decision yesterday not to change the arrangements for the international aviation cup races.

It is rumored that Alfred Leblanc, Count Henri de la Vaulx, Vice President of the club, and other prominent members intend to follow M. Blériot's example. They have actively opposed the holding of the races at the Rheims aerodrome, the property of Armand Deperdussin, who was recently arrested on charges of fraud involving millions of dollars.

It is not believed, however, that these resignations will bring about any change in the committee's plans.

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 27.—A dispatch early yesterday to the Exchange Telegraph Company stated that Nanking, the last stronghold of the Chinese rebels, had been captured by Government troops.

A later dispatch to the same company, however, says that the assertion made by a Northern General, that Nanking had fallen is untrue.

Some Northern cavalry entered the town, it is added, bu twere blown up by a mine. The attack on the city continues.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 26.—The Senate today adopted a measure providing for the superannuation of employes of the State and private railways.

POLES IGNORE THE KAISER.

Windows of Posen Hotel That Was Decorated in His Honor Broken.

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—Emperor William to-day reviewed 30,000 men of the Fifth Army Corps on the parade ground at Posen.

Thousands of patriotic Germans were in the town. Military veterans, schoolboys, and German settlers lined the streets, but there were practically no Poles. They remained at home, not because it was raining, but because they refused to do honor to the Prussian King, and, as one Polish journal says, "kiss the hand that flogs them."

Polish bookshops in several cases to-day have windows filled exclusively with works of Polish writers. One prominently displays a picture of Napoleon.

One large hotel at Posen had its windows broken last night because it displayed decorations in honor of the Kaiser's visit.

Several great Polish landowners who accepted the Kaiser's invitations are being held up to obloquy as men unworthy to bear the name of Poles.

POSEN, Aug. 26.—The Emperor and Empress and their sons, with the Prince Regent of Bavaria, Lieut. Gen. Pollio, Chief of the Italian General Staff, and many other prominent personages, arrived here to-day for a two days' sojourn, in the course of which they will dedicate the new City Hall and the Chapel in Posen Castle.

The Polish Aldermen of the city declined the invitations sent to them, but many of the Polish nobility have decided to attend the banquets, while some Polish buildings are decorated with bunting and flags.

ATTACK TRAIN IN AUSTRIA.

Bandits Seek Gold Consignment—Passengers Help to Beat Them Off.

VIENNA, Aug. 26.—Brigands attacked the Bucharest-Berlin mail train last night in a forest near Sichrow, Galicia, in an attempt to steal a consignment of gold.

The train officials, aided by passengers, beat off the attack and the brigands decamped.

GIANTS BLANK REDS—YANKEES AND SUPERBAS LOSE—TURF—GOLF

THREE HITS ENOUGH FOR GIANTS' VICTORY

Mathewson Keeps the Reds Away from the Scoring Plate, Winning, 1 to 0.

Red Jack Murray and Fred Merkle of the Giants were equally guilty of intruding themselves upon the Cincinnati Reds at the Polo Grounds yesterday to such an extent that Joseph Tinker's team was decorated on the wrong end of a 1-to-0 victory.

Murray's part in the soirée was a scintillating catch of Bob Bescher's rocket, which was on a mile sailing trip through the air, while Merkle was really the person who made the Redlegs sad with a corking big three-base hit, which was afterward translated into a run by Murray's sacrifice fly.

There was one good reason why the Cincinnatis didn't win. That was Mathewson. This reason was unusually strong and effective. The old master never could tolerate being defeated by the Reds, and his ideas on the subject have not changed. The Reds have won a game from Matty about as often as Halley's comet appears.

The Reds got eight hits off the Big Train, in contrast to three safe bangs off Chief Johnson, the Winnebago medicine man. In more than one inning the cushions were trodden by the feet of the ambitious Reds, but it was at these moments that Matty turned loose the fadeaway or the tantalizing slow lob, and had the enemy calling for smelling salts.

Joe Tinker is discouraged with his baseball club. Joe thought he would like the manager's job in Redland, but he has no more careless thoughts of that kind. Tinker will soon collect a staff of brainy lawyers to release him from the Cincinnati immigration authorities. Joe has had enough, and enough is plenty. It's all that Methusaleh Henri O'Day can do to keep from breaking out into rude mirth when he sees the Cincinnati team take its daily beating. O'Day tried it for a year and he has never been the same man since.

The Winnebago brave pitched as fine a game as any one would care to see. His work in the fourth inning was tiptop, when Fletcher singled and Herzog was punctured in the ribs with a wild shot. Merkle tried to sacrifice, but Johnson forced Fletcher at third. Murray tried to knock the Indian over with a grounder, but Johnson nailed Herzog trying to score. Snodgrass sent forth another roller and Groh and Tinker forced Merkle at second for the third out.

Murray's miraculous catch in the sixth inning takes its place as one of the world's wonders alongside of the Leaning Tower of Pisa and an empty seat in a Subway train.

Bob Bescher was the first citizen up in the sixth, and he swung his Chippendale furniture with such telling effect that the ball sailed on a line for deep right field. Murray was on his toes like a frightened deer and turned and tore for the fence. Close to the stockade Red left the earth like an aeroplane and went up and up.

His brawny left arm shot straight up in the air, just like the Statue of Liberty stretching herself. That ball struck that upstretched hand and stuck. Murray kept right on running back to the fence, and for a few minutes nobody thought that he had caught the ball. When Red came in he was blushing like a débutante before the mighty cheers, and he was so modest that Snodgrass had to tip Red's Fedora to the noisy multitude.

This game assumed the proportions of a Giant victory in the seventh verse. Fred Merkle just got tired of walking up to the plate and walking back again, so he just dug his ash into one of the Winnebago's shoots and propelled a long hit to the right-field bleachers, which hit the fence after one bound. Merkle hauled up at third, and scored when Jack Murray hoisted a sacrifice fly to Marsans.

Chief Johnson was extracted from the game in the eighth to let Jimmy Sheckard attempt a pinch hit. Jimmy just fouled to Herzog, that's all. Three-Fingered Brown pitched the final inning, and Uncle Henri O'Day announced, "Brown now pitching for Chicago." You couldn't blame Hank, because, with Brown, Kling, Tinker, and Sheckard in the immediate landscape, the club certainly did look like the ghost of the old Cubs coming back to life. The score:

CUBS VICTORS AGAIN.

Pat Ragan Knocked Out of Brooklyn Box—Walker Stops Scoring.

The Cubs made it two straight against the Superbas at Ebbets Field yesterday, defeating the Flatbush pastimers by the score of 6 to 3. Some cannonading that was both timely and heavy while Pat Ragan was on the hill gave the Cubs six runs in the second and third innings, after which they went out very regularly. The Superbas seemed due for a shutout for seven innings, but they bunched half of their eight hits in the last two frames and pushed three runs across the plate.

Two triples properly placed accounted for all the runs scored by the Cubs. In the second inning Jimmy Archer found the bases loaded, the result of passes to Saier and Bridwell, and a hit by Cy Williams. Jeems tagged one on the seam and the ball dropped out near the score board, clearing the bases and putting Jimmy on third. In the next inning Vic Saier came up with two on bases, Schulte having walked after Evers singled, and Saier dropped another triple into left field. Vic followed the pair home on Williams's sacrifice fly to Moran.

Brooklyn went scoreless until the eighth inning. Otto Miller beat out a grounder to Bridwell and was safe at second when Evers muffed a throw by Phelan, who fielded Kirpatrick's grounder. Moran's single sent Miller home and Collins's sacrifice fly scored Kirkpatrick. In the ninth Smith doubled, reached third on an out, and scored when Hummel, who batted for Wagner, singled to right field. The score:

YANKEES UNABLE TO HIT GREGG OFTEN

Cleveland Pitcher Scores a Shutout Against New York Americans.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 26.—Vean Gregg's pitching was too much for the Yankees to-day, when Chance's team played its farewell game of the season in the West, and the home team made it three straight against the tail-enders, 3 to 0. Leibold's batting played as prominent a part in the victory as did Gregg, the Nap centre fielder figuring in all three runs scored by his team.

Only twice during the game did the Yanks have any chance against the puzzling southpaw slants of Gregg. The first came in the second inning and the other in the sixth, two hits coming in succession each time. In the second inning Hartzell opened with a single to centre and went around to third when Zeider singled to right. Zeider was caught off first, and while he was being run down Hartzell made a dash for home, only to have the play turned on him, and he was finally tagged out by Carisch. In the sixth inning, with two out, Cook and Cree singled, but Hartzell fouled to Carisch for the third out. In the other seven innings the Yanks gave Gregg no trouble. He handed out five passes, but only one of the recipients was able to pass first base. Gregg was backed up in fine style, with Chapman and Lajoie leading in the spectacular display.

The Naps filled the bases in the opening inning, but could not score. With one out Chapman walked, Jackson singled, and Lajoie was hit. Johnston fouled out to Sweeney and Turner forced Lajoie at second with a grounder to Zeider.

In the second inning Cleveland got its first run. After Graney had been tossed out by Caldwell, Carisch singled past Knight. Hartzell fielded the ball and threw poorly to first, allowing Carisch to reach second. Gregg was easy on his grounder to Knight, but Leibold dropped a single into right field, and Carisch ambled home.

The Naps got two hits before the first out had been made in the fourth inning, but a fast double play by Zeider and Knight after Carisch had fouled out spoiled the opportunity. In the fifth Leibold opened with a triple and scored on Chapman's single, which went through Maisel's hands at mile-a-minute speed. The last Cleveland run, which arrived in the seventh inning, was also started by Leibold, who opened the inning with a single, went to second on Chapman's sacrifice, and counted on Joe Jackson's double.

Caldwell, although touched up for eleven hits, pitched good ball. He allowed no more than two hits in any inning, and showed up strongly in the pinches, especially in the opening inning. To-day's victory gave the Naps an even break in the series just closed with the Eastern teams. Until the Yanks reached Cleveland the Naps had won only three games from the other three Eastern clubs. GILHOOLEY A YANKEE.

Hard-Hitting Montreal Outfielder Will Join Chance's Team To-morrow

Outfielder Frank Gilhooley of the Montreal Club of the International League was purchased yesterday by the New York Americans, and he will report to Manager Frank Chance at the Polo Grounds to-morrow. The deal was closed by Owner Frank J. Farrell and President Sol Lichtenheim of the Montreal Club. Besides a cash consideration, the Yankees will give Pitcher George McConnell in exchange for Gilhooley, but McConnell will remain with the Yankees until the close of the season, joining Montreal next year.

President Lichtenheim announced yesterday that he had also disposed of Catcher Burns to the Philadelphia Nationals in exchange for Catcher Howley and two players to be named later by the Philadelphia management.

Pitcher "Bunny" Hearne of Toronto, who recently figured in the twenty-inning scoreless tie between Toronto and Jersey City, joined the Giants yesterday.

GAFFNEY GRILLS LYNCH.

President of Boston Club Severely Scores President of National League

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—President Lynch of the National League was criticised, together with the umpires of the organization, by President James B. Gaffney of the Boston Club in an open telegram sent to the former at New York to-day. President Gaffney cast the ballot which broke a tie and elected Lynch to the Presidency last year, and the apparent break between the two was unexpected.

The trouble developed over the suspension for three days of Capt. Sweeney of Boston, announced by President Lynch to-day, as a result of arguments with Umpire Rigler yesterday.

"In the absence of Manager Stallings," the telegram reads, "it was a fine thing to suspend Sweeney. The spirit displayed is worthy of your past and present work as the league's President. I thought you might be away on another vacation and thus have escaped. If you will accept a proposition from me, here it is: Travel around the circuit and look your umpires over, which, I understand, is supposed to be part of your duties. Had you done so this year umpires and not ball players would have drawn suspensions."

Sweeney's objections which drew down the suspension were made in yesterday's game with Pittsburgh. According to local players, Carey of Pittsburgh, who was at bat, deliberately interefered with Catcher Whaling of Boston in the latter's attempt to catch Dolan at second. Sweeney protested as Acting Manager and was banished.

GERMANS VISIT CELTIC PARK

Athletic Envoys of Fatherland Witness Feats by Prominent Athletes.

The German Athletic Commission, composed of Carl Diem, Secretary of the German Imperial Olympic Games; Lieut. Walter von Reichman, Josef Waltzer, and Dr. Martin Berner, continued their investigations of American athletic plants yesterday with a visit to Celtic Park, the track and field of the Irish-American A. C., as their objective. As the result of their inspection it was confessed that they found much to report favorably of sports grounds hereabouts.

Lieut. von Reichman stated that Celtis Park was very similar to the grounds used by the Berliner Sports Club, which, however, will have to be given up within a year or so because of the encroachment of the city. Herr Waltzer and Dr. Berner took many notes of everything which promised prospective benefit to the athletes who will represent the Fatherland at the next Olympics, and appeared very much satisfied with the efforts made to show that Americans had nothing to conceal from their future opponents.

BASEBALL NEWS IN BRIEF.

Pitcher George Davis of the Rochester (N. Y.) team of the International League has been purchased by the Boston Nationals. Davis formerly was with the New York Americans, and was also for a time on the pitching staff of the Jersey City team of the International League.

"Josh" Billings, catcher for the Quincy Three-I club, has received instructions from the Cleveland American League club management to report at Detroit on Sept. 6. Billings, who belonged to Topeka, in the Western League, was recently sold to Omaha, and goes to Cleveland from that city.

William McCabe, one of the fastest semi-professional players in Chicago, has signed with the Washington Americans. McCabe plays second, third, or short stop. He is 20 years old.

The University of Washington baseball team sailed from Seattle yesterday on the Yokohama Maru for a two months' tour of Japan, where games will be played with teams of the leading universities.

Ernest Wellman cheered when a Grand Rapids Central League player made a sensational play in a close game at Grand Rapids. Wellman's voice was heard above all others at the ball park, but when he tried to repeat he got only a wheezy whisper. Physicians said yesterday that the injury to Wellman's vocal chords may never be overcome.

COCK O' THE WALK'S HURON HANDICAP

Three Stake Victories in Succession for Frederick Johnson's Three-Year-Old.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 26.—The racing to-day was marked brilliantly by the victory of Frederick Johnson's Cock o' the Walk in the Huron Handicap. This three-year-old had won both the Saratoga and Champlain Handicaps at this meeting, and his victory to-day made it three straight. He took up 123 pounds, and, while he was not opposed by the best three-year-olds available, he won in a manner to suggest that there are few horses in training of any age that are his equal. It was a mile and three-sixteenths, and he was giving away lumps of weight to each horse that opposed him.

There was another sellnig race tilt after the second race, when Colonel Cook, after winning, was boosted from $800 to $1,500 and bought by C. C. Smithson. This was merely the returning of the colt to his former owner, for he was recently claimed out of a race by John O. Talbott, and to-day was the first time he had raced under those silks. Mr. Talbott took a horse to fill the Colonel's stall, for he claimed Impression, who finished second in the same race. H. H. Hewitt had Impression entered for $800, and he cost Talbott about $1,300.

E. R. Bradley had a good day when he scored with the two-year-old Bac and then took down the last purse with Brookfield from a lot of cheap selling platers. Capt. E. B. Cassatt was another winner, when Humiliation scored over a big field of maiden two-year-olds. The summaries:

In one of the most serious accidents that has happened at the Brighton Beach Motordrome, Andre Grapperon, the Paris entry in to-night's fifty-mile race, and next Sunday's and Monday's twenty-four-hour race, was put out of the competition for the balance of the season yesterday. Grapperon sustained a broken arm and a sprained back. Together with St. Yves, Chapple, Kessler, and Ohne, he had been making things hum at the seaside all afternoon, and was riding better than at any time so far this year, when his front wheel caved in and he was thrown to the guard-rail.

The other men on the track ran to his assistance at once, picking him up in an unconscious condition. A physician who was watching the workouts revived him in ten minutes, and sent him to his home, with his arm set and back bandaged.

Martin Kessler, who rode the victorious race for his team last week, will Captain the aggregation that Grapperon was to lead in to-night's race and next Sunday's and Monday's event.

Jockey Hall Killed at Toronto.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 26.—Jockey William Hall was thrown from his mount and killed at the Hill Crest race track to-day. The accident happened during the first race at the eastern turn, an awkward corner that has been causing the riders a great deal of trouble. Tom Hancock, with Hall up, and Dead Loss, Moore up, collided. Both boys were thrown and went down in a heap. Hall was rushed in an unconscious condition to a hospital but died shortly afterward. Moore escaped with a few bruises. Hall rode on this circuit as a free lance—usually for W. V. Casey. He was about 26 years old and married.

145 TO PLAY IN NATIONAL GOLF

Metropolitan District Contributes Most Entrants to Tourney at Garden City.

Entries for the national amateur championship, which begins next Monday over the links of the Garden City Golf Club, were made public last night. There are 145 entries, as compared with 86 last year, and this despite the fact that the United States Golf Association has made every effort to keep down the list of eligibles by means of the national handicap list. The remarkable increase is due largely to the fact that the tournament is held within the metropolitan district, where particular care has been exercised in the handicapping of golfers.

The most prominent entrant among the Americans is Jerome D. Travers, who won the title for the third time at Wheaton last year. The entries follow:

GOLF RECORDS FOR VARDON.

Rockefeller Sees Briton Play Mayfield Rounds in 67 and 66 Strokes.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 26.—Harry Vardon and Edward Ray, English professional golfers, touring the United States, at the Mayfield Club to-day defeated Joe K. Bole, city champion of Cleveland, and Eben M. Byers of Pittsburgh, 5 up in a thirty-six-hole match.

In defeating Byers and Bole, Vardon broke the Mayfield course record, both for eighteen and thirty-six holes. In the morning round he lowered the eighteen-hole record, held by Byers, from 72 to 67. In the afternoon he beat his own newly established mark with a 66, giving him 133 for thirty-six holes. The old thirty-six-hole record was 155. In the afternoon round Vardon's partner, Ray, bettered the former eighteen-hole course record, doing it in 71. John D. Rockefeller was an enthusiastic spectator.

ANDERSON BEATS BERGEN.

Welterweights Battle Ten Hard Rounds at Atlantic Gardens A. C.

Bull Anderson and Tommy Bergen, two welterweights of this city, furnished the patrons of the Atlantic Gardens A. C. last night with an unscientific ten-round session. There was not, however an idle moment during the thirty minutes of milling, and what each of the men lacked in knowledge of the game which is sponsored by the State Athletic Commission they made up in slam-bang hostilities which kept their followers on the anxious seat throughout.

The consessus of opinion at the end was that Anderson had the better of the go. He certainly weathered the storm of wild swings which were sent his way in better style than his opponent, who, at the end was inclined to hang on and take a chance of lasting through the bout without the knockout sign being registered against him. So anxious were the men to get in the sleep punch that in several instances the referee, Billy Moore, stopped well-intended swings with his jaw.

The second bout of the night almost resulted in a near riot when Jack (Twin) Collins was disqualified for hitting low in his bout with Young Marino. The end came in the second round, and found the seconds invading the ring, with each reaedy to do battle for his principal. Quiet was finally restored. The opening battle brought together Joe Lewis and Jack Warren. This session went the limit of ten rounds, although during the ninth round the latter was all but out. A good sized crowd witnessed the bouts.

Boxing at St. Nicholas A. C.

Johnny Lore and Young Reilly, rival lightweights of the west side, will get together to-night at the St. Nicholas Rink, to settle the question of superiority which has caused numerous debates in their section for some months past. Lore has done no boxing since his setback at the hands of Frankie Russell in New Orleans two months ago, and he is planning another journey to the front ranks of the lightweight division. Both boys are strong, clever, and hard hitters. In the ten-round semi-final Patsy Callahan of Brooklyn will oppose Joe Stacey, the east side featherweight, who has been making rapid advances in his division for some time. The opening ten-round bout will bring together Young Wagner and Young Lustig.

Langford Knocks Out 'Porky' Flynn

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—Sam Langford scored a knockout over "Porky" Flynn in four rounds at the Atlas Athletic Association to-night. Ten seconds before the bell sounded in the fourth round of what was scheduled to be a twelve-round bout, a right jab to the jaw landed, and Flynn went down for the count.

A BRIGHTER MEXICAN OUTLOOK.

The gleam of hope that a way out of the Mexican difficulty has been discovered is most gratifying. The request by Gen. HUERTA, through Mr. GAMBOA, for the postponement of the delivery of President WILSON's message to Congress is a reassuring sign, the importance of which cannot be belittled. While we can scarcely hope that the terms suggested by the Washington Administration will be accepted at the Mexican capital without modification, compromise is the very essence of all international negotiations. Our Government has demanded of the Provisional President of Mexico that he resign, that hostilities shall cease, that provision shall be made for an early and free election, in which HUERTA shall not be a candidate for the Presidency. It seems now that the demand for the Provisional President's withdrawal has been withdrawn, but it is not within the power of Gen. HUERTA to stop hostilities. An armistice with the Carranza contingent, the influence of which except in the far north is very dubious, would not bind ZAPATA, or keep that eminent soldier, GENOVEVO DE LA O, formerly a fierce enemy of MADERO, now an adherent of the remnant of Maderistas, out of mischief. While refusing to recognize the authority of HUERTA, it seems that our Government has credited him with much greater power than any ruler of Mexico could possess in a revolutionary period.

The indication that Gen. HUERTA is willing to negotiate, however, that the mission of mediation has not altogether failed, justifies the hope that some modified plan of action may be decided upon which will be acceptable to both countries, and the President may not be called upon, at this critical moment, to lay the whole matter formally before Congress. That body already knows what has been done, and what the President of the United States would like to have done. The chief desire of Congress, and of all good Americans, is to have peace restored as quickly as possible in the sister republic, the lives and property of American residents protected, and the wheels of commerce set in motion. If this can be done, through the offices of our Government, by the exercise of the spirit of conciliation on both sides, a vain desire to appear sternly consistent should not delay the agreement.

It is intimated that President WILSON's action, thus far, has been influenced by the course of President HAYES toward the Provisional Government of PORFIRIO DIAZ in 1876. There is no exact parallel. The Lerdistas, so called, exercised powerful influence in the United States. LERDO DE TEJADA, the deposed President, was a man of unusual qualities, a jurist of high ability. Nevertheless, events proved HAYES's mistake. He accomplished nothing, and President WILSON is surely not modeling his international policies on those of President HAYES.

GOLD AND FACTS.

Some of our older readers are familiar with the work of Prof. ALBERT S. BOLLES of Haverford College, as he took an active part, in our columns, in the long contest over Mr. BRYAN's delusion in regard to "free" silver. In the July number of The North American Review he enters the lists against the theory that increase in the accumulation of gold has caused a general rise of prices. This is a theory that has been sustained by many economists. It is the offspring, naturally, of the broader quantitative theory of prices. It is not to be dismissed lightly, for there have been problems in the history of prices in the past to which it has seemed to fit. But the difficulty of supporting it has greatly been increased in modern times by the important changes in the methods of doing business, by the constantly growing part played by credit in current exchanges, by the increased mobility of the circulating medium, and by the almost incalculable complexity of the influences now brought to bear over wide areas upon the course of prices.

Prof. BOLLES calls attention to the fact that, whatever may have been the effect of the increase in the store of gold upon prices, it clearly has not acted alike upon all the changes, nor acted uniformly through various periods. Logically, while it may be regarded as a cause of rise, it is not the cause, or even the chief cause. He pays especial attention to the course of prices in the sugar trade and in the iron and steel market. Here prices have been held fairly uniform through the action of partial monopolies, which, controlling the major part of the output, have been able to induce or compel their still independent competitors to keep prices about at their figure. This, he argues, could not have been done had the level of prices been determined wholly or chiefly by the relative volume of the stock of gold. And in the financial markets he asks why, if increase in gold advances prices, interest has, on the whole, declined.

The subject, as we have intimated, is one of increasing difficulty and intricacy, but we are persuaded that Prof. BOLLES is quite correct in refusing to accept the far too easy and sweeping theory of the increase in gold as the controlling influence in the course of prices.

DO WE WANT OMNIBUSES?

The Board of Estimate will take under consideration to-day the application of GEORGE W. LOFT and others for a franchise to incumber the streets of Manhattan with a large number of motor omnibuses, which would compete with the existing traffic lines, and those now under construction or provided for, elevated, surface, and underground, for the "short-haul" traffic. The old omnibuses became a great nuisance in New York before they went out of general use many years ago. Citizens who are still reasonably young can well remember how eagerly New Yorkers looked forward to the time when the various lines of stages should be taken from the congested streets. In these later days the commodious Fifth Avenue buses have given a good service, without any serious competition with the other transportation lines. In the Summer, especially, they are used for pleasure more than business. It is difficult to comprehend how any large extension of the motor bus traffic would benefit this borough.

The five-cent fare proposed by the promoters of the new omnibus scheme is restricted to each of the short routes. A trip as long as that of the present motor omnibuses, from the Washington Arch to 145th Street, for which the fare is 10 cents, would cost 20 cents. It is proposed to pay the city a license fee of $10 yearly for each vehicle. With 2,000 in use this would amount to $20,000 for a privilege for which the city should receive a very much larger sum. Possibly the increase of transit facilities promised on Central Park West would be useful, but what that neglected thoroughfare chiefly needs is the execution of the plan of improvement which would place the surface car tracks in the middle of the street. The proposed cheap omnibus plan would not be cheap for the people who would use it, and the "short-haul" competition with the existing traffic lines seems uncalled for. Also, the promoters are asking a great deal of the city for very little return. The Board of Estimate will do well to take up this scheme cautiously.

A FORTUNATE DELIVERANCE.

Mr. MITCHEL is to be congratulated most heartily upon the manly way in which he has torn off the Hearst label. The prevailing belief that he was under the Hearst influence has been the chief obstacle to his political advancement, an obstacle that might well have been fatal to him in this campaign. The coldness and distrust with which the Fusion Committee's work was received reflected the dislike of Hearst ideas that prevails throughout the community. But when HEARST turned upon Mr. MCANENY and Mr. PRENDERGAST with his customary abuse, Mr. MITCHEL's opportunity came. He seized it without any hesitation and chose the right and honorable course. He stands far higher in the estimation of the people of New York to-day for that exhibition of courage and independence. When he told Mr. HEARST's league that if they refused to accept the candidacies of Mr. MCANENY and Mr. PRENDERGAST he should feel bound in honor to decline their nomination, he won the applause of the community for a manly and creditable act.

Almost anything might happen in the municipal campaign now. Delicate questions of ethics have arisen. Mr. LOW tells Mr. WHITMAN that he should spurn the Tammany nomination for District Attorney as an unclean thing. If Mayor GAYNOR decides to make a campaign on his own hook very likely some of the Fusion candidates will be invited to accept nominations from his supporters. Mr. MITCHEL's action makes it exceedingly difficult for them, or any of them, to run on the Mayor's ticket. That would put them in the position of supporting GAYNOR against MITCHEL and MITCHEL against GAYNOR. The belief is widespread, however, that Mr. GAYNOR would be a very much stronger candidate against Tammany than Mr. MITCHEL. The Fusion Committee, we believe, has been advised from many quarters to ask Mr. MITCHEL to retire and to name the Mayor in his place. That is asking a good deal, as anybody can see, and the Fusion Committee, we believe, looks upon the request as sheer impudence. But what would happen if Mayor GAYNOR were nominated with the entire Fusion ticket, Mr. MITCHEL excepted? The Fusion candidates, below the top of the ticket, are strong, undoubtedly stronger than Mr. MITCHEL. The transfer of their strength to Mayor GAYNOR would leave the Mitchel candidacy practically unsupported, without even the support of the Independence League, perhaps, whatever that may amount to.

On the other hand, if the Fusion candidates all stand by MITCHEL as he stands by them, declining other nominations, there would be little probability of an independent campaign in the Mayor's behalf. And the fight for Mr. MITCHEL against Tammany would be made with much more heart and vigor now that he has detached himself from Mr. HEARST. The real danger of Tammany success lies in the fact that countless thousands of business men who care very little about politics look upon Tammany graft as a mere assessment, while a government dominated by Hearst ideas would be regarded by them as a threat of confiscation. Mr. MITCHEL will strengthen himself in the confidence of the community by making his break with HEARST absolute and final.

THE SAN FRANCISCO EXHIBITION.

Sir ALBERT ROLLIT's assurance that the British Government's decision not to take part in the San Francisco Exposition was not influenced by pique will be gratefully received, especially when it is coupled with evidence of Sir ALBERT's willingness to do what he can to induce British exhibitors to make "adequate representative displays at San Francisco for their own potential profit, for the honor of their country, and in the cause of peace and good-will between the two great kindred peoples of the world." We hope that Sir ALBERT, who is Chairman of the International Exhibitions Committee of the London Chamber of Commerce, will be successful in this effort. Hope is not altogether vain, indeed, that the British Government may yet rescind or modify its action so as to give its sanction to the plans of British merchants and manufacturers who desire to exhibit.

If the refusal was not intended as retaliation, and is based solely on the large cost of transportation and the possibly small direct profit, there is no reason why it should not be reconsidered, if any large number of manufacturers express their desire to exhibit. The extent and importance of the Panama-Pacific Exposition has not yet been realized in Great Britain. It is not going to be a local fair by any means. British interest in it will grow, inevitably, as time advances.

DWINDLING GERMAN BIRTH-RATE

We called attention recently to the fact that the rate of natural increase in the population of Prussia has been maintained for some thirty years by the decline of the death-rate, offsetting an equal decline in the birth-rate. The excess of births over deaths remains at 13 per 1,000, but while the deaths have fallen from 26 to 16, the births have also fallen from 39 to 29.

The statistics for the empire, as given in the Deutsche Tageszeitung, are interesting in connection with those of Prussia. They show that the number of births per 1,000 declined from 37 in 1901 to 33 in 1908 and to 30.7 in 1910. For the past two years the figures are given only for some of the larger cities, but they are even less favorable. They are as follows for the five cities cited:

Hamburg	30.0	23.9	6.1
Leipsic	35.0	25.2	9.8
Stettin	38.0	25.1	12.9

Here, in the chief cities of Prussia, Saxony, Bavaria, and the free State of Hamburg, as well as in Pomerania, there is a decline in the birth-rate of from 20 per cent. to 37 per cent. within a single decade. At a Congress of the Anthropologic Society recently held in Nuremberg, Counselor LUSCHAM discussed in no cheerful spirit the significance of these figures. Naturally, in German fashion, he dwelt most on the effect of the change now going on upon the human material for the German Army. He declared that the "system of two children" was making headway in Germany; that it already prevailed in Berlin and other large cities and that it was spreading to the farming districts. He estimated at a half million per year the number of abortions, and expressed the opinion that within no very long time Germany, which was borrowing from France the "two-child system," would be obliged also to borrow the plan of longer military service. While the excess of births over deaths remains at 13 in 1,000 and in France is nearly nil, this danger does not seem imminent, but if the present tendency continues its realization is a question of time only.

THE GOVERNMENT OF A THOUSAND BANK ACCOUNTS.

It is announced from Washington that the Treasury now has 990 bank accounts and expects shortly to have 1,200. The reason for having so many is said to be to make the funds "more easily accessible." How was it that the funds were sufficiently accessible when there was only about one sub-Treasury to each hundred bank accounts at the present time? Doubtless there are many pensioners, wage earners, and others who want currency instead of even a bank check of the Government. Possibly also it is necessary for the matter to be dealt with by rule, and not by the issuance of checks to some and not to others. But even so, why does the Government need a thousand bank accounts?

The only reason is that it dare not keep a single account, which would answer every purpose, nor even dare it reduce the accounts to a reasonable number selected with reference to banking considerations. Politics is the explanation of the cowardice which prevents the Government from keeping its bank accounts on the same principles as other depositors. Doubtless red tape may reinforce politics, but the main consideration is politics. The Treasury is afraid to discriminate between sections, and is under the necessity of deferring to the sentiment which requires that public funds shall be distributed according to "population," the euphemism for votes. It is impossible to believe that the Government could not manage with a bank account in each reserve city, or perhaps in each central reserve city. It is impossible to imagine it because it is impossible to imagine that a Government check is not worth its face anywhere, and could not be cashed by anybody who could cash any other check. In order to maintain a thousand bank accounts it is necessary to maintain the greatest care not to overdraw the account, and not to check out more cash than the bank can conveniently spare from its reserves.

It is hard to believe that the Government is setting up a thousand bank accounts in order to show that the sub-Treasury system is a necessity. The showing would be rather that, for whatever reason, the Treasury did not know how to keep a bank account. Yet it will appear that it is easier for the Treasury to conform to banking customs than to conform banking customs to the Treasury's practice. There is no reason for the Treasury's assumption of peculiarity in its relations with the banks, and it is nearly impossible to alter the banking customs of the people. It is sure that they will not be altered for the Treasury's benefit.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Problem for the Fashionable. Energetic protest is made by a correspondent who claims, no doubt truthfully, to know a good deal about the ostrich feather market, against a statement in a recent article of ours that was devoted to the highly important subject of feminine fashions as observed in Paris. The statement was to the effect that the feathers in question are not now seen except "here and there on small velvet hats that do not appear to have much style about them"—than which, presumably, no assertion could give keener pain in the circles where it gave any pain at all or be more nearly unpardonable there if untrue in any of its various implications.

And the maker of the protest says that it is. "In the first place," as he presents the case, a certain big buyer of ostrich feathers, just back from Paris, has told him that the women there are wearing them "to a considerable extent," while "in the second place" the jobbers have bought heavy stocks and are selling them freely, particularly the wide feathers of moderate length.

On a difference of opinion between such high experts we shall not attempt to decide, caution bidding us to hurry on to a curious argument offered by our aggrieved correspondent in what seems to be an attempt to show that an inalienable right of women, well worth defending by them—and therefore by us, of course—is involved in this matter. "With a tariff bill now under consideration," he writes, "which bars out everything of this sort except domestic feathers and ostrich feathers, it is not probable that American women will submit to the efforts made in certain quarters against ostrich feathers."

That anybody is making efforts of that kind is news to us, and interesting because mysterious. Who are making them? We cannot ourselves think of anybody prone to enter on such a campaign, unless it be an ill-trained husband or two, who, forgetting that there is no relation whatever between the decorative material of a hat and its price, have been giving overmuch attention to the items on the millinery bills. But that, though it might inspire antagonism to ostrich feathers, could safely be ignored by the dealers in such wares, since it would not have the slightest effect on sales.

As a matter of fact, if civilized women really must demonstrate by wearing feathers the survival in them of a taste shown by all their sisters in barbarism and savagery, they cannot do better than to choose the plumage of the biggest and silliest of birds. It can be obtained without the destruction of life or the infliction of cruelty, and inflicts no loss on other interests.

A Queensberry Revises an Indictment. London seems to be taking JACK JOHNSON with unnecessary seriousness and to have forgotten the very obvious fact that for those who consider him a reprehensible person there is available for showing their disapproval the cheap, simple, and very effective device of staying away from the places where he is to exhibit whatever may be left of the muscular strength and pugilistic skill that have given him—with some help from worse qualities—his international notoriety.

If the wish of those who are demonstrating against the fellow is to impress upon him a realizing sense of his sins, they will only defeat their purpose by this overt war, for it will inevitably confirm his belief in his own importance, besides measurably justifying his suspicion that he is antagonized because he is black, rather than because he is bad. Since when, he might well ask, have moral lines been drawn among the members of his profession, whether that be considered of the variety stage or the squared ring? That would be an embarrassing question for his critics.

One learns from the cable dispatches, and with considerable surprise, that the Marquis of QUEENSBERRY has been discussing in a really thoughtful and intelligent way the treatment which the swarthy champion is receiving from the British public. He tells them that JOHNSON is exactly what those interested in his kind have made him by rewarding, as they have done, with wealth and what he naturally views as fame, a sort of superiority that links him with the brutes rather than with human beings. As the Marquis neatly describes the situation: "JOHNSON is not the principal sinner. It is the people who with both hands have held the cup to his mouth—the cup which bore wine which begets vanity, greed, and passion—and who now howl because he is drunk with the wine they themselves concocted for him and gave him."

That puts the responsibility for this sorry hero precisely where it belongs, and indicates that the present bearer of the too-well-known name with the many sinister associations differs in several and important respects from his ancestors. Of course, JACK JOHNSON is indefensible from any point of view, but he is not inexplicable, and the explanation should make the exponents of civilization of which he is one product a bit cautious in selecting the words with which to condemn him.

Psychologists Should Get to Work. One W. F. DAVIS, a Detroit clergyman of a denomination not mentioned in the dispatches at hand, has achieved a momentary emergence into view and won the astonished attention of the many who will now hear about him for the first time by the simple expedient of writing to two well-known prisoners in the Federal Prison at Atlanta, and offering to serve out for them the remainder of their sentences.

Of course, the Rev. Mr. DAVIS knows—if sane—that no manifestation of sympathy or proffer of aid could be cheaper or safer than this one, since there is not the slightest chance that such a substitution will be permitted. Just the same, however, he makes the absurd proposition with a fine semblance of seriousness, and entwines it with many a pious phrase and lofty sentiment.

Why he did it is a problem for the psychologists, and one more difficult to solve, perhaps, than is the one presented by the Canadians among whom THAW took refuge when they treat him as if he were a victim of persecution. As to the Canadians, Dr. MORRIS, in a communication printed on this page yesterday, offered the theory that they are making the most of a suddenly acquired and unfamiliar prominence in the news of the day. That is an explanation that has at least the merit of being charitable—which is a high one—but it is weakened by the fact that our neighbors could gain commendation, with no loss of publicity, if they viewed the invader of their rustic calm as what he is, instead of what he isn't. The little antagonisms and hostilities that flourish on both sides of every border count for something in that curious episode.

As for the Rev. Mr. DAVIS, the easy explanation of notoriety seeking is too harsh for acceptance. There must be more to his case than that, but what is the more?

MILK COMMITTEE ACTIVE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The members of the Milk Committee and its subscribers were decidedly startled yesterday on reading the introduction to the interview with Dr. Charles E. North, which appeared in the Sunday section of your newspaper. In it you stated that the "New York Milk Committee had "passed out of existence," satisfied that the work for which it was organized had been accomplished. What Dr. North did state, and what is made clear further on in the article, as it appears, was that the demonstration company through which the Milk Committee conducted its experiment in clean milk production had completed its experiment and passed out of existence.

So far from having completed its work or having passed out of existence is the Milk Committee that its members and supporters feel that it is just realizing its fullest possibilities of service and has some of its hardest work ahead of it. During the present year it is continuing its vigorous campaign for the education of mothers and fathers in the problems of infant health, through the distribution of 1,000,000 pieces of literature and through educational exhibits, lectures, moving pictures, and personal contact by nurses and social workers. We are conducting prenatal centres in nine districts of the city with a view to completing in the next few months an experiment with 5,000 expectant mothers.

We have just begun a new experiment in the old Syrian section of lower Manhattan by opening a public health child welfare centre through which we hope to determine the proper organization and method for running such a centre with a view to making recommendations to the Board of Health.

As to that part of our work dealing purely with the milk situation, we still have much to accomplish. We are continuing our investigations of the "loose" milk situation in this city, a situation in which there is still much work to be done. Our National Commission on Milk Standards, as your article states, is still hard at work on the national situation. We are planning an active campaign at Albany, this Winter, with the hope of getting passed the measures for centralized control of the milk supply, which failed of passage last Winter. These are only a few of the principal problems on which we are at work.

Will you please make one other correction? Mrs. J. Borden Harriman is Chairman of our Sub-Committee on the Reduction of Infant Mortality, and one of our most valued members. She is not, however, the head of the Milk Committee, as you state. Mr. Stephen G. Williams, as Chairman of the New York Milk Committee, is the official head of the organization.

4,000,000 Women Voters.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have just read with interest the communication to THE TIMES from the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

With its usual inability to keep up with the times this association evidently does not know that its own figures are misleading.

The suffragists do not claim 4,000,000 women voters in the nine States where women are enfranchised. The suffragists are perfectly willing to accept the antis' figures of 2,500,000 enfranchised women in the nine States, as given in this communication, and add the 1,500,000 women recently enfranchised in Illinois, the tenth State, which is exactly what they do when they claim there are 4,000,000 women eligible to vote for the next President of the United States.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to say that of the high-class dailies coming from other large cities of the country which are read in the homes, the libraries, and clubs of the national capital, there is none, perhaps, which stands higher in public estimation than THE NEW YORK TIMES. In presenting the events of the world as they occur clearly and without undue ostentation, by its conservative and rational attitude on public questions, and through its well-selected and equally well-considered literary topics, it has gained this popular and well-deserved opinion.

GAYNOR "THE BEST MAYOR."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I ask a little space in your columns to state why William J. Gaynor ought to be re-elected Mayor of New York City? He has done more to put into execution some of the fundamental ideas of the reformers than any other Mayor. He has been far more consistent in his enforcement, throughout the departments, of the Civil Service law, than any other Mayor. He has been far more consistent in his attitude of political independence than any other Mayor.

Other Mayors of New York City have been either business men or conventional politicians. Mr. Gaynor has a wider civic experience, more natural ability, and a more distinguished intellect than any of them. He has a mature, philosophical mind, and he looks further beyond the moment than the merely "practical" man of the exasperatingly banal kind that we have with us in such nauseating numbers.

Mr. Gaynor's attitude toward free speech and free assemblage and the rights of the individual has been in accordance with our deeper civilization, which "practical" men, desiring to attain an immediate end, and reformers, with only the next step in view, have often been willing to sacrifice or have overlooked entirely.

Mr. Gaynor has temperamental faults. His mind is free and tolerant, but his personal character is autocratic and resentful. But he has been the best and ablest Mayor that New York has ever had.

CORRECTS MR. BELASCO.

Mr. Doran Says "Buried Alive" Preceded "Pour Vivre Heureux."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In his letter of this morning in THE TIMES David Belasco, obviously not in possession of all the facts, unwittingly creates a wrong impression concerning the priority of production of "The Great Adventure," Arnold Bennett's play, and Mr. Belasco's play, "The Temperamental Journey."

Mr. Belasco states that Bennett's "The Great Adventure" was first produced in London in March, 1913, and that "Pour Vivre Heureux," the French original of his play, was first produced in Paris on Jan. 16, 1912.

"The Great Adventure" was first produced in Glasgow in 1911. Arnold Bennett's book, "Buried Alive," upon which is based the plot and action of "The Great Adventure," was published in 1908 by Messrs. Chapman & Hall in London, and by Messrs. Brentano in New York, subsequently reissued in the uniform edition of Bennett's novels by my company.

GEORGE H. DORAN.
New York, Aug. 26, 1913.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I write you a note apropos of your article on Mr. Belasco's and Mr. Ames's new plays? The original play, "Pour Vivre Heureux," was produced at the Theatre Renaissance with no particular success. The so-called authors are Andre Rivoire and Yves Mirande; but the most casual observer cannot fail to see in it a liberal adaptation of Tolstoy's "Living Corpse."

The play opens at a Bohemian resort, where devil-may-care artists are eating such food as they can pay for or have "hung up on the slate." Mauclair, the "great artist" of the French work, is among the Bohemians, but being hard up and married, with a leaning toward the innkeeper's daughter, (exactly paralleling the situation of Tolstoy's hero,) he decides to drown himself, and writes a note to say so; but a glance from the innkeeper's daughter haunts him, and he leaves the note and doesn't go near the water.

He returns instead at daybreak some days later to the atelier he shares with a friend, sneaks in, and, concealed, hears eulogies upon himself and the news that it is the day of his own funeral; for the note has been found, also a body which has been identified as his. This is all Tolstoy, with scarcely an effort to disguise. The "dead" artist overhears his weeping wife discuss methods of boosting the value of the defunct genius's work; comes from his cover afterward and arranges with his friend, after a purely French comedy scene, to go on with the deception. This has two advantages; booms his work and permits him to go away with the innkeeper's daughter.

The third act brings on the sale which Mauclair's friend has arranged of his paintings and the counter sale of the dealer, now allied with the widow, with forged canvases.

Somewhere I have heard that Mr. Bennett frankly avowed his work to be founded upon the Tolstoy play.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is an outrage the way the public funds are being squandered in the Thaw case. Had the city used these funds on necessary public needs it would have been much better. The Police Department could have appointed many needed patrolmen for the moneys thus expended. Yet here we have the spectacle of the State spending more thousands of dollars to bring back one who does not want to live in the State and whom we ought to be glad to get rid of, especially when he travels at his own expense. Our taxes are high enough without adding thereto by such outrageous squandering.

THE LONELY FOLK.

The army of the Lonely Folk is drawn;
No kindly hands are stretched in welcoming
The endless stream of strangers flowing in,
No friendly voices greet the soul forlorn.

In sorrow or in joy these thousands come,
Wrenched from their roots in many a distant place;
Hoping to make the fight a winning one—
Sore missing old-time friends; when work is done

What fun 'twould be if all these Lonely Folk Might wear a little button on the breast,
Saying, "I'm very lonely; are you lonely, too?
If so, pray speak; I'll gladly talk to you!"
And thus by kindred souls could be addressed.

When from a silent room a lonely one
Set forth, Adventure to accompany!
The longest, dreariest day would quickly fly,
With Hope and golden dreams to urge it on.

Alas! the army of the Lonely Folk
Dare not convention's rigid sway despise;
They watch a host with happier fates go by,
Mate sighs for mate, and there is no reply;
Heart calls to heart, but only with the eyes.

INCOME TAX IN SENATE.

Test Shows Republicans Are Inclined to Assist the Democrats.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—There were strong indications this afternoon that the Democrats of the Senate would be able to count as much on Republican votes in defeating amendments to the income tax section of the Tariff bill as in defeating attempts to modify the dutiable schedules. In a little burst of speed to-day the schedules were disposed of and the income tax was taken up. Only one roll call was taken before adjournment—that showed nine regular Republicans voting against an amendment offered by Mr. Borah, a Progressive Republican from Idaho, which was defeated, 47 to 17. The Democrats believe that changes proposed by the regulars will be equally distasteful to the radical opposition.

Mr. Borah's amendment would greatly increase the proposed surtax and lower the limit at which the additional levy would begin. Whereas, the Democratic measure imposes the surtax only on incomes in excess of $20,000 and levies a maximum tax of 4 per cent., Mr. Borah's amendment would levy the additional 1 per cent. impost on incomes between $10,000 and $30,000; 2 per cent. on incomes between $30,000 and $50,000; 3 per cent. on incomes between $50,000 and $80,000; 4 per cent. on incomes between $80,000 and $100,000, and 5 per cent. on incomes over $100,000.

The debate on the amendment was brief. The Republican Senators who voted against Mr. Borah's proposal were Clark and Warren of Wyoming, Gallinger of New Hampshire, Lippitt of Rhode Island, Lodge and Weeks of Massachusetts, Oliver of Pennsylvania, Root of New York, and Smoot of Utah.

The majority Senators practically have decided against the amendment proposed by Mr. Root some time ago providing that the income tax should be levied only on incomes accruing after the passage of the bill, instead of on all incomes since March 1, when the income tax amendment to the Constitution was proclaimed. Mr. Root's contention that incomes received prior to the enactment of the law would be in reality part of an individual's principal made an impression upon the Democrats, but to-day Senator Williams of Mississippi, who is in charge of the income tax section, presented three legal opinions in opposition to Mr. Root's contention.

The opinions were prepared by T. M. Gordon of the Department of Justice, with Attorney General McReynolds's approval; Senator Shields of Tennessee, formerly Chief Justice of that State, and Representative Cordell Hull of Tennessee, author of the income tax section. All agreed that the tax could be collected on incomes accruing since the proclamation of the income tax amendment, while Mr. Hull said he believed that incomes since the first of the year could be taxed. Mr. Gordon said that Mr. Root's contention that the income at once became principal unless the tax law already was in operation was a "legal fiction."

The Republicans attacked the income tax section as drafted on the ground that it would prove impossible of operation. Mr. Cummins said that it would mean that if a man sold during a given year property long in his possession the full selling price would be subject to the tax, regardless of the previous expenditures associated with the property. The justice of this criticism Mr. Williams practically admitted, although he said that if the seller should within the year buy a similar piece of property the purchase price would be marked off against the original receipts.

The Republicans, however, under the leadership of Mr. Cummins, Mr. Root, and Mr. Gallinger, insisted that the provision would work great hardship to persons not regularly engaged in the business of buying and selling, but who in any one year made large sales of real estate or other property in their possession. Mr. Williams's only answer was that these levies would be offset later by reductions for the purchase of other property.

The provision whereby undivided profits of corporations and partnerships are held liable to the surtax as if they had been divided among the stockholders was also assailed. Mr. Root said that under the laws of New York and most other States a stockholder had no claim to a dividend until it was declared by the Directors. In this way, he said, a private stockholder might be heavily taxed for a hypothetical dividend which might not be declared until after his death.

When the Senate adjourned to-night it had 100 or more of the paragraphs covering tariff rates still to dispose of. These are scattered throughout the various schedules of the bill. Senator Simmons, the tariff leader, announced that he expected to conclude the income and administrative features of the measure before returning to the tariff rates still in dispute. In the meantime the Democratic members of the Finance Committee will attempt to settle all points at issue by Saturday or Monday. An attempt to-day by Senator Brandegee to increase the proposed duty on hats from 45 to 50 per cent. was defeated. An amendment by Senator Page, to increase the duty on calfskins and fancy leather from 10 to 15 per cent., was defeated, 46 to 22.

FOR GERMAN EXHIBIT AT FAIR

Hamburg-American Line Votes $50,000 to Have Fatherland Represented

Vice Director W. G. Sickel of the Hamburg-American Line announced yesterday that following cable communications with Albert Ballin, the Director General of the line in Hamburg, the New York office was authorized to announce that a subscription of $50,000 had been voted by the company for the purpose of providing an adequate exhibit of German industries at the Panama-Pacific Exposition in San Francisco. The German Government recently declined to appropriate funds for participation in the fair, and Mr. Ballin, as a result, is heading a movement to raise a fund by popular subscription that will make it possible for Germany to have one of the finest of the foreign exhibits.

The movement started by Mr. Ballin is a national one, but will not be limited to the citizens of the Fatherland. American citizens of German birth are also asked to contribute. Mr. Sickel said yesterday that his announcement followed the receipt of a cablegram from Mr. Ballin, in which cable the Director General pointed out that Germany's refusal to exhibit officially was due to the fact that there was a great depression in its steel and iron industries, and that the Government did not desire to exhibit unless all of its great industries were adequately represented.

Mr. Sickel said that Mr. Ballin had reason to believe that the response of Germans, both at home and abroad, would be generous and that the German exhibit at San Francisco in 1915 would be among the most interesting and complete at the fair. In addition to its initial donation of $50,000 to the fair fund the Hamburg-American Line would grant a concession in transatlantic freight rates to exhibitors, Mr. Sickel said, and would also endeavor to arrange for the passage of the liner that will transport the exhibits through the canal before the official opening of the waterway to the trade of the world.

In addition to its activities enumerated above the line will also undertake the negotiations with the fair Directors for the purpose of obtaining an advantageous site for the building that will house the German exhibits. An effort will be made to get the site free of charge.

Mr. Sickel said that as yet it had not been determined how to go about the raising of the fund from among German-Americans in the United States.

"The refusal of the German Government to exhibit," said Mr. Sickel, "is not due to political reasons, but purely to the present state of certain of the great German industries."

A further announcement as to the Ballin plan for a German exhibit will shortly be made.

HOUSE OF GOVERNORS MEETS IN COLORADO

McGovern, Oddie, Ammons, and Spry Open the Convention—Great Demand for Seats.

SECRETARY LANE IS HEARD

Advocates Liberal Federal Land Laws—Preliminary Report by Rural Credits Commission.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Aug. 26.—The fifth annual conference of the House of Governors was opened here this morning by Gov. F. E. McGovern of Wisconsin, who introduced Gov. Tasker L. Oddie of Nevada as Temporary Chairman. Gov. E. M. Ammons of Colorado, in his address of welcome, emphasized the importance of the conference as the most satisfactory way of dealing with questions directly affecting the States. Gov. William Spry of Utah responded for the Governors.

So great was the demand for places in the convention hall that admission was by card. In many instances the Governors were accompanied by distinguished residents of their home States who are spending the Summer in this region.

Gov. B. Colquitt of Texas came in for special honors. A party of Dallas mail carriers en route to San Francisco to attend their national convention, visited his hotel. They had their own band, which gave a serenade. They were joined later by the mail carriers' band from Cleveland, also en route to San Francisco. The two bands gave a serenade for all the Governors.

Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, in an address to the Governors, outlined the policy of his department toward Western land settlement. He said homesteaders were entitled to all possible aid from the Government. He suggested that the time for paying for water rights ought to be extended. He said the Government already had expended $80,000,000 in reclamation projects, and should spend a like sum in the next ten years.

The report of the American Commission on Rural Credits was presented to the conference by Gordon Jones of Denver in the absence of Senator Fletcher of Florida, its Chairman. In this, the first general report upon the extensive European investigation made by the commission under joint authority of Congress the Governments of twenty-nine States, and the Southern Commercial Congress, Chairman Fletcher recommended increased activity by the States in the extension of rural credits and co-operative farming enterprises.

Definite recommendations by the commission will not be formulated until certain committees have gone through a mass of data and prepared it for consideration of the entire commission. The report made it clear, however, that emphatic recommendations would be made for a system of rural banking through which farmers could secure better loans, and through which they could finance their own co-operative producing, buying, and selling organizations.

Officers of the Lincoln Highway Association were received by the Governors, Henry B. Joy of Detroit, President of the association, outlining the plans for a national highway and asking cooperation of the Governors.

AIDING RUMANIAN JEWS.

Mr. Friedman Back, Bringing Thanks, Too, of Pressburg.

Louis Friedman, who recently went to Europe in connection with the re-establishment of the Pressburg, Hungary, Seminary, destroyed by fire, and also to look into the condition of the movement for the relief of the Jews in Rumania, returned to this country yesterday. He brought with him the thanks of the community of Pressburg, through Chief Rabbi Akiba Schreiber, to the American people for their help in rebuilding the seminary. This was accomplished, Mr. Friedman says, mostly with American money.

Mr. Friedman also bears with him a letter from Premier Asquith of England, promising the support of the English Government and people for the Jewish National University, to be opened shortly in Jerusalem, provided the university adopts the English language and that English literature be made a compulsory part of the course of training in the university. This, Mr. Friedman says, is part of a movement to make the English language predominant in the Orient.

Mr. Friedman bears a letter from John E. Redmond, the Irish Parliamentary leader, in which Mr. Redmond says that he fully sympathizes with Mr. Friedman in the latter's efforts in behalf of his co-religionists.

PERRY SURVIVOR OF 1852.

Arthur Sinclair of Virginia Is Still Hale and Hearty.

When William Hunter, a veteran of Pittsburgh, died in that city on Aug. 22, it was generally supposed that he had been the last survivor of the famous expedition of Commodore Perry which opened up the ports of Japan to the world in 1852, and obituary notices in THE TIMES and other papers so reported. The laurels of the last survivor, however, still rest on one in the land of the living.

Yesterday THE TIMES received a letter from G. Terry Sinclair, who pointed out that his brother, Arthur Sinclair, served in Perry's expedition as Captain's clerk on board the U. S. S. Supply, commanded by his father, also Arthur Sinclair. Later on he served as a volunteer aid to Capt. Buchanan on board the Merrimac in her memorable battle in Hampton Roads, and afterward as a Lieutenant on the C. S. S. Alabama during her entire cruise with Semmes.

Arthur Sinclair, when his brother heard from him a few days ago, was very much alive at his home in Fairfax County, Va. Although now in his seventy-seventh year he wrote that he still greatly enjoyed the shooting and fishing season, and in enjoyment of both tramped many miles.

READY FOR ARBITRATORS.

Eastern Railroads and Their Men Have Prepared Their Briefs.

Preparations were begun yesterday by the Managers' Conference Committee of the Eastern railroads for the arbitration hearings by the board of six appointed under the Newlands act. The committee will meet almost daily at 70 East Forty-fifth Street. Briefs have been prepared by the managers and by the representatives of the trainmen and conductors for submission to the arbitrators.

It is expected that Seth Low, one of the two arbitrators selected to represent the public, will be made Chairman of the Board of Arbitration. Elisha Lee, Chairman of the Conference Committee of Managers, will act as attorney for the railroads, and A. B. Garretson of the Order of Railway Conductors and W. G. Lee of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen will represent the men.

The hearings will take place in this city. During the arbitration of the demands of the firemen under the old Erdman act the hearings took place in one of the large assembly rooms of the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria.

VANDERBILT BUYS KILL KARE KAMP

Gets Timothy L. Woodruff's Preserve of 1,000 Acres in the Adirondacks.

ORIGINAL COST WAS $12,000

It Has a Private Fish Hatchery and Streams Stocked with Trout and Salmon.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt has purchased Timothy L. Woodruff's celebrated Kamp Kill Kare in the Adirondacks. Mr. Woodruff confirmed the sale, but declined to go into any details or name the price paid for the property.

The camp, which has been famous for many important political conferences, is on Lake Kora, about six miles from Raquette Lake. It contains about 1,000 acres, a private fish hatchery, and streams well stocked with trout and salmon. Alfred G. Vanderbilt owns a large Adirondack camp close by Mr. Woodruff's former preserve.

The property cost Mr. Woodruff $12,000 several years ago, a fact which was brought out during Gov. Hughes's administration, when, in 1910, he appointed commissioners to investigate the purchase of Adirondack lands by the State. The original owner of the tract which Mr. Woodruff named Kamp Kill Kare was William W. Durant. He owned several thousand acres adjoining, and the State at one time endeavored to acquire all the property, but Mr. Durant refused to allow Lake Kora, then known as Lake Sumner, to be included in the tract. The State eventually bought the Durant holdings, exclusive of this 1,000-acre section, for $167,000, leaving Kamp Kill Kare in the centre of the State preserves.

In explaining before the commission how he came to buy the camp, Mr. Woodruff stated that the State had purchased about 25,000 acres for about $6 an acre, including several miles of shore front on Raquette Lake, while he paid $12 an acre for his portion.

"I paid," said Mr. Woodruff, "the highest price known up to that time to have been paid for unimproved wild Adirondack land. The property was twenty-seven miles from the nearest railroad station, and could only be reached by boats and trails. I bought it largely for the purpose of furnishing me a base of operations for the work of the Forest Preserve Board, of which I was for five and one-half years after its purchase the President.

"Mr. Durant would not consider any price from the State, as the lake would thereby become public property and injure the value of two adjacent preserves on which he had erected many costly buildings. I only acquired it when Mr. Durant offered it for sale to any desirable private purchaser."

"Kiss Me Quick" is the sort of thing that makes one lose one's faith in human nature.

Philip Bartholomae, its author, has given evidence of a sense of humor on previous occasions. But the exhibition presented on the stage of the Forty-eighth Street Theatre last night was so amazingly naïve that it would really beggar adequate description—if any one had the least desire to describe it.

What this alleged farce pretends to do is to suggest a series of amusing adventures following in the wake of a moving picture company's attempt to provide a reel of adventure. But what it really does is to present a hasty pudding of hopelessly exaggerated incidents of which a class of undergraduates would hardly be guilty. When the effort of such an admirable artiste as Miss Helen Lowell is invoked for such a purpose, the tragedy of the situation becomes acute.

Miss Louise Drew, Miss Laura Baird, and Robert Kelly came through the ordeal with some credit, but to condemn any of the actors under the existing conditions would be manifestly cruel.

As to the piece itself, "Kill Me Quick" would be a more appropriate name, since it would suggest a beneficent action following upon the titular suggestion.

M'LOUGHLIN AGAIN WINS TENNIS TITLE

LOSER PLAYS HARD GAME

Victory Gives Western Player Two Legs on Cup—Record Crowd Sees Match.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 25.—Maurice E. McLoughlin of San Francisco, the playing through lawn tennis champion, retained his title won a year ago to-day when he triumphed over the fierce attack of Richard Norris Williams, 2d, of Philadelphia. Four sets were required to decide the match, Williams winning the second by coming up from behind with a burst of speed that was irresistible. In the fourth set, however, McLoughlin played his best tennis, and allowed Williams but one game. The scores were 6—4, 5—7, 6—3, 6—1.

For the first time since 1884, when Richard D. Sears was obliged to remain out of the all-comers tournament and defend his title in the challenge round, the champion played through. McLoughlin's victory was much more decisive than last year, for he lost only one set during the tournament, whereas in 1912 he was twice pressed to the full limit of five sets, once by Williams and in the final round by Wallace Johnson. In this year's championship he met only two men capable of extending him—Williams and William J. Clothier. Williams was much less favored by the draw, being obliged to defeat G. F. Touchard, William Johnston, and Nat W. Niles before meeting McLoughlin in the final round.

A record-breaking gallery witnessed the match. As early as 7 o'clock people were at the Casino awaiting the opening of the doors, and, as it had been announced the night before that all the seats were sold and that there was standing room only, it was decided to throw open the space at the south end of the championship court. Here about 500 chairs were placed, while at the north end every means for enabling people to see the play were used. Every seat in both stands was occupied, and the sight, in the brilliant sunshine, was an impressive one. There was a brisk breeze blowing, which bothered both men somewhat, but otherwise conditions were absolutely perfect. The court was as smooth as a billiard table and was fast and true.

It was just a few minutes past 11 o'clock when the two players appeared, and the match began with McLoughlin serving. He won the game after Williams led, being favored by a foot fault being called on a service which Williams had killed. Service won to 3-all, when Williams broke through by a series of beautiful shots that gave McLoughlin no chance. But the advantage thus gained was quickly lost, for McLoughlin won Williams's service and the score was 4-all. The Californian reached 5—4 on his own delivery, in spite of two double faults, and then captured that of Williams, the final point being scored on a fast forehand drive across the court which was to prove a winning shot many times thereafter.

In the second set McLoughlin had difficulty in winning his service in the first game, but was finally successful. Williams evened it and then had a fine chance to capture McLoughlin's when the latter double-faulted and was behind at 30—40. Splendid rallies followed, each man working for the opening and striving to make the winning shot. McLoughlin was a shade the better at this and he finally got the game. After narrowly missing the loss of his own service Williams began a burst of speed that carried him into a 4—2 lead. He got even more pace on the ball and drove and volleyed with absolute deadliness, hitting the side lines time after time and leaving McLoughlin standing. This lasted into the seventh game, McLoughlin serving, and the latter was behind at 0—40.

Some spectacular driving and net work, aided by a lucky net cord stroke, brought the Californian to deuce, and then he speeded up his service and finally ran out the game. Williams still had his chance for the set, and fought hard for the next game, but a double fault and a succession of errors lost him the game, and the score was 4—all. Again in the next game Williams almost broke through McLoughlin's service. He got to advantage twice, but "Mac" rose to the occasion and won on two fast drives across court. Williams won his own service at 15 and drew level at 5—all, and once more broke through McLoughlin on wonderful drives and volleys that were unplayable. The end came in the twelfth game, Williams serving. His delivery was so severe that the Californian could not get to the net, and Williams was quite his match off the ground. He won this game at love, and the set was his at 7—5 amid tremendous applause.

In the third set McLoughlin was clearly superior up to 4—1. Here Williams cut down his errors, but could not do better than match McLoughlin in games to 5—3. The rallies were frequent and prolonged, and the gallery was kept busy cheering first one player and then the other. McLoughlin won his own service in the ninth game, and the set was his at 6—3.

The Californian led, 2 sets to 1, and that was just about the measure of his superiority. Williams was playing him so closely, however, that it was just a case of keeping down his errors to make it possible to win. The men went off for the seven minutes' rest, and speculation as to the outcome was indulged in by all.

Williams began serving in the fourth set and was broken through after a struggle. His shots went out by the narrowest margins, while once McLoughlin "flubbed" a lob which went over Williams's head and scored the point. McLoughlin ended the game with a smash of a short ball, and followed it with the win of the second game rather easily.

Another battle came in the third game, and again Williams lost it through errors, his shots just going out or into the net. With the score 3—0, it seemed a certainty for McLoughlin.

The Californian began the fourth game with a beautiful service ace, but Williams came to the net and intercepted and crossed sharply McLoughlin's return. A lobbing duel resulted in Williams's favor. A shot sent straight to McLoughlin camped at the net, causing him to put it into the net. A long deuce and vantage struggle followed, and the game finally went to Williams on two smashes which McLoughlin, to the surprise of every one, put away out. It was Williams's last flash, as while he struggled on he was unable to control his shots and McLoughlin pressed on, evidently determined to push his advantage home. A fine drive by McLoughlin, a double fault and two outs by Williams ended the match. The scores:

History Teaches

That following a long period of declining prices for investments those first to recover in market are the higher grade issues. Therefore, during a time such as the present, when good bonds are selling at the lowest level in years, those who buy at prices now ruling are almost certain to realize a profit on their investment. This is entirely apart from the strong security afforded the principal, and the prompt payment of interest on the first day of every semi-annual coupon date.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Prices Move Uncertainly—Recovered on Mexican News, Then Receded Again.

When the news was received yesterday after trading had been under way for half an hour, that President Wilson's message to Congress had been put over for a day at the request of the Mexican Government, the stock market quickly recovered losses which had occurred all through the list. This forward movement in some cases carried prices above Monday's final figures. Then the dealings fell again into extreme dullness. More than half of the day's total of 216,000 shares was done within the first hour. With dullness came renewed heaviness, and the majority of the more active issues suffered some net loss for the day. The market, particularly during the later hours of the session, was very thin. In these contrary movements the Mexican news played a very large part, though it was supplemented by other information of direct import to the market, including the passing of the dividend on the preferred stock of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis; a further severe break in New York, New Haven & Hartford, which was regarded as directly due to the talk of a posible further cut in that road's dividend; and a weekly weather report which again summarized conditions which have been very unfavorable for a large part of the corn belt, and more recently for a portion of the cotton belt. Selling for London account was a factor much discussed during the day, although it did not appear clear that the selling from that quarter had played as large a part in the opening decline as had been attributed to it.

At the close of the day the financial community was at a loss to appraise satisfactorily to itself the probable significance of the request for postponement of the President's message to Congress which came from Mexico City. The impression at first created was that Gen. Huerta had at last made up his mind to yield to the demands of this Government. As the day wore on less and less confidence was placed in that view of the matter. Throughout all the uncertainty over our relations with Mexico has lurked, however, the feeling that some peaceful solution would be found. The market may be said to have reflected this belief even though many in the financial district were from the beginning skeptical of the success of the Lind mission. The insecure hold which the Mexican Government has on any further financial assistance from abroad is considered a very important and a hopeful element in the situation. Bankers here have not said that they would refuse to join in another installment of the bond issue arranged early in the Summer, but it is believed that they would hesitate long before helping to supply any more money to the Mexican Government as it is now constituted. The fact is that Mexico got relatively little of the proceeds of the $30,000,000 installment which was floated in July. Most of that went to pay off loans previously obtained by Mexico. That was one very good reason for the bankers taking that loan. The same reason would not apply to a further sale of bonds under the authorized issue of $50,000,000 which is secured by the pledge of all the customs receipts of Mexico which nad not previously been pledged. The reports that Mexico had completed negotiations in Europe for a further loan of $20,000,000 were not taken very seriously yesterday, and the feeling was growing that without money the present Government could not hold together.

With the whole situation, however, still so poorly defined, there was felt more or less nervousness over the matter. This accentuated the effect of the other factors of the day which could be cited in explanation of the uncertain tone of the market. The passing of the Big Four dividend was another aftermath of the floods of last Spring, as was in part the recent reduction in the Chesapeake & Ohio rate. The comment of one New Haven director on the talk of a further reduction in that road's dividend was that if it had not been cut enough it would be cut again, but events will be allowed to govern that matter, for apparently no present intention further to reduce the dividend exists. Practically three months will elapse before the question again comes up for action.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Uneasy Holders of New Haven.

The retreat of stockholders of the New York, New Haven & Hartford became a rout yesterday morning. From 95¾, the opening, which showed a loss ⅝ over night, the price quickly broke to 92¼, where a halt was made. Subsequent rallies carried the price back to 94, but it was not particularly firm at that figure, and the rumor of an early reduction in the dividend rate from 6 per cent. to 4 per cent. waxed much stronger. It is doubtful if any other railroad, unless the Pennsylvania or Chicago, ever had a more loyal constituency than the New Haven. For two-score years a man's financial standing in New England was fixed by his holdings of New Haven. Colleges, eleemosynary institutions, savings banks and trustees have been large stockholders. A surprisingly large number of shareholders are residents of the company's territory, who have held their stock since the consolidation. They have seen the price rise and fall over wide ranges, but never a drop approaching this. The record top price was made in 1889 at 279. Its highest price since 1900 was 255, in April, 1902. The stock paid 8 per cent. per annum from 1895 until this year.

Debentures at a Premium.

Gov. Bulkely, who confesses that he sold his personal holdings of New Haven at 215 and bought in again recently at par, predicted at the annual meeting that many of the shareholders would rather be sure of 6 per cent. on the new debenture bonds than to take a chance on getting 8 per cent. again some time on the stock, and would accordingly sell their shares in order to buy bonds. If it be assumed that the 6 per cent. dividend rate is assured for a few years to come, the switch cannot be made without a considerable loss of income. Stockholders are to be allowed to buy the new bonds at par, but their right depends upon their holding their shares until after Sept. 9, the date the books close. It is reasonable to suppose that with the passing of that date the value of the subscription privilege will be subtracted from the market price of the stock. If a stockholder disposed of his New Haven at 94, last night's closing price, in order to buy New Haven debentures at about 106½, his income would be seriously diminished. If the company should find itself unable to maintain the present rate, and reduced it to 4 per cent., then the shift would prove advantageous. Selling of stock for the purpose of an exchange of this nature was one of the reasons ascribed for the unusual activity in the past few days.

⁂

Mine Owners Prepared for Crisis.

Officers of mining companies whose properties lie in the troubled zone of Northern Mexico said yesterday that if developments should arise to necessitate the removal of all Americans across the Rio Grande their interests would not be summarily abandoned. In fact, the mines would be as well looked after, they asserted, as they have been for the past six months, for early in the year arrangements were made for the withdrawal of American employes on the properties in Chihuahua, and the transfer of as much of the management and oversight as was possible to responsible native officials. Comparatively few Americans are said to be still at work in that State, and they have been leaving Sonora rapidly in the last few weeks. Mine owners believe that the Mexicans left in charge will do all in their power to protect property, even if an international crisis arises, and will quickly take up their former routine again when the wandering bands of marauders have been suppressed. The impression is general in mining circles that if only the Federal and revolutionary parties had to be reckoned with the northern mines would be under operation, on a moderate scale, at least. The chief difficulty has been all along with gangs of guerrillas, whose depredations have scattered the working forces in terror of their lives, and destroyed means of transportation.

Damage to Property Still Small.

Contrary to the general belief, gathered from dispatches from the troublous regions of Mexico, mining men say they have not suffered heavy loss in property. Inability to keep work going and get ore and refined products to market has cut down earnings extensively, but the physical condition of the mines and mills, according to latest reports to the headquarters of one important company, is still good. The belligerants have respected the rights of Americans to own and develop ore lands, and while they have not scrupled to loot wherever the opportunity offered they have refrained from wantonly destroying equipment. The railroads, naturally, have not been so fortunate in this respect as the mining companies, because they supplied means of communication for whichever party had the upper hand at the moment.

Market Strength Impresses Traders

Traders in stocks had reason to be impressed with the way prices yesterday morning met the decidedly bearish news in regard to the Mexican situation. At the opening Steel was under pressure and receded nearly a point, but Union Pacific was comparatively steady, while Lehigh Valley and Southern Pacific advanced, and Reading and Copper displayed a front unchanged from Monday's closing figures. The break in New Haven was not attributed to anything outside of its own difficulties, and in other directions stocks stood up firmly. Within a few minutes the demand was equal to supply, if not a little better, and the whole market had grown steadier before Washington dispatches told of President Wilson's decision to delay his message on affairs south of the border for another day. In later trading the professional element on the board continued to talk bearishly, but stocks did not reflect their sentiment until well along toward the close.

⁂

The Railroad Trend.

The past year has seen a greater disturbance among railway dividends than was caused by the panic of 1907. The passing yesterday of the preferred payment on Big Four only emphasizes some of the other omissions and reductions of late months. The St. Paul shattered a long record of unbroken declarations at the 7 per cent. rate last year, when the burden of carrying the Puget Sound extension forced a reduction to 5 per cent., which rate still obtains. The Illinois Central had a still more enviable record as a 7 per cent. payer, but is now on a 5 per cent. basis. The New Haven, whose President had stated publicly less than two years before that he could hardly conceive of conditions which would justify a departure from the 8 per cent. payment, cut its dividend to 6 per cent. in the last quarter of the past fiscal year, and the Chesapeake & Ohio lowered its rate from 5 per cent. to 4 per cent. last week as a result of the recent floods. When the next hearing on the application for higher freight rates comes up the shippers' organizations will not be able to point to so many prosperous railroads as evidence of the sufficiency of existing charges.

Panhandle Bonds Sold at 4½%.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Speyer & Co. announced yesterday that the $7,000,000 of Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway Company 4½ per cent. consolidated mortgage bonds offered by them Monday were sold in five hours on a 4½ per cent. basis.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Narrow List of Stocks Traded In—Price Tone Is Irregular.

After a firm opening quotations in the outside market became irregular yesterday, and toward the close business practically came to a standstill. The number of stocks traded in was small. United Cigar Stores preferred was in demand, but pressure appeared against the common stock. Bonds were inactive.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Weakness in Berlin—Keen Demand in London for New Investment Stocks.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 27.—The Times says in its City article to-day:

"Thee was no change in the rates for day-to-day advances, and short fixtures yesterday. The India Council called some of its money, but the tendency remained very easy.

"Discount quotations were at first weak, but hardened on the news that £250,000 in sovereigns was being withdrawn. One hundred thousand pounds was taken for Turkey, as expected.

"The members of the Stock Exchange were occupied with the carryover, and fresh business was on a small scale. Consols and home railway stocks rose slightly.

"Canadian Pacific and American shares closed rather lower after being weak.

"Scrips of recent issue were in keen demand, notably New South Wales.

"Rubber shares closed weaker. Oil shares showed strength. Copper shares were supported."

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Prices were firm on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 88f 27½c for the account.

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—Trading was dull and prices closed lower on the Boerse to-day.

BIG FOUR SKIPS DIVIDEND.

Nothing for Preferred in October, Owing to High Expenses.

Another long-established railroad dividend went by the board yesterday, when Directors of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis, known as the Big Four, announced that the quarterly payment due in October would not be paid. The company has paid 5 per cent. regularly for fourteen years, and had paid dividends for a long time prior to the inauguration of that rate. The common stock, of which $30,000,000 out of the $47,000,000 outstanding is held by the Lake Shore, has received no dividends since the 2 per cent. declared in 1910.

The following explanation was given out by the Directors: "The loss of business and increased operating costs consequent upon the floods have made it impossible for the company to continue the payment of dividends on the preferred stock for the present."

EXCHANGE SEAT $50,000.

Negotiations On for a Sale at the Upward Price.

Negotiations are on between two members of the New York Stock Exchange for the sale of a seat at $50,000, an advance of $4,000 over the price of a membership sold last week and a rise of $13,000 above the lowest price of the year. According to gossip on the board room floor, which is not often far out of the way when the transfer of memberships are concerned, the sale is practically assured.

The present owner of the seat is said to be Philip T. Brown, who is spending his vacation in Maine. The Exchange authorities had nothing to say about the transaction except that an announcement would be made later in the week.

Canada Iron Concern Liquidates.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 26.—The Canada Iron Corporation of Fort William, Ont., one of the largest of its kind in the world, went into voluntary liquidation this afternoon, according to an announcement by E. W. Davis, general manager. The action was friendly, he asserts, and he said the company probably would be reorganized and expanded. The corporation has six large plants in Canada which manufacture car wheels, brake shoes, and sewer pipe. It also owns several iron mines. Its plant in Fort William employes 450 men.

MONEY FOR BANKS IN EAST IF NEEDED

Government Aid Extended Anywhere, Says McAdoo, Announcing First Deposits.

$46,500,000 APPORTIONED

That Amount Is Ready for Western and Southern Institutions, with Largest Sum Going to Missouri.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Secretary McAdoo of the Treasury Department today announced the apportionment, so far as it has been completed, of the $50,000,000 fund of Government deposits offered to the banks of the South and West to facilitate the movement of the crops.

The apportionment thus far made is for $46,500,000, of which $24,700,000 goes to fourteen Western States and $21,800,000 to thirteen Southern States and the District of Columbia. The largest amount to be deposited with any one State is $5,000,000 to Missouri banks. Illinois ranks next with an apportionment of $4,000,000, California third with $3,000,000, and Baltimore banks fourth with $2,800,000.

The money is to be deposited with the Southern banks this month and in September, while the Western banks will get their deposits in September, October, and November. In announcing the apportionment Secretary McAdoo stated that if in the East or elsewhere it should be shown that there is need for the temporary use of funds for similar legitimate purposes, the Government will be ready to extend such aid to the Eastern banks.

Here is Mr. McAdoo's official statement:

In making this apportionment among States and cities and individual banks, the department has taken into consideration many factors, among these being the immediate needs of the localities as reported by the committees of the clearing houses in the conferences held with them in Washington; the capital and surplus of the different national banks and the character of business transacted by them; the amount of money which these banks are at the present time advancing to their country bank correspondents, and the additional accommodations which they expect to extend to these correspondents; the present condition of these national banks as shown by the last Controller's call; their outstanding circulation and the amount of rediscounts which these banks may have made in their efforts to meet the legitimate demands upon them of customers and correspondents.

The funds are deposited in the banks of the West and South at this time because it is believed that there is a special demand for the money to assist in the marketing of the crops which are now being harvested in these particular sections, but if in the East or elsewhere it should be shown that there is need for the temporary use of funds for similar legitimate purposes the Government will be quite as ready to extend aid.

It is expected that the money will be allowed to remain on deposit in the different localities on an average of about four or five months, all to be returned not later than April; deposits in the Southern States which are given out first to be returned first, and in monthly installments, beginning in December.

In each depositary city the Government has chosen a special representative, who will serve in conjunction with a Clearing House committee of five to pass on all commercial paper recommended as security for deposits, and all paper before being accepted must be unanimously recommended by this committee.

The following list shows the amount allotted to each State, the cities designated as depositaries, and the Government's representative selected in each city up to the present time:

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Practically one-third of the business done in Wall Street in Union Pacific was accounted for by the 5,700 shares of that stock which changed hands on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. A number of other prominent stocks also made a very good trading showing. Of Reading 11,660 shares changed hands on the Consolidated, while of Amalgamated Copper there were 4,180 shares sold, and of United States Steel 14,250 shares. Transactions in all stocks totaled 44,719 shares, of which 5,040 shares were dealt in between 9:30 and 10 o'clock, before business began elsewhere in Wall Street. Mexico again dominated trading sentiment. Although the 9:30 o'clock opening prices reflected some overnight advances, the market sold off after the call. There was a sharp rally, however, in the later trading.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

The September option in corn was advanced over a cent a bushel on hasty covering, and, while the extreme rise was cut down later, all the months closed strong. Wheat was inactive, except for September, in which a gain of ⅝ cent was scored, and the close was rather heavy. Oats were weak. In the cotton market great activity developed, but after passing through sharp fluctuations prices ended with a small decline in August and only small gains in the new crop months. Provisions and cotton oil were quiet and irregular.

WHEAT.

The wheat market was inactive and price changes seemed to depend largely on speculative operations with traders inclined to even up for September delivery. Prices during the greater part of the day were steady on small offerings, but at the close in the West they were only about steady at unchanged to ⅛c lower, while in the local market September was ⅝c higher on covering and the other positions were unchanged to ¼c lower.

The news of the day shed but little new light on the situation, and underlying conditions were practically unchanged. The foreign markets were irregular. The International Institute at Rome placed this year's total wheat crop, exclusive of France and Canada, at 2,688,000,000 bushels, compared with 2,584,000,000 last year. The European visible supply increased 2,456,000 bushels, compared with an increase last year of 2,100,000. Bradstreet's visible showed an increase east of the Rockies of 309,000 bushels, compared with an increase last year of 89,000, while stocks in America and in and afloat for Europe gained 2,124,000, bringing the total to 125,179,000, compared with 98,573,000 last year, when there was an increase of 2,321,000.

In the local cash market No. 2 red Winter wheat was quoted at 95½c, cost, insurance, and freight; New York export at 97c, free on board; No. 1 Northern Spring $1.00¼, free on board.

CORN.

The corn market was again feverish with active early buying in September, which sent the market up over a cent a bushel. Late in the day there was a partial reaction and final prices were ⅜c to ⅝c higher.

Bradstreet's visible decreased 785,000 bushels, compared with a decrease last year of 638,000 bushels. The Iowa State Bulletin said that rains have been of great benefit to the late crop but insufficient in the southern part, and estimated the yield for the State at 330,000,000 bushels, against the last Government estimate of 333,000,000. In the local cash market export corn was quoted at 83¼c, nominal, free on board.

OATS.

The oats market was under pressure of hedge selling against increasing stocks, and prices closed at a net decline of ⅜c to ⅝c. Bradstreet's visible showed an increase for the week of 3,874,000 bushels, compared with an increase of 1,013,000 bushels last year.

The local cash market was easy, standard white being quoted at 47@47½c; No. 2, 48c; No. 3, 46@46½c; No. 4, 45½@46c; ordinary clipped white, 46@47½c; fancy clipped white, 48@49c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was very inactive and prices were slightly easier at the close in absence of demand, although the hog markets were generally firm and receipts moderate. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 15,000; estimated for Wednesday 24,000, Kansas City 9,000, and Omaha 5,000.

COTTON.

The cotton market was even more active yesterday than on Monday, but showed extreme nervousness, and, after making new high ground for the movement, reacted sharply, with the close steady at a net decline of 2 points on August and only 1 to 5 points net higher on new crop months. The buying slackened on the advance to 12.16c for October, or about $6.20 per bale above the low level of two weeks ago, and the market was unsettled by heavy realizing in the late trading.

Some hesitation was noted at the opening, owing to disappointing cables, and first prices were 2 points lower to 2 points higher. This was very quickly followed by the development of renewed strength on reports of rising temperatures in the Southwest, and the readiness with which initial offerings had been absorbed by an improving commission house demand. Around 12c for October contracts stop orders were uncovered, chiefly in the hands of Wall Street brokers, and during the noon hour active months sold 21 to 25 points net higher. Demand then slackened and continued heavy realizing cost the market most of the advance, although a good deal of buying power was in evidence around 11.90c for December.

If anything there were fewer crop deterioration reports circulating in the trade yesterday than on Monday, but weather conditions showed no improvement, and it was consequently assumed that the Southwestern crop was still deteriorating.

Southern spot markets were unchanged to ¼c higher. The range of contract prices in the local market was as follows:

COTTONSEED OIL.

There was only a quiet trade in the cottonseed oil market, but prices were irregular. The near positions were again under the influence of liquidation as well as hedge selling against increased offerings of crude oil from the South, while the distant positions were only partially influenced, and final prices ranged from 4 to 24 points net lower.

COFFEE.

Prices started 5 to 6 points above the previous close and closed firm at a net advance of 15 to 21 points on total sales of 141,500 bags. The official Brazilian weather report, covering conditions on Monday morning, showed rains in all five coffee districts, with temperatures lower, the minimum being 42 degrees. Havre closed at a net advance of ½ to ¾ franc, while Hamburg was 1 to 1½ pfennigs higher. Brazilian markets were also higher and cost and freight prices were firmer.

MISCELLANEOUS MARKETS.

BEEF.—There were no wholesale price changes yesterday for Western beef cuts.

SUGAR.—The recent firmness in the raw sugar market was reflected in granulated, and all refiners advanced prices about ten points. Fine granulated is now being quoted on a basis of $4.80. The local raw sugar market was firm and about 1-16c higher than previously quoted. The London beet sugar market was firm and higher early, and on the curb prices stood at 9s 7d for August, 9s 6¼d for September, and 9s 3¾d for October-December.

MOLASSES AND SYRUPS.—The market was quiet and unchanged yesterday.

RICE.—The rice market was quiet, with operators trading in a hand-to-mouth manner. There were no price changes.

FLOUR AND MEAL.—Little developed in the flour market yesterday. Buyers seemed a little more inclined to bid, probably influenced by the steadiness of wheat. Prices, however, showed no change.

OILS.—There was no change in linseed oil, prices for city raw being 53@54c. Petroleum was steady at former prices.

NAVAL STORES.—The turpentine market was about ½c lower, due to the easier market in the South. Resin and tar were steady and unchanged.

REPORT AIR GOOD IN CITY SCHOOLS

Overheating in Some Places, Experts Say, Due to Janitors or Teachers.

VENTILATION FAIRLY GOOD

Bacteriological Conditions Not Bad and Dust Giving Little Trouble.

The final report on the atmospheric conditions in New York City schools was submitted yesterday to the Committee on School Inquiry of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment by Profs. Charles Baskerville and C. E. A. Winslow of the College of the City of New York, two of the experts employed under Prof. Paul H. Hanus of Harvard to investigate the local school system.

Ten typical schools, two in Manhattan, three in Brooklyn, three in the Bronx, one in Queens, and one in Richmond, some with natural and some with artificial means of ventilation, were first investigated. Subsequently twenty-two other schools were investigated.

"It will be noted," the professors say, "that the three really admirably controlled schools are all fan-ventilated, as are the two which rank next in order. The three schools wholly or partly ventilated without fans are none of them wholly satisfactory, all showing more or less overheating. On the other hand, the two worst schools where overheating is an almost daily occurrence are both fan-ventilated. This brings out the fact that the heart of the whole problem is skilled and careful operation."

The atmospheric conditions in the night schools of the city were found to be unsatisfactory. Four different schools where night classes were held were visited between 8 and 10:30 P. M. These schools are reported as showing distinctly bad conditions both as to overheating and air stagnation aggravated in some instances by the burning of gas light.

The investigators emphasize the desirability of operating the fans in schools during night sessions.

These were some of the conclusions:

"The condition of the air in the New York schoolrooms investigated is, in general, good, so far as dust is concerned. We find an average of some 600,000 dust particles per cubic foot of air.

"The number of bacteria, molds, and other microbes in the air of these New York schools is small, averaging less than 100 per cubic foot, which is a normal value for good indoor air.

"The temperature of schoolroom air is one of the most important factors in the healthfulness of the schoolroom. * * * We find that, in general, conditions are excellent. Out of over 1,800 determinations of schoolroom temperature we find only 14 per cent. of the readings over 71 degrees, indicating that objectionable overheating is, on the whole, rare. In certain schools, particularly in evening sessions, however, conditions vary widely. A remarkable standard of excellence is maintained in certain cases, while other schools are carelessly operated and seriously overheated.

"In certain schools, as strikingly indicated by our thermograph charts, extravagant variations of temperatures, with gross overheating, are the rule rather than the exception, and the effect upon the health and efficiency of the children must be a serious one. In about one-sixth of the schoolrooms studied we found distinctly bad conditions, so far as temperature and carbon dioxide are concerned. * * * These bad conditions are not due primarily to faults of construction in the ventilating systems, but to careless operation on the part of the janitors or interference with janitors by teachers.

"In view of the fact that overheating is a chief evil to be avoided in the conditioning of schoolroom air, * * * we strongly urge that a thermograph of some approved type be installed in each school building, and that the records obtained be carefully inspected and made the basis for an efficient control of ventilating systems and janitorial service."

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

The fireless cooker, so much used in the United States and in some Continental countries, is practically unknown in and around Liverpool, England. Several efforts have been made to introduce it, but without success. This, however, has been the history of many attempts to introduce new articles in that market.

Plans have been completed for another new playhouse in Johannesburg, to be called the Royalty Theatre. It is to be erected at the corner of Eloff and De Villiers Streets, and is to be opened in February next.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

Aetz Venise lace, the Irish hand and machine embroidered style, is meeting with a good demand in its field.

Fine types of shadow lace, embodying Paraguay features in the design, are strong among the popular dress accessories for the coming Fall season.

A white moire dress, trimmed with fine white lace and having an accordion plaited flounce forming the lamp-shade skirt, is a late model shown among imported merchandise.

A traveling coat of white ratine, with pipings and buttons of smoked gray suede, is a recent creation. A black leather traveling cap with a gray straw brim is to be worn with this model.

SCHEPHERD HAS A RECEIVER

Court Acts on Application of Woman Who Wants $5,000.

Judge Holt of the United States Court has appointed Wilder Bellamy receiver for William J. Schepherd, a salesman, of 17 East Ninth Street, on the application of Florence May Heggie, who filed a petition in bankruptcy on Monday as a creditor for $5,000, and had previously caused his arrest for obtaining the money from her, as she alleged, on misrepresentations that it was to be used in litigation as a legatee of the estate of his father, Ferdinand S. Schepherd, in Washington, D. C.

She alleged that the defendant obtained $30,000 from four or five other creditors, and the only assets were what was left of this money. She has been informed, she says, that he has a safe deposit box in the Bank of the Metropolis and another in a downtown safe deposit vault containing valuable papers and documents.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

The Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday sustained a protest by Charles D. Stone & Co. over the classification under the Tariff act of 1909 of imitation jet buckles, and other goods of like material, returned by the Collector at Chicago at 85 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 448, as articles of personal adornment. The importers asked duty at 45 per cent., under Paragraph 109, covering manufactures of paste, and the board decided that a recent decision of the Customs Court of Appeals justified the reduction. Jewelry, or parts of jewelry, imported by William A. Brown & Co., C. B. Richard & Co., and Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne were accorded duty at 60 per cent. under the provision for jewelry. The Collector's assessment at 85 per cent. was reversed.

The board threw out protests by J. H. Bahrenburg Brothers & Co. and C. H. & C. W. Kimball. Importations of potatoes were condemned by the New York Board of Health. The importers asked a refund, as the potatoes were destroyed by official order. The protests failed because the Collector was not notified within twenty-four hours after the seizure.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The Nominating Committee of the New York Credit Men's Association has named the following ticket to be voted upon at the association's annual meeting to be held Sept. 18: President, E. D. Flannery; First Vice President, William F. H. Koelsch; Second Vice President, E. S. Boteler, and Treasurer, Owen Shepherd.

Hamburger Brothers, house garments for women, 142 West Twenty-sixth Street, have taken an additional loft in that building.

G. D. Gut is no longer connected with the Hamilton Embroidery Company. His territory is now being looked after by J. C. H. Kennedy, formerly with the H. B. Claflin Company.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Heavier Buying of Prints Expected.

Recent reductions in staple prints by the prominent printers of cottons are expected in jobbing circles to be productive of more active trading in these fabrics. August business was said yesterday by one large jobber to be good in the aggregate, and he was expecting excellent buying when the local and near-by trade came into line for Fall goods. So far this season sales of these goods have been made in comparatively small lots. The reductions were said to be made by the printers to stimulate trading on the part of the wholesalers, who seemed to think that 5½ cents was too high a selling basis for standard prints. The printers will protect the jobbers against loss on the goods bought from them earlier this season and still held in stock, and some of the jobbers will in turn protect the interests of their retail customers who have been recent buyers and who have not yet received their consignments. Whether all the jobbers will protect their customers under these conditions is problematical. Despite their protection of the jobbers, it is contended that the printers will benefit from the declines through the greater volume of business that will be tendered them as the season advances. In some quarters the belief was expressed, however, that the present reductions would not be in force very long.

A Substitute for Chinchilla.

Chinola is one of the newer furs that is being featured for the coming season. This fur is dyed to resemble chinchilla, and is made of Russian squirrel skins, from which the long hairs have been plucked. Chinola is considerably cheaper than chinchilla, and is meeting with buyers' approval. A coat that anybody but an expert would have difficulty in distinguishing from genuine chinchilla fur worth about $3,000 can be produced in chinola to retail at about $750, according to Louis Baer of Kohn & Baer. The dyer of this fur says that it will wear better than chinchilla, and guarantees it against taking on a yellowish tinge, as chinchilla sometimes does. Chinola is used for scarfs, muffs, and coats. Coat models of the 36 to 45-inch length, having the loose back effect and tight skirts, are especially well-liked, while a few models are shown with yoke effects. The chinola sport set, the wide deep muff and the animal scarf, is a leader in its field. Other novelties for scarfs and muffs this season are natural fitch, taupe-colored wolf, and fisher-colored wolverine. Moleskins are now colored purple, green and brown, and are being used extensively for millinery garniture. White fox, dyed purple and gold, is being used for scarfs, muffs, and trimmings.

Lawyers' Ethics Improving.

The National Jewelers' Board of Trade claims a share of the credit for the higher standards of ethics among commercial lawyers, which, it says, have been noticeable of late. "Due credit must also be given," the latest bulletin of the board says, "to the good work performed in this direction by the Commercial Law League of America. In the past there were too many insolvency cases in which certain firms of commercial attorneys represented both the debtor and the creditors. It is needless to say that in cases like these the interests of neither party could be properly safeguarded." In addition to protesting against this condition, the board has often refused to allow attorneys who were handling the interests of members to receive compensation from the debtor.

⁂

Hard Coal Buying Fair.

Reviewing the condition of the local coal market in the last week, The Coal Trade Journal will say to-day:

"While the anthracite trade is not particularly active, there has been a slight broadening in demand during the past week, and an even more noticeable increase in the number of inquiries coming to hand from retailers who are not quite ready to place orders but who want to know what the prospects are of obtaining prompt shipments next month, also what action is contemplated by certain companies in regard to the tax.

"Soft coal is in slightly better supply at some of the loading ports than was the case a week or ten days back, but this has had little, if any, effect on prices, especially for mine shipment. Certain grades are easier to produce for prompt loading at figures which have been ruling since early in the month; that is about the extent of the recent change in the character of the local market."

Rubber Down at London Sale.

Buying was not active at the regular fortnightly auction of crude rubber in London yesterday, and late cables said that only 400 of the 1,000 tons of plantation grades offered had been sold. Smoked sheets opened at 2s. 9d., and held this figure till the close of the day's trading. Pale crêpe opened at 2s. 7¾d., but later declined to 2s. 7¼d. Upriver fine was quoted at 3s. 5¾d. in London for August and September delivery, while October shipments were held at 3s. 4d. The local market was without important feature, with upriver fine quoted at 91@92 cents, and pale crêpe at 67@68 cents.

NEW AUTO TRAP SET IN CITY PARK

Snare for Unwary Near Mosholu Av.—New A. C. A. Secretary—Brooklyn Auto Men's Outing.

For motorists leaving New York for the north and those inward bound from Hudson River Valley points a new ambush has been laid in Van Cortlandt Park by the motor cycle police. This particular speed trap is concealed by bushes, and a number of the unwary have been caught therein. It is situated on the east side of Broadway, just north of the point where Mosholu Avenue crosses that thoroughfare. A convenient clump of shrubbery makes it possible for the bluecoats to conceal themselves handily at this spot and pounce out upon the unsuspecting automobilist who is shaking the dust of city streets too rapidly from his wheels or coming down the 262d Street hill, just to the north, at a bit too eager a pace.

While the proposed concrete highway from ocean to ocean is known officially as the Lincoln Highway, according to the articles of incorporation, H. B. Joy, President of the association which is raising the funds for the road, has named the undertaking "The Lincoln Way," a name which has been copyrighted and by which the highway may come to be universally known. It is reported that the response to the request for popular contributions for the road has been enthusiastic.

⁂

There has been a change of Secretaries in the Automobile Club of America. Elmer Thompson now holds that office for the club in place of W. A. Edwards, resigned.

⁂

An Italian inventor has placed on the market a new type of jar-absorbing wheel for automobiles. Instead of pneumatic tires this wheel has pneumatic cushions between the hub and the felly. This arrangement is intended not only to lessen ordinary road shocks but to minimize lateral shocks.

⁂

One of the difficulties which sellers of automobiles in the South have to meet is the unusual width of the road tracks in many places. Wagon tires in the South are generally broader than in the North, on account of the sandy roads, and for this reason many automobiles have to be altered from the standard tread of 56½ inches to a tread of 60 inches to meet this condition.

⁂

Brooklyn's "Automobile Row" will proceed to celebrate its third annual outing at College Point to-day. The outing, which is under the auspices of the Brooklyn Motor Vehicle Dealers' Association, is to have a full programme, including baseball, sports, boating, swimming, and two "spreads," a breakfast and a dinner.

EDUCATION NOTES.

The part-time problem in School District 25 is one of the things which is claiming the attention of the Board of Education. When the public schools closed last June there were in this district alone about 11,000 pupils on part time. This was an increase in one year of about 3,300 children thus handicapped. The local School Board of that district has recommended to the Board of Education the building of a new school in the neighborhood of 178th Street and Washington Avenue to relieve Public Schools 4, 28, and 44, which in June last had about 3,775 pupils on part time. It has also recommended the building of a new school in the centre of a triangle formed by lines connecting Public Schools 6, 32, and 44, which had in June last about 5,100 pupils on part time. It is said that in spite of the handicap of part time the school children in the district made satisfactory progress. A report prepared by District Supt. Taylor, who has charge of these schools, shows an average of 93.8 per cent. in spelling obtained in 350 classes, an average of 70 per cent. in arithmetic obtained in 497 classes, and a gain of from 1 to 27 per cent. in the results in music, elementary science, geography, composition, grammar, writing, spelling, and arithmetic in the last two years.

SWALLOWS POISON IN FIFTH AVENUE

Charles Kaplow of Skin-Grafting Notoriety Attempts a Spectacular Finish.

STOMACH PUMP SAVES HIM

Renounced His Religion to Marry a Hospital Nurse and Was Turned Out by His Father, He Says.

Charles Kaplow of 1,567 Wilkins Avenue, 22 years old, who has broken queerly into print several times because of his eagerness to offer himself as a sacrifice in skin-grafting for persons suffering from burns and in need of new skin, telephoned to his father yesterday afternoon that he was going to end his life and his troubles simultaneously. Then he went to a cigar store at the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-second Street and swallowed several tablets of bichloride of mercury. A few seconds later he fell fainting in the street.

Dr. Milbank of the Polyclinic Hospital chanced to be passing at the time and he immediately applied a stomach pump. This prompt intervention got the mercury tablets before they could get Kaplow, and when he was removed a little later to Bellevue Hospital, a prisoner, the physicians said he had a good chance to live.

According to Policeman Hale, who was one of the first to reach Kaplow after the attempt at suicide, the youth explained that he was driven to the act because his father had refused to recognize his bride of a few weeks, for whom he had renounced his Jewish faith.

Kaplow told the policeman he had gone to Gouverneur Hospital on July 13 to offer his skin for a grafting operation, by which several square inches of his cuticle were grafted on to a patient. While recovering from the operation, Miss Beulah Powers, a young woman graduate of a Southern college, was his nurse, and with her he at once fell in love. The same thing, apparently, happened to Miss Powers, and the very next day she left the hospital with him to become his wife.

In order to marry her, Kaplow said, he renounced the Jewish religion and adopted the faith of his bride, who was a Baptist. The couple went to the City Hall, procured a license, and were married.

Kaplow then took his bride home to his parents. But when he told them that he had changed his religion, he said, they would not admit his wife to the house, and turned him out also, as one henceforth dead to them. Then, Kaplow said, he got a room at 835 Second Avenue. Unable to get work, however, he became more and more dejected, and yesterday, after telephoning to his father that he was going to give up the struggle, he bought a bottle of mercury tablets and swallowed a few.

At Gouverneur Hospital the young man's story was verified in so far as it related to his operation there and to his leaving the hospital with Miss Powers.

The skin-grafting operation mentioned by Kaplow was not the first in his history. In May last he appeared in answer to an advertisement in a Paterson paper, to offer thirty-two inches of skin from his thigh for grafting on the body of seven-year-old William Coldwell of Nutley, N. J. Kaplow, a strong, athletic fellow, said he was out of work, and out of funds, but he refused to accept remuneration for his sacrifice, saying that he wanted only to help the boy, whose life depended on obtaining 180 inches of healthy skin to replace his own, which had been burned away. Kaplow's offer was accepted, and the operation performed, thirty-two inches of Kaplow's skin, nearly a quarter of an inch thick, being transferred to the Coldwell boy's body.

At that time Kaplow said his father was engaged in the clothing business, and lived in St. Paul. He himself, he said, had been a swimming instructor for the Y. M. C. A. at St. Paul, and had assisted in a similar capacity in New York. He said, too, that he had once before undergone a skin-grafting operation whereby skin from his thigh was transferred to the body of a girl named Bertha Wucher of 533 Fifth Street, Manhattan. Traces of that operation were still to be seen on his thigh.

Kaplow professed to have only an altruistic motive in offering himself so often for skin-grafting purposes. He displayed many newspaper clippings chronicling his experiences and acts from time to time.

DETECTIVES SUSPENDED.

Waldo Acts After They Bungle Springing of Alleged Graft Trap.

Because they bungled in springing the trap in which Police Commissioner Waldo thought to catch George D. Hawthorne, assistant bookkeeper in the Pension Bureau of the Department, Detectives Zsmunsky and Murphy of the staff of Deputy Commissioner Newburger were suspended yesterday and will be tried on charges of neglect of duty. Chief Magistrate McAdoo declined to issue a warrant for the arrest of Hawthorne, and Inspector Faurot himself admitted that the police did not have a case against him.

The trap was laid after George Carrougate, a department pensioner, reported that Hawthorne had offered to engineer an increase if he would pay over $150. That sum in marked bills was turned over to Carrougate with instructions to pay it to the bookkeeper. When Zsmunsky and Murphy pounced on Hawthorne the marked money was not on him. The detectives allowed five minutes to elapse after Carrougate left Hawthorne before they made the search. Of the $150, $10 was found in Carrougate's pocket. He says that in his nervousness it stuck there when he took the rest out. Meanwhile the $140 has disappeared.

GIRL WEARS MALE GARB.

Wanted to Earn Man's Pay, She Tells Magistrate.

Dressed in male attire, consisting of a brown golf cap, blue serge suit, and tan oxfords, a young woman, who said she was Catherine Clark, was arraigned in the Adams Street Court, Brooklyn, yesterday on a charge of vagrancy. Magistrate Voorhees held her in $500 bail for examination to-morrow. Meanwhile Capt. Bernard Hayes of the Flushing Avenue Police Station is making every effort to establish her identity.

For some time past the Captain had been receiving complaints that a girl masquerading as a man was going about his precinct, and had been seen in various saloons. On Monday evening the Captain took Detective Bridgetts with him and started on the trail of the girl-man. After a search that lasted several hours he entered a saloon at Adelphi Street and Flushing Avenue.

In a rear room seated about a table smoking cigarettes and with glasses of beer in front of them sat what seemed to be four young men. Detective Bridgetts approached the slimmest and most youthful-looking one of the four and said:

"You are a woman."

The accused person made emphatic denial, but Bridgetts was obdurate. He took his prisoner to the station house, where she was given to the care of Matron Sullivan. In court yesterday the girl refused to tell the probation officer, Miss Fish, anything about herself except that her name was Catherine Clark. To Magistrate Voorhees she said:

"I am tired of being a girl. I want to work with men and get a man's pay. I am tired of the worries of a girl who works in factories at a salary that will not keep body and soul together. I used to be employed, when I was a girl, in a book bindery, and expected to get work in that business as a man. I suppose there is no hope for that now."

Miss Clark is 24 years old, and about 5 feet 4 inches in height. Her dark brown hair was cut short and parted in the middle. Her face is rather long and her voice a deep contralto. This helped along her disguise. She wore a neat negligee shirt with a turned-down collar and a four-in-hand tie. In the tie was a gold stickpin set with a ruby and a diamond. She had a watch fob with an Odd Fellows emblem. She could not furnish bail and was taken to Raymond Street Jail still dressed in her blue serge suit.

SHOT IN FIGHT, DYING.

Man Accused of Firing Bullet Wanted in Another Case.

Stephen Curran, 24 years old, a driver, of 764 Manhattan Avenue, Greenpoint, who had been in hiding for five months following a shooting escapade in Greenpoint, in which a stray bullet struck a baby named Edward Horvath in the forehead, was arrested early yesterday morning after getting into a fight in Martin's saloon in 426 Jackson Avenue, Long Island City, and shooting Frederick Lastvogel, 29 years old, a special watchman.

The bullet penetrated Lastvogel's lung, and it was reported last evening that he was dying in St. John's Hospital. Curran, who was arraigned before Magistrate Conway in the Long Island City Court, is locked up in the Queens County Jail without bail.

TALES OF PASTOR AND GIRL.

Asked Not to Occupy His Pulpit Pending Investigation.

Special to The New York Times.

BELVIDERE, N. J., Aug. 26.—The Rev. Harry W. Forraday, pastor of the Methodist Church here, has been asked not to occupy his pulpit pending the investigation by a committee of the Paterson District of the Newark Conference into gossip connecting his name with that of the 15-year-old daughter of a member of his church.

She was a pupil in the Sunday school, and there are stories current in the village about his conduct in July and early August while Mrs. Forraday and their little daughter were in Ocean Grove. The pastor, who has retained counsel, enters a full denial.

Hoboken Opens Municipal Market.

Hoboken opened its municipal market yesterday in a ten-acre city lot at Clinton and Ninth Streets, and 5,000 women responded to the opportunity to go to market in the old-fashioned way. They found the prices low and the stock fresh. It was 8:30 o'clock in the morning when the last empty wagon pulled out. The market will be open every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday from now on.

CHILDREN CAN STUDY HYGIENE IN MUSEUM

Better Place to Learn Than from Books, Dr. Winslow Tells Educators.

SCHOOLS SHOULD SWAT FLY

Prof. Hodge Advocates Use of Fly Traps by Children at International Hygiene Congress.

BUFFALO, Aug. 26.—Among the forty papers which were read before the meeting to-day of the International Congress of School Hygiene, now holding its fourth annual session in Buffalo, the greatest attention was paid by the scientists and educators present to one on museum co-operation in the teaching of school hygiene and sanitation by Dr. C. E. A. Winslow, Curator of Public Health of the American Museum of Natural History, New York City.

"The relation of insects to disease," said Dr. Winslow, "is a particularly fruitful field for museum work and is the one upon which we are chiefly engaged at the present time. The American Museum of Natural History in New York City already has in its Department of Invertebrate Zoology wonderful enlarged models of mosquitos and the Department of Health has just installed a model of the house fly, enlarged forty diameters, which took its skilled artist-modeler, Ignaz Mateusch, nearly a year to complete. A wide series of facts bearing on the life history of the fly are illustrated as well as the relation of the fly to disease, the practical methods for its control, and the results achieved thereby. A similar, but more enlarged, model of the flea (carrier of bubonic plague) is now under preparation, and we have already installed models, some small and some life size, dealing with the rats which harbor the plague microbe and from which the flea carries it to man. The opportunity for future development here, and in connection with the mosquitos of malaria and yellow fever, and a score of other disease carriers, is a tempting one which we hope to develop in the next few years.

"This hall is our first opportunity to serve the public schools in the work of health education. They bring their classes to the museum in one of the periods allotted to civic biology, and in an hour with these models and diagram learn more than they could get from books and lectures in a month."

A feature of to-day's meeting was the large number of women who spoke, among them Miss Cordelia L. O'Neill, Principal of the Marion School; Miss Lillian F. Murney, Principal of Murray Hill school of Cleveland; Miss Suzie V. Powell, Supervisor of School Improvement, Jackson, Miss., and Miss Grace Bohne, Director of the Child Study Laboratory, Rochester.

Taking the house fly as a practical lesson in his address on "Learning Disease Prevention in School," Prof. C. F. Hodge of Clark University, Worcester, Mass., invoked the aid of school children in the war to exterminate the pest. He suggested the use of fly traps by the children and the abolition of possible breeding places for flies.

The fifth annual convention of the National Probation Association was also held here to-day in connection with the Hygiene Congress. Judge Harvey H. Baker, Judge of the Juvenile Court of Boston, was the principal speaker. At a joint meeting of the association and the national conference on the education of backward, truant, delinquent, and dependent children Dr. Hastings H. Hart, Director of the Child Saving Department of the Russell Sage Foundation, New York, led in a round-table discussion on the "Defective Delinquent."

AMELIE RIVES SUES.

Authoress Wants $3,000 from C. P. Du Vergey for Road Accident.

Princess Amélie Rives Troubetzkoy, the authoress and former wife of John Armstrong Chaloner, began suit in the Supreme Court yesterday to recover $3,000 damages from Charles P. Du Vergey of Coxsackie, N. Y., as the result of a riding accident in Virginia for which, she says, the defendant and his automobile were directly responsible.

On Oct. 29, 1912, according to the complaint of the Princess, she was riding horseback with her husband, Prince Pierre Troubetszkoy, and her sister, Miss Landon Rives, on a road in Virginia near Cobham, the present home of Chaloner, when an automobile, in disregard of her warning signal, rushed by at full speed, striking her horse and thereby causing her to be thrown. The injury to the horse she places at $1,000. Her fall, she says, decreased her literary output to the sum of $2,000.

After the car had flashed by the Princess and her party telephoned to surrounding towns, and learned that the number of the automobile was 86,757 New York. By communicating with the Secretary of State of New York the identity of the owner was established. Upon information and belief, the Princess states that the owner was the driver of the car at the time of her accident.

EVELYN TILTS WITH LAWYER

"I'm an Experienced Witness," She Says—"You Are," He Agrees.

Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw appeared yesterday before Referee Stanley W. Dexter to be examined concerning her possible assets in connection with the petition in voluntary bankruptcy which she filed on Aug. 1. The witness acknowledged that she had received three conditional notes for $5,000 each, under an agreement entered into in 1908 with Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, the mother of Harry Thaw, by which she was to be paid $15,000 outright and an annuity of $12,000 provided she started proceedings to annul her marriage to Thaw.

Under the present status of her case she could not realize any money from these notes, she said. They had been in the possession of her attorney, John Reilly. She thought one had been sold, but could not say positively.

Julius Offenbach, attorney for the Gorham Silver Company, one of her principal creditors, conducted the examination, and often pressed the witness so closely that her ire was aroused. When the attorney attempted by questions to prove that the $5,000 notes were assets of her estate, Mrs. Evelyn Thaw became much irritated, and said:

"Why not be sensible? You are so peevish. Why ask me all these silly questions when my attorney, Mr. Reilly, is willing and able to answer all of them?"

"I do not care to hear your opinions on this examination," was the retort of the lawyer.

"Then why question me further?" said Mrs. Thaw. "You know I am an experienced witness."

Attorney Offenbach contented himself with replying: "Yes, both you and your record show that only too well."

When Mrs. Evelyn Thaw was asked whether she had ever brought proceedings for the annulment of her marriage it seemed as though it were on her lips to answer "Yes," but her attorneys objected to the question on the ground that it might incriminate her.

The examination was suddenly brought to an end by Evelyn Thaw's remembering that she had a singing lesson on her schedule, and the hearing was continued until Sept. 2.

RETURNS STOLEN LACES.

Harris Tells Court He Wants to Give Back Shawls of Magistrate's Wife.

When Jacob Harris of 147 Norfolk Street and Frank Martin of 162 Bowery were arraigned before Judge Foster in the Court of General Sessions yesterday on a charge of stealing two point lace shawls valued at $900, which Mrs. Joseph F. Corrigan, wife of Magistrate Corrigan, had sent to a shop at 176 Madison Avenue for storage, Harris intimated that he would like to speak privately to Judge Foster.

"I feel very badly about those shawls of Mrs. Corrigan's," the prisoner whispered. "I'd like to get them back again for her, and if you'll let me go with a detective, I'll find them."

"Why can't you tell me where they are?" Judge Foster asked.

"I can't do that," was the reply. "Why won't you send Al Thomas of the District Attorney's detective bureau with me? You may be sure that I will be brought back, and Thomas is the only man I will go out with and trust."

The trial was adjourned and Detective Thomas was summoned. He and Harris then went up town, just where neither the prisoner nor the detective would divulge. In about two hours they returned, bringing the shawls, which were turned over to Assistant District Attorney Bostwick, who promised that they would be restored to the owner. Harris went back to the Tombs apparently contented.

Harris would say only that he went "uptown" and from there sent a messenger to a certain address, who returned with the shawls.

Coney Names John Bunny as King.

The business men of Coney Island assembled yesterday to select a king for the Mardi Gras Carnival which is to enliven the week of Sept. 8 chose no less a person than John Bunny, the funny man, whose round face is familiar to the patrons of the "movies" from Alaska to Florida. King John promptly chose Lillian Walker of 1,880 East Thirteenth Street, Brooklyn, as his queen. They will be crowned in the centre of Luna Park at 7 o'clock on the evening of Sept. 8.

THE PANAMA SPRUNG A LEAK

Repaired and on Her Way to Canal Zone at Last Report.

Much uneasiness was entertained in shipping circles yesterday when a wireless message was received from the Captain of the Panama liner Panama to the effect that that vessel had sprung a leak and was returning to New York as fast as she could in her disabled condition. Later, however, a second wireless message was received, reporting that the trouble had been found and that repairs were being made at sea. The message also said that the Panama had resumed her voyage and that she was in no danger.

Neither of the messages gave any details of the trouble beyond the statement that the water had risen in No. 1 and No. 2 holds. The Panama sailed from New York with passengers and freight for the Canal Zone on Monday.
